

OREGON

Graduates Scattered Far and Wide in Every Line of Work;
Many Answer Call to Service in Nation's Army and Navy

ALUMNI

MANY OREGON ALUMNI ANSWER CALL TO ARMS

JAUREGUY AT FORT STEVENS; KELLY, '12, NOW IN FRANCE; ELLIOTT RECEIVES COMMISSION.

J. Wilhelm, Ernest Vosper, Martin Nelson All in Training at RCamp Lewis.

War has drawn perhaps as great a per cent of Oregon alumni into military service as it has from the University student body itself.

Nicholas Jaureguy, '17, president of the student body last year, obtained an appointment to the Presidio last spring and is now a second lieutenant in the coast artillery at Fort Stevens.

Kelly Now Major.

John Kelly, the last engineer to be graduated from the University before the engineering department was moved to O. A. C., is now a major in the engineers' corps and serving in France. Kelly was northwest champion wrestler at 145 pounds while he was at Oregon, and when taking post graduate work at Boston Technical Institute a year later he won the championship in the eastern collegiate conference.

John "Kiser" Wilhelm, '16, a brother of Rudolph Wilhelm, Oregon golf champion, is now at American Lake field headquarters.

Bob McMurray, '16, is at the officers' training camp at the Presidio.

Bowen a First Sergeant.

Alex Bowen, '17, a leader in dramatics while in the University, is now a first sergeant in the quartermaster corps at Palo Alto, California. Bowen went directly into service following his graduation last spring.

Ernest Vosper, '15, Varsity yell leader during his senior year, is now in the Eugene ambulance corps in training at American Lake. Following his graduation from Oregon, Vosper attended the University of California and a year ago he led one hundred and sixty-five Oregon students and alumni in yells given at the California-Oregon football game at Berkeley, notwithstanding the fact that he was then a California student.

John Elliott, '17, is now a second lieutenant in the regular army, having received his appointment at the end of the first course in military training given at the Presidio reserve officers' training camp. Martin Nelson, '17, captain of the Oregon track team last year, is now serving as sergeant in the Eugene ambulance corps stationed at Camp Lewis, Washington.

In Civil Life.

Among Oregon alumni who are not in military service is Anse Cornell, famed Oregon quarterback, who is now manager of a flour mill company at Caldwell, Idaho. Another is Earl Bronaugh, '17, who has been working in a law office in Portland the past summer and who recently took the state bar examination at Salem.

Karl Becke, '17, a member of the student council, is now employed as state statistician in the accident bureau at the state house in Salem.

Among the commissions issued at the close of the first officers' reserve training camps were those won by Lamar and Leslie Tooze, members of the class of '16. Leslie, who is now stationed at American Lake, took his training at the Presidio, while his brother was commissioned at the Plattsburg camp. Both were awarded second lieutenantcies, but Lamar has since been promoted to first lieutenant and is one of the officers in charge of the draft army at Ayer, Mass. Walter L. Tooze, Jr., an older brother, was commissioned as captain at the Presidio and now commands a company at American Lake.

Cleve Simpkins, who formerly was teaching fellow in the department of zoology here, and a graduate of the class of 1915, has been given a year's leave of absence by the United States war department in order that he may study at the Harvard medical school. Simpkins enlisted in the hospital corps and was stationed at Bremerton, Washington. He has been granted a fellowship at Harvard.

From Max H. Sommer, ex-'16, and former editor of the Emerald, who has been connected with the firm of Kauffman & Sommer, of San Francisco since he resigned from the staff of the Portland Journal last winter, comes word that he intends to enlist in either quartermaster or ordnance corps of the army within the near future.

Carl Fenton, listed among the greatest athletes ever graduated from the University, is in the service of his country. Following his failure to secure a commission in the reserve officers' training camp, he returned to Company L, Third Oregon Infantry, of which he was a member before going to the Presidio.

Edward H. Himes, a graduate of the University in the days when engineering was included as one of the departments, received a commission as second lieutenant in the engineering corps during the summer. He is now located at Dallas, awaiting summons for active duty.

"Bots" Avison, who graduated from the University Law School in June, is now in the paymaster's department at the Seattle naval training station.

Harold Bean, whose letters have been appearing of late in the Sunday Oregonian, is another ex-Oregon boy now in the service of the government. According to his last letter, he is serving with the Red Cross in the front line trenches in France.

Walter McClure, of the class of 1913, is somewhere in France as a captain of infantry under General Pershing. McClure, while at Oregon, was a famous track man and one of the American team to participate in the Olympia games of 1912.

Eberle Kuykendall is captain of the 14th ambulance company stationed at American Lake. There is a large number of former Oregon men in this company, all of the officers being former students at the University.

Harry L. Kuck, '16, Lawrence Dineen, '15, both prominent in journalistic circles on the campus during their undergraduate days, are included in the roll of Company L, Third Oregon Infantry.

William R. Boone, of the Class of 1915, writes from "somewhere in Kansas," that he has been selected for the officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan, Illinois.

J. R. Barber, who after graduating from Oregon attended West Point, is connected with the adjutant general's office at Washington, D. C.

Eric Lane and Paul Bond are both first lieutenants in the Coast Artillery regulars and are stationed at Fort Stevens.

Harry Vierick, '15, is stationed at Camp Oglethorpe, Georgia. He is a second lieutenant in the medical corps stationed there.

Eyer Brown is with the U. S. engineers and is stationed at Camp Greene, North Carolina.

Elmer Furuset, '14, is stationed at American Lake with the Fourteenth Ambulance corps.

Frank Beach is at Bremerton serving as paymaster of the second division of the Oregon naval militia.

Louis Beebe is a first lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Corps at Fort Stevens.

Ed. Bailey, '13, is in the marines and is stationed at Mare Island.

NEW ALUMNI ASSOCIATION AT JOHN DAY

Ida Johnson, '16, Elected President; Jean Bell, '17 Secretary.

Numbered among the latest county organizations of Oregon alumni is the one organized September 26 at John Day, Oregon. This association includes all of Grant county and although the meetings are few and far between, the spirit of "do something for Oregon" seems to permeate even to that remote portion of the state. Ida Johnson, '16, was elected president, and Jean Bell, '17, secretary.

The members of the association are: Claribel Williams, ex-'20, Roxie Denny, Zetta Mitchell, ex-'19, Henry Thorsett, '17, D.W. Boitnott, Ida Johnson, '16, Allen Rothwell, '17, and Jean Bell, '17.

ARROW COLLARS
20¢

2 for 35¢
3 for 50¢

CLUETT-PEABODY & CO. INC.-MAKERS

In Civil Walks

Lucile Cogswell '15, and Mrs. Hazel Barta Pague, ex-'16, were guests at the Delta Gamma house during the opening week of college. Miss Cogswell has recently been studying dancing under Miss Ruth St. Dennis, at Denishawn.

A recent issue of the Multnomah Club Bulletin contains the following extract: "Among the new members of the club is John R. Montague, one of Bill Hayward's best track stars at the University of Oregon. He specializes in the 440 and 880."

Another former University of Oregon student fell a victim of the blind God Cupid last June, this time it being Annette H. Smedley, of the class of 1913, who became the wife of Arthur U. Minster, at West Chester, Pennsylvania.

C. W. Converse, a former student of the University and once a member of the faculty, is now professor of mathematics in Eureka Junior College.

Ferdinand Newbar, 1912, until recently in the department of astronomy at the University of California, is now teaching in the government nautical school at San Francisco.

Harold Quigley, a member of the University graduating class of 1914, is a member of the faculty of Jefferson high school, in Portland.

Clyde Duniway, '86, former president of the University of Wyoming, is now president of Colorado State College.

Clyde B. Aitchison, who took graduate work at the University, is now a member of the interstate commerce commission.

Jeannette Wheatley, '17, of Hillsboro, and Lucille Watson, '17, of Carlton, were guests at the Alpha Phi house during last week.

Ruth Hall, '12, formerly botany assistant in the University, is in training at the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland.

Naomi Williams, formerly of the Eugene high school faculty, is now teaching in the LaGrande high school.

Marian McDonald is instructor of English, Latin and German in the Yamhill high school.

Elizabeth Houston has been appointed supervisor of music in the Klamath Falls high school.

Mrs. Dean Walker (Virginia Peterson, '16) was a guest of Kappa Alpha Theta last week.

Ruth Roche, '17, is instructor of physical education in the San Francisco Normal.

Jennie Huggins, '17, is instructor of science and history in the St. Helens high school.

Charlie Fenton, '16, is employed in the San Francisco Federal Reserve bank.

Alice Gram, ex-'18, is society editor for the Portland Spectator.

Claribel Williams, ex-'19, is teaching in Mount Vernon, Oregon.

Mrs. Anne Hales Tegart is teaching school near Gresham, Oregon.

Anne Dawson, ex-'18, is enrolled at Northwestern University.

J. CLYDE PATTEE MARRIED TO MISS EDITH BAKER.

Miss Edith A. Baker and J. Clyde Pattee were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. D. Baker, on the evening of August fourth, Rev. Geo. H. Parkinson officiating.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pattee are graduates of the University of Oregon, and it was while a student at this institution that Mr. Pattee met his wife. Mrs. Pattee graduated in the class of 1911, but took post graduate work and received a master's degree in 1913. Mr. Pattee was graduated in the class of 1913 and since leaving school has been general manager of the Pacific Power and Light Company at Waitsburg, Washington.

Cold Buckwheats

Unskilful printing, like cold buckwheats, is a total loss.

Trouble is a fellow always orders in good faith. And it isn't 'til the goods are actually laid before him that the "Total Loss" is discovered.

That's why some people are particular where they eat and where they order printing.

We print every job as though it were a regular stickler for quality. This is the sort of work we like best to do.

Besides we have to live with our memories.

Our phone is one-o-three. Easy to remember, isn't it?

YORAN PRINTING HOUSE

Eugene, Oregon

Kuykendall Drug Store

870 Willamette St.

Phone 23

Maxwell Jitney Service

DAN E. MARSTERS, Proprietor

The All Night Service

Phone 114

No Fords

Rex Floral Co.

Chrysanthemums for Football Games
Corsage Banquets a Specialty

Prompt Delivery

Rex Theatre Building. Phone 962

Table Supply Co.

Phone 246

Groceries and Delicatessen

YOURS FOR SERVICE

Well, here we are again

The only place in Eugene to get live crabs, clams, oysters, crawfish etc. I specialize on sea foods of all kinds and will be grateful for student patronage.

The Imperial

721 Willamette

Telephone 579

Special Bargain Prices on Furniture and Rugs for Students' Rooms

Terms if desired

Applegate Furniture Co.

We save you money