LIBERTY BONDS AND CLASS MEMORIALS.

What is to be the response of the University of Oregon to the Second Liberty Loan? She has given generously of her sons to the Army and Navy; she has revolutionized her course of study to meet the demands of the unusual conditions which the Nation is facing; she has grasped the food-saving idea in a manner to attract attention throughout the country—now she faces the problem of supplying financial aid to the Government.

Oregon is not a rich college. Her students, for the most part, are securing their education at the expense of sacrifices made by their parents, or by the work they do outside of school hours. There are a few on the campus who have the money with which to purchase at least one bond—most of them have not. But, somehow or other, the students will afford to supply their share, and more, of the money needed to carry the war to a successful conclusion.

Nine hundred dollars' worth of the bonds have already been taken by fraternities, sororities and other campus organizations and the campaign is yet but two days old. Before the end of the week the remaining houses and clubs will have made subscriptions expected to double the amount already subscribed. Each of these subscriptions means some sacrifice cheerfully made, but it does not indicate the length of sacrifice to which Oregon students will go. They only ask that some further means by which they can assist in floating the loan be pointed out, that they may take advantage of it.

There are four organizations on the campus whose scope of membership extends to every student and whose participation in the Liberty Loan would extend to every student the opportunity and satisfaction of having done his, or her share. Let each and every member of the classes contribute what they are able toward the purchase of a bond, or bonds, and let the bonds be purchased in the name of the class.

Through custom, each class as it bids farewell to the University, leaves behind it some memorial. Established as a scholarship, what memorial more fitting than a Liberty bond could any class in the University during this, the world's greatest struggle for democracy, leave behind it.

JAPANESE STUDENT TO APPEAR IN "SOYONARA"

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS TO OPEN DRAMATIC SEASON AT GUILD HALL THURSDAY AND FRIDAY.

Touch of Oriental Realism Given to Story of the Land of Cherry Blossoms.

Thursday night will mark the opening of Guild hall for this season with the production of three one-act plays given by the members of the classes in dramatic interpretation, under the direction of Prof. A. F. Reddie. Toschi Atake, a Japanese girl studying in the Eugene Bible University to become a missionary among her own people, will add much to the first of these three plays, "Sayonara," a Japanese play. She will play a Japanese musical instrument during the act and will lend realism to the severe simplicity of the Japanese setting. Throughout the play there will be Japanese music, under the direction of Miss Ruth Miller, a member of the department and a harpist of some note.

Mrs. Catherine Thorne, who takes the part of "Kati-San," was for fifteen years one of the leading Shakespearean actresses of the country. As she expresses it, she "has cried on the bosom of every noted Shakespearean star of her day, with the exception of Mansfield."

"The Friend of Man," the second of these plays, is an allegorical play and will be especially interesting because it was written by J. Frederic Thorne, a former Eugene newspaperman.

"The Stragglers," a little play full of comedy and pathos, will be the third. It is a character study of an old veteran of the battle of Waterloo, who when asked what he remembered particularly about the battle, replied that what affected him most was that he had lost a bet on the outcome.

The three plays will be repeated Friday night. The Eugene chapter of the Red Cross is giving the plays its support and the net profits will be turned over to the Red Cross fund to be used as the association sees fit.

RECORD REGISTRATION AT O. A. C.

Registration of 1,550 students at O. A. C. is the largest in the history of the college. The class of 1918 is approximately the same size as last year's senior class. The freshman class is about the same as that of last year. Sophomores show a gain of 160, which more than offsets a loss of about 125 in the junior class.

REGISTRATION IN LAW IS PLEASING TO DEAN

OREGON SCHOOL'S LOSS OF TEN COMPARES FAVORABLY WITH OTHER COLLEGES, SAYS DR. E. W. HOPE.

Library Now Has $3,500 Collection of 3,000 Volumes Collected in Two Years.

Twenty-five men and one woman are registered as majors in the School of Law. While this is a decrease of ten from last year's number, Dean Edward W. Hope expressed today his satisfaction with the registration.

"The law courses are very satisfactory this year," said he. "We did not expect as many in the department as we have, for law schools all over the United States are suffering a great loss of students, and we have been fortunate in such a small decrease. Pennsylvania had 256 registered last year in their law school; this year there are only 41 enrolled."

The law department has opened two new courses this year; a class in business law on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, in which there are 35 men registered, five of whom are Eugene business men, and six women; and a class in law of contract, Friday nights in Judge Morrow's court, Portland.

"Much interest is taken in these courses by local attorneys," said Dean Hope, "and their entrance into the class discussion is a helpful element."

Eight hundred eleven dollars and sixty cents was spent by the department on law books this summer, totaling $3,500 spent on the law library during the past year, and bringing the number of books up to 3,000 volumes. This collection was made in two years.

SHELDON WILL REPRESENT UNIVERSITY

To Attend Douglas County Teachers' Meeting at Roseburg.

Professor H. D. Sheldon, dean of the School of Education, will represent the University at the meeting of the Douglas County Teachers' Association, beginning Wednesday, October 24. This is an annual gathering held for the purpose of outlining the work for the coming year for all the teachers of the county. Every teacher and instructor of the county is required to be present at all meetings held.

The University sends a delegate to each of these conventions each year. This year Professor Sheldon will attend most of them, and the rest will fall to Professors DeBusk, Kilpatrick, Powers and Conklin.

The Douglas county meeting will last three days, closing Friday, October 26.

RED CROSS WORK WILL OCCUPY MEETING

Y. W. C. A. to Discuss Campus Service at Bungalow Tomorrow.

Practical campus service and Red Cross service at home and abroad, will be the topics under discussion at the Y. W. C. A. meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the bungalow. Mrs. M. L. Bugbee, who is active in the city chapter of the Red Cross, will speak on the purposes of Red Cross, and Ruth Wilson, president of the Y. W. C. A., will tell personal observations of practical service that could be rendered upon the University campus.

This meeting will be informal, says Ruth Westfall, president of the University chapter of Red Cross, who will preside.

"We want every girl's hands busy with some sort of work. If they haven't knitting, they should bring their needles and thimbles, and the Red Cross will furnish the rest," said Miss Westfall.

Bernice Ingalls will sing several selections during the afternoon.

UNIVERSITY GIRLS TO STUDY PSALMS

Miss Watson's Bible Class to Meet Wednesday.

The study of the Psalms is to be taken up by the members of Miss Mary Watson's Bible class Wednesday evening at seven o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. bungalow. The class is especially for upperclassmen and sophomores, although every girl is invited.

The freshmen will meet with Dean Fox a week from Thursday at four o'clock, and their studies will be taken from a book entitled "Student Standards of Action," which is the beginning book of a regular four years' course. The subjects in the freshman course include college friendships, the student and the church, student honor, laws of achievement, readjustments, Christian chivalry, Christian loyalty, student initiative and the college ideal.

Y. M.-Y. W. C. A. FRIDAY MIX PROGRAM MINUS DANCE, TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON

Misunderstanding About Character of Entertainment is Corrected by Macpherson.

A program for the Y. M. C. A.-Y. W. C. A. mix, which will not include dancing as has been rumored, is now being worked out by joint committees of the two organizations, and will be ready for announcement in a few days, according to James Macpherson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The mix will be given Friday night.

"There has been some misunderstanding as to the character of the program," said Mr. Macpherson, "and we desire to correct this mistake. There will be no dancing, as was previously announced, but a splendid program has been arranged, which will include musical selections and individual stunts."

The general committee for the Y. M.-Y. W. C. A. mix is composed of the following: Thurston Laraway, chairman; Rowland Nichol, Harold White and Mike Harris for the Y. M. C. A.; and Catherine Johnson, chairman; Helen McDonald, Eve Hutchinson, Nellie Parker and Pearl Craine for the Y. W. C. A.

COMMUNICATIONS

To the Editor of the Emerald:

Now that the regents have held their meeting, I feel that I can speak to the students of the University. The regents have cleared me of the charge of disloyalty to my government brought by the Eugene Commercial club. That is the important thing to me. They have also accepted my resignation from the University faculty. That is a disappointment.

But this is what I want the students to know. I want them to know that I appreciate, more than I can say, their attitude toward me during this trying time. Not alone their words, but their cordial greetings, I shall always remember. In leaving the University, I will go not knowing of a single student who feels unkindly toward me.

This makes the going a happy one. This happens will not be modified even by the report that is being circulated away from here, but sent out from Eugene, that the students sent in a strong petition asking for my removal from the University.

I want especially to thank the Emerald for its treatment of this case. It has not been partial to me, but it has been what I like better, it has been fair. I was the editor of the student paper in its second year. It was then called the Oregon Weekly (sometimes spelled Weakly). I defeated my old time opponent, Ned Blythe, for the position as editor. I know now that Ned was much better qualified for the job than I was. This has been proved by Ned's long service as Northwest editor of the Oregonian, whereas I worked as a local reporter for the Oregonian only a little while when Mr. Piper accepted my resignation without asking for it. Ned is now working for a better paper, the Oregon Journal. He is a fine man and would have been editor of the Weekly if he had been a better politician. When Ned was helping to make the Oregonian a better paper than it is now, he never allowed that fact to affect his loyalty to the University. He is one of the best friends the University has. The year I was editor of the Weekly, the editorials were usually very good. Most of them were written by Bill Johnson, a classmate of mine. I wished for Bill several times lately.

I want to pay the Emerald the greatest compliment that could be paid to it by a former editor: the paper is, I believe, as good as when I ran it.

Student papers, like other papers, may have many qualities of greatness, but the quality of all others that I like to see my University paper have, is fairness. The Emerald is fair.

Cordially yours,
ALLEN EATON.

the Treasury McAdoo to purchase liberty bonds. To date we have taken more than $3,000 worth of bonds and have set $6,000 as the mark, or one bond of $50 denomination to each man. We are especially proud of this action, because only a few days ago we read statistics from Washington stating that the medical and sanitary troops suffered the greatest casualties of any branch of service.

Three Motorcycles on Hand.

"Among the duties of any ambulance company is to guard the whole medical and sanitary division, and at this task we have been for the last two weeks. Everybody from buck privates to Major General Greene, commander of the 91st division, has been halted by our men at night. Eleven privates have been on duty for the last month examining the thousands of drafted men here."
