GREETINGS.

This week-end the present student body of the University dedicates to you. To you the whole campus and its populace extends a welcome. Go where you may—the latch string hangs loose.

You will find great changes, some of you. To others, those whose flitting from the gray walls of Old Oregon has been more recent, the changes will not be so marked. But all of the changes, we trust, which you may find will be those of the exterior.

New buildings, those for which you have worked and wished, will greet you. New faces you will find among the students and you will look in vain for some of the faculty members whose wisdom you have learned to honor. Beneath it all, however, you will find your Alma Mater the same old school, fostering the same ideals and imbued with the same spirit.

Oregon's football team, weakened by the loss of veterans who have answered their country's call, today meets in the eleven from the University of California, a foe worthy of the name. We may be defeated, but, if so, it will be an honorable defeat. It will be defeat only after a hard fight.

Today every Oregon student will fight for Old Oregon. We want you there—in the bleachers—like you were five, ten, fifteen or twenty years ago—FIGHTING FOR OREGON.

Onion Sets, Fence Building Send Girls to College.

Meeting of Self-Supporting Women Brings Forth Story of Vacation Work.

That one girl was enabled to come to college this year by raising onion sets during the summer, and that another city maiden donned overalls and went forth to build fences, milk cows, and do other easy tasks during the summer, in order to continue her education, was divulged Sunday night at a meeting of self-supporting University women.

The meeting, in the form of a supper, was held at the bungalow between the hours of 5 and 7. Toshi Otake sang Japanese songs, and Wanda Brown gave a piano selection.

It is planned that the "bunch" of about twenty girls will organize under an appropriate name and have a regular time for meeting. The committee for organization is composed of Lillian Hausler, Mary Moore, Maude Largent, Irma Laird and Mable Weller.

Those at the meeting Sunday night were: Miss Tirza Dinsdale, Ida Dinsdale, Alma Clement, Mabel Weller, Grace Madden, Toshi Otake, Frieda Laird, Irma Laird, Sadie Hunter, Mary Moore, Mae Murray, Maude Largent, Mary Largent, Leona Marster, Ella Rawling, Elizabeth Kess, Wanda Brown, and Lillian Hausler.

ARMORY TO BE SCENE OF BIG DANCE TONIGHT

No Flowers, No Formality, But Plenty of Chance for Enjoyment Promised.

8:30 tonight! "Where do we go from here, boys?" Right on down to the armory. The "light fantastic will be tripped," to the tune of ten instruments, guided by Henderson.

Most excellent football team of the sunny state, esteemed men in service, respected alumni, you are invited as honor-guests to the little dance. The punch is made, the palms are waving around the orchestra stage, and a thousand programs are awaiting owners.

Then, if you promise to keep it dark, round about the eighth dance, the glee clubs will harmonize. And you will remember once more that "shady place by the old mill race."

But attention, please! If donations of the floral variety appear, they must be hidden—oh! anywhere—in the punch room, where the green, yellow and blue lights are glowing. For it's going to be informal.

George Cook, president of '19, with our dance committee: Marie Badura, Helen McDonald, Roberta Schubel, Mary Murdock, Arthur Runquist, Dwight Wilson, Lawrence Hersher, Newton Center, are looking for you all, remember. And to patron and patroness us are: Governor and Mrs. James Withycombe, President and Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Dean and Mrs. John Straub, Dean Elizabeth Fox, Mr. and Mrs. George Gerlinger, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bean, Dr. and Mrs. John F. Bovard, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Piper, Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Bezdek, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Stafford, Judge and Mrs. E. O. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Peterson, Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Schmidt, William Hayward, Dr. John Landsbury and Mrs. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Perkins, Grace Edington, and Ada Hall.

We can not do evil to others without doing it to ourselves.—Desmahis.

U. OF C. LINE-UP IS FULL OF HEAVY WEIGHT MEN

Oregon Team is from 10 to 20 Pounds Lighter Than Southerners; Daily Californian Gives Dope on Players

Coach Bezdek's aggregation of footballists are going to buck odds from every side, when they line up against the blue and gold this afternoon. From end to end, the lemon-yellow line will be from 10 to 25 pounds lighter than California's, and the Oregon backfield will not tip the scales within 20 pounds of the opposing line plungers.

Here is the dope on each of the California players, as given by the Daily Californian:

Higson, California quarter, is an inexperienced man, having played only as substitute quarter, on the 1920 California frosh team. His tackling ability gives him a berth on the team. Higson stands five feet, ten inches and weighs 150 pounds.

Rowe, left half, has been one of Andy Smith's stars in recent games this season, although green in the opening of the season. Rowe is a hard man to stop when he starts for the line, and has been able to annex a good many yards for the Gold Bear, with his running with punts. He is twenty years old, weighs in at 175 pounds, and is five feet, eleven inches in height.

Wells, fullback, is California's most consistent yard-gainer, and has had one year's experience in backfield work, having held his present position on last year's California aggregation. Wells had his football training on the 1919 freshman team. He hails from Eureka, California, is twenty years old, weighs 185 pounds, and stands an even six feet in height.

Alford, right half, is another California man of experience in the game. He played four years in the lineup of a San Diego high school, and was a member of last year's freshman. Alford is twenty-one years old, weighs 160 pounds, and is five feet, ten inches tall.

Gifford, left end, came all the way from Honolulu to play for California, and made the freshman team last year, captained the sophomore team this year, and was first choice for the end position when Andy began his varsity training. He is twenty years old, measures five feet, eleven inches in his socks, and tips the beam at 168 pounds.

Gordon, left tackle, is California's most experienced football player on this year's team, and the only man with a letter. Californians talk of the firmness of brick walls, when they are looking at their "Walt." He is twenty-three years old, measures five feet, ten inches in height, and weighs 179 pounds.

Hanson, center, is California's lightest man, but comes with experience in the game. He has had four years in high school, at Uplands, California, and was sub-center for Andy Smith last season. Hanson weighs 154 pounds, and stands only five feet eight inches.

Brown, right guard, has been a prominent man in California games this season, and is one of the Gold Bear's best men on defense. He played four years of high school rugby, before he took up football, under the tutelage of Coach Andy Smith. Brown stands six feet, two, weighs 184 pounds, and is twenty-two years old.

Richardson, right tackle, brings 195 pounds into the California line and is the biggest man on the squad. Richardson has been three years on the Varsity squad, but this is his first year as a letter man. He is six feet, one inch tall, and is twenty-two years old.

Bates, right end, was a substitute backfield man for the 1920 California frosh, but was shifted to the line this fall, and has come through in good style, although he weighs only 155 pounds. He played four years high school ball, at Alameda, California, is twenty-one years old, and stands five feet, nine inches tall.
