

PAJAMA PARADE TOMORROW IS TO BE BIG DISPLAY OF JAZZ

(Leith Abbott.)

"I'm telling you that is going to be some event. We have oozed along in the muddy mire of inactivity long enough, and Friday night will see the biggest outbreak of Oregon Spirit which has occurred this year," said a senior yesterday in speaking of the pajama parade which will be held Friday night.

The pajama parade is the one big "jazzing up" event of the school year. It is always held before the first intercollegiate game on the campus, and in past years has brought forth the pepper and jazz of the Oregon student body which has been heralded over the United States and especially among universities on the Pacific coast as invincible. The pajama parade marks the end of the period of "just starting to school" and marks the beginning of those cherished days when the many students of Oregon gather together as one to talk jazz, to think pepper, and to display interest in the football team and the other teams of the University. It is the beginning of those good old days which are marked by midnight sessions of the bulldog pipe, and full peg-top pants type of activity which the older graduates displayed when barber poles were found missing and the cackle of chickens broke the stillness of the midnight air.

String Crandall Leader.

Every upperclass man is on the committee arranging the details of the parade. "String" Crandall will be the brigadier general and will be there with his megaphone. Every man in the University between the ages of 10 and 50 years is expected to gather at Friendly hall at 6:45 tomorrow night.

And now for the fun of the procession—the costumes. Every one who is to participate in the parade is to come costumed. As the name of the parade signifies, it will be a pajama parade and where it is possible every one should present himself fully attired in pajamas. "Chuck" Dundore today made arrangements with the Eugene police force to declare a period of neutrality for two hours tomorrow night so that the student who is so fortunate as to own a pair of robin egg blue or sky green pink pajamas can feel at perfect liberty to wear them during the parade. Color is essential to the parade and besides, think of the hit which pink pajamas will make when the parade visits the sorority houses.

If Not Pajamas Then—

If pajamas cannot be secured the prospective jazz maker can find a hearty welcome if he presents himself in his night shirt, or a track jersey with the necessary accompanying articles of clothing. Grandfather's wedding suit, mother's birthday dress, uncle's working clothes, all form a nucleus from which to build a costume. But should an investigation of the family wardrobe offer up no apparel come in your school clothes. But above all, be there. The student council offers a prize of $2.50 for the best costume and $1.50 for the second best outfit. Every student in school is eligible to compete for these prizes.

To Start at 6:45.

The parade will form at Friendly hall at 6:45 tomorrow night. From

LEADER PROBABLY IS ON HIS WAY--ONTHANK

SLOW MOVEMENT OF SHIPS DUE TO SUBMARINE MENACE MAY BE CAUSE OF HIS DELAY.

Purchase of Uniforms Is Left Undecided by Military Affairs Committee.

That Lieutenant-Colonel John Leader is even now on his way across the Atlantic, is the belief of Karl Onthank, secretary to President Campbell, who has handled practically all of the correspondence between the University and the British war leader. "It would have been obviously impossible for Leader to state definitely in his cablegram to us, the exact date of his intended departure from England," said Karl Onthank. "Yet I feel that the fact that he said that he would sail as soon as he could arrange to would indicate that there were no apparent obstructions."

Travel Is Slow.

It now requires as long as 15 days to cross the Atlantic, said Mr. Onthank, because of the menace of submarines and the consequent low rate of speed that the ships are able to maintain. In addition to the low speed, the ships follow a detour across and are as liable to land in Canada or the Gulf of Mexico as at New York.

"The very fact that there has been no additional word from Colonel Leader during the past week or ten days seems to bear out the theory that he has started," said Onthank.

There will be absolutely no definite action taken toward organizing for drill until either Leader or another drillmaster arrives on the ground. This is the decision of the military affairs committee of the faculty. Even the question of uniforms has been allowed to rest in the hope that definite word would soon be received telling of Leader's early arrival.

Uniforms May Come.

"In regard to the uniforms," said Mr. Onthank, "it is probable that there will be a positive announcement made soon, because the administration realizes that it is a question of importance to the men who have been post-

KENT WILSON WRITES OF LIFE AT FORT GREENE

FORMER OREGON TRACK STAR NOW WITH MEDICAL UNIT EXPECTS TRANSFER TO FRANCE SOON.

SUNDAY "LID" TIGHT IN SOUTHERN TOWN

"Must Do a 440 in 50 Flat When Guard Hollers 'Halt' at Night," Says Bill's Prodigy.

In a letter to friends on the campus, Kent R. Wilson, '18, former Oregon track star, and now with the medical corps at Camp Greene, N. C., writes that North Carolina may have balmy southern weather in the day time, but "it's awful cold at night," and encloses a poem to prove it.

Wilson writes: "I was transferred last week from the medical department, 162nd Infantry (Oregon), by order of the division surgeon and placed in charge of the regimental hospital attached to the 147th Machine Gun Battalion. The battalion was formerly the 2nd Idaho Infantry, having been split up in accordance with the plans of the War Department. Many of the infantry units are being changed into the machine gun and artillery organizations for the purpose of supplying these distinctive units that the division was lacking. I believe that with the complete organization of the division and a month or so of intensive training we will be on our way to France.

"This is really a wonderful camp, ideally located, and with perfect drainage, as we are right in the low rolling hill country characteristic of this part of the state, and groves of oak, maple and pine cover the entire camp, and with their crimson tints and varied hues of autumn at this time they are really beautiful. The weather here is somewhat similar to Indian summer in Oregon. The days are ideal with the southern sun, but oh, the nights are awfully cold, and especially when you only have two thin blankets.

Me and my two thin blankets,
As thin as a slice of ham.
A German spy was likely the guy
Who made 'em for Uncle Sam.
How did I sleep? Don't kid me.
My bedtick is filled with straw
And lumps and humps and big fat bumps
That punched me till I'm all raw.

You could use 'em for porous plasters,
Or maybe to strain the soup,
My pillow's my shoes when I try to snooze—
And I've chilblains, cough and the croup.
Me and my two thin blankets,
Bundled up under my chin—
Yes, a German spy was likely the guy,
And Gosh! but he made 'em thin.

"A steady stream of soldiers from the Northwest continue to pour into camp each day. The capacity of the camp is about 50,000 men; to date there are about 25,000. Yesterday, being pay day, these 25,000 wild men from the Northwest took possession of the dignified town of Charlotte. Charlotte is a 'quaint old town' and it has quaint southern customs, one being an absolute closed town on Sundays, even to the drug stores. You can't even buy a cigar, let alone a 'coca-cola.' A vigorous campaign has been started by the public-spirited citizens of the town to remove the Sunday 'lid,' but to date the movement has been unsuccessful.

"The 'Oregon' boys in camp are showing up great in every department; they are really the pride of the camp and I know that they will be among the first to 'go over the top.' Tell 'Bill' that I am keeping in good condition, as it is quite necessary to do a 440 in about 50 flat when the guard hollers 'halt' at night and you haven't a pass. Also tell him I will be back about 1936 in time to beat O. A. C. in the annual spring meet."

Time of Game—2:30 P. M.

The conference football season will be officially ushered in on Kincaid field Saturday afternoon, when Oregon's rejuvenated eleven tries conclusions with Coach Bleamaster's light team from the University of Idaho.

The dope sheet shows one defeat for each team so far, the 'varsity' falling before W. S. C. 26-3 and Idaho succumbing to O. A. C. on Pendleton field 26-6. Both of the Aggie schools are blessed with veteran teams, so the game here looks like a 50-50 toss-up, with the team that gets the breaks coming out on top.

Oregon Optimistic.

Oregon fans are optimistic concerning the outcome, and point to the fact that Idaho has never been able to win a game from the lemon-yellow during the long period the colleges have been meeting each other, to back up their confidence.

It is a significant fact that no matter how strong a team Idaho has had, they have never been able to go back to Moscow with the long end of the score. The last time Oregon played Idaho was in 1915 on Kincaid field, when Bezdek's crew emerged victorious 19-7. A striking coincidence was that Oregon had been walloped by W. S. C. 28-3 the week before.

Bezdek will put a slightly different lineup on the field than the one which faced Pullman. Macey has been unable to come out for practice all week, due to his banged-up knee, and Tregilgas will fill in at right guard. In the backfield, McCready will start the contest at right half and George Cook at fullback. Hunter's ankle is no better, and it is feared a bone may be out of place.

Idaho Has Few Veterans.

Idaho will be represented by five or six old men, combined with some members of their last year's frosh team. Dingle and Jackson are both veterans of three years' standing. Jackson does the kick-offs and Thompson the punting.

From the way the 'varsity' was plowing through the frosh last night, prospects for a win look rosy indeed. Couch and Steers ripped big holes in the freshman line and tore off five and ten yards at a clip. Straight plunging and a few forward passes gave the 'varsity' five touchdowns in the hour and a half of scrimmage.

Direct Pass Used.

The frosh played Idaho formations but were unable to dent the 'varsity' line to any appreciable extent. The Gem-Staters use a variation of the direct pass system. A good number of their plays involve a double pass.

The Idaho team is due to arrive Friday and will probably work out on Kincaid field in the afternoon.

The parade tomorrow afternoon is a University affair. Get behind it and boost.

There's nothing like a good old Oregon oskie for killing the hookworm of sluggishness.

UNIVERSITY AND TOWNSPEOPLE WILL JOIN IN SELLING BONDS

The University's share in the Eugene Liberty Loan celebration tomorrow afternoon will include participation in the big parade planned as the final drive for bond buyers. A half holiday has been granted by the faculty, and members of the student body and faculty are being urged by the student council and faculty committee, headed by Dean Straub, to get out and get in line tomorrow afternoon.

As outlined this afternoon, the parade will start from the University library tomorrow afternoon and "men, women and children" should be on hand at 1:45 o'clock to take part in the student rally to be held before starting down town.

At Willamette street the line of students and faculty members, marching four abreast and headed by the University band, will fall in line with the Eugene citizens and school children, who are to meet at the City Hall.

The parade will move down Willamette street to the fountain by the Southern Pacific depot, where the column will counter-march and return to the new armory. At the armory a program lasting about 45 minutes will be given under the direction of the University faculty.

The Portland Liberty Loan headquarters assured Karl Onthank, secretary to President Campbell, by long distance telephone this afternoon that Judge Thomas A. Burke, former collector of internal revenue in Portland, would be on hand tomorrow afternoon to deliver the principal address at the rally.

James S. Sheehy, president of the Associated Students, will represent the student body, and President Campbell will probably introduce the other speakers, who will be chosen from the faculty. It will be a very brief program of snappy speeches, according to Mr. Onthank. Special musical numbers by the band will be part of the program at the armory.

"In all probability," said Onthank, "tomorrow's parade will see more people in line than any other parade in the history of Eugene. There will be 2,500 children from the Eugene public schools, 1,000 members of the University student body and faculty, and a large number of townspeople."

The University has already subscribed $4,700 to the Liberty bond sale, according to the reports at noon today. This is divided between the faculty, which according to Mrs. Ellen Pennell, in charge of the personal solicitation among the faculty members, has pledged itself for $3,500, the Phi Gamma Deltas $100, Friendly hall $200, and other organizations previously reported, $900.

The sale of many additional bonds at the men's dormitory is assured because of the fact that a number of groups of five men have been organized, each of whom is to put $10 in a Liberty Bond.

Besides the bonds purchased in the names of the various organizations, the number of Liberty Bond buttons seen on the campus, testify to the large number of students who have purchased individual bonds. What the total of these is cannot be estimated, but it is known that it reaches a large sum.

M'ARTHUR COMING TO GAME

FOOTBALL FAN, NOW CONGRESSMAN, DUE SATURDAY

To Graduate of '01, is Largely Due Honor of Installing Gridiron Sport at Oregon.

"Pat" McArthur, known in the history of the University as "the father of football," is to visit his old haunts again Saturday afternoon and will attend the Oregon-Idaho game. McArthur, who has borne the title of Congressman for several terms, is touring the state in the interest of the Liberty Loan bond issue and is now "somewhere in Oregon," in or around Marshfield. An effort is being made by the Eugene bond sale committee to secure Congressman McArthur to speak after the big parade and rally tomorrow afternoon.

"Pat graduated in 1901," said Dean Straub this morning, "and for a while lived on a farm near Rickreall, where he studied law. After practicing law for a short time he ran for Congress and was elected, having served several terms since."

It was largely due to the efforts of McArthur, said Dean Straub, that football became the established sport that it now is at the University. "Pat" never played any 'varsity' football," said the Dean. "That was too strenuous for him. But he loved the game and he did everything that he could to make it popular."

"It may be true," said the guardian of the frosh with a smile, "that Clifton's grades were not always the very highest, but this much is certain: he was back of every move that was a benefit to the University."

"McArthur had a tremendous amount of energy and was able to accomplish more than the average student as far as hard work was concerned," said Dean Straub.

FORMER OREGON MEN IN FRANCE

Lee Bostwick, of Baker, who has been in training on Long Island, left several days ago with a field hospital corps for service in France. Mr. Bostwick is remembered by Oregon alumni as a star runner. Another former Oregon student, Donald B. Smythe, a nephew of Prof. E. E. DeCou, of the mathematics department, who has been studying engineering in Colorado College, at Colorado Springs, left in September with a detachment of army engineers for France.

OREGON-MARINE GAME ATTRACTING ATTENTION

FORECAST SETS ATTENDANCE AT GRIDIRON CLASSIC AROUND 5,000 MARK; PATRIOTISM BEING FEATURED.

Army, State and City Officials Are Invited; Military Bands Will Provide Music.

"There will probably be at least 5,000 people at the Oregon-U. S. Marines game in Portland November 3," said Graduate Manager A. R. Tiffany, who returned from Portland yesterday, after completing arrangements for the advance sale of tickets for the game. "The game is arousing a great deal of interest there and the people of Portland are making a patriotic affair out of it instead of a straight football game."

Many Notables Invited.

Governor Withycombe and staff, Colonel Dentler, U. S. A., stationed at Vancouver Barracks, Congressman "Pat" McArthur, Mayor Baker and the City Commissioners of Portland, and the board of regents of the University have been invited to attend the game. The services of the Portland Police band and the United States Army band from Vancouver Barracks have been assured for the afternoon.

"The game has a spectacular significance," said Mr. Tiffany this morning, "because of the fact that this is probably the last trip north that the men on the marine team will have before they go into active service. Many of the men are Portlanders and a few are from Southern Washington. This alone would insure a large attendance without the other attractive features."

Game to Start Late.

"In addition, the very fact that so many old college stars are included in the lineup, with the majority of places falling to Oregon men, is proving an attraction."

The game has been set for three o'clock instead of 2:30 in order that the people who work Saturday afternoons may attend. One admission is to include both reserved seats and general admission to the grounds.

"A miss is as good as a mile." The girls are always good for several miles in the rally serpentine.
