

CALIFORNIA BEATEN BY OREGON'S FIGHT

Bulky Warriors From South Are Sent Home Conquered by Light, Green Team of Scrappers.

MIRACLE IS DUE TO BEZDEK

Coach Gets His Men on Edge for Contest—Steers, Medley, Maison Stars.

Outweighed thirteen pounds to the man, lacking in football experience, and with the weight of comparative scores against them, Bezdek's inexperienced midgits triumphed for Oregon over the University of California, Saturday, on Kincaid Field, by the decisive score of 21 to 0.

California held Oregon well in the middle of the field during the first quarter. The crowd, sympathetic toward the Oregon boys, from the time the towering Californians came upon the field, and the Oregon rooters who, between the odds against them, and the Oregon spirit and Oregon fight, hardly knew what to expect—were tense, watching every play and fearing always during that period, that the Oregon defense would give way. But Oregon held.

After the first period California weakened before the grim attack of Bezdek's men, and the eleven from the Golden State ceased to be anything but the party of the second part.

Steers Goes 60 Yards to Touchdown

Oregon scored twice during the second period. Bill Steers, quarter, the big star of the game for Oregon, received Richardson's punt on Oregon's 40-yard line, and completely circled the California right end, racing 60 yards for Oregon's first score. Again Oregon scored in the second period, when, with the ball on California's 30-yard line, Steers shot a forward pass to Medley, who tore through a broken field for a

STAFFORD ADDRESSES SCIENCE CLUB TONIGHT

Schedule of Speakers for Rest of the Year Includes Many Different Subjects.

"Symposium on Research" will be the subject of a talk by Dr. O. F. Stafford, head of the chemistry department, at the regular monthly meeting of the University Science club in Da. Winger's room in Johnson hall tonight.

This club, composed of the members of the faculty and graduate school, who are interested in science, meets the third Tuesday of each month.

The program as outlined for this year contains a paper on "Some Research Among the Northwestern Indians" to be given by Mr. Frank Hall, curator of the museum at the University of Washington in December.

In January, Dr. W. B. DeBusk, of the education department will discuss "The Relation of Physical to Mental Growth."

Dr. A. E. Caswell of the physics department will speak on "Thermo-electric Properties of Alloys," at the February meeting.

Dr. H. B. Torrey, head of the biology work at Reed college, has charge of the March meeting. The subject of his paper will be, "Investigation Relating to the Conservation and Utilization of our Fish Resources."

"A Rational Map of Europe," by Dr. Rebec head of the philosophy department, will be the topic of the April meeting.

Mr. A. C. Shelton will speak in May of "Biologic Investigations in Southern California."

Dr. W. D. Smith is president of the University Science club, and Dr. C. H. Edmondson secretary.

O.A.C. MAY LOSE PRESIDENT

W. J. Kerr May Head Kansas Agricultural College; Considering Offer.

President W. J. Kerr, of the Oregon Agricultural college has been offered the position of president of the leading agricultural college in the United States, that at Manhattan, Kansas, at a salary of $9000 a year. President Kerr hesitated about accepting and the regents of the Kansas college left it with him to fix the salary. Dr. Kerr has taken the offer under advisement.

SCAIEFE DOING WELL IN WORK AT HARVARD

Writes of His Admiration for Big Institution, But Holds Oregon First in His Heart.

A. C. Shelton, assistant in the zoology department, is in receipt of a letter from Frank Scaife, yell leader for last year and a graduate of the pre-medic department of the University. Frank, better known as "Skinny," is studying medicine at Harvard this year, and says that "Harvard is the only school."

Oregon holds first place in his heart because of old associations, he says, but Harvard is the place of opportunity. He adds that he has been too busy to write letters since he has been there, but that the work is not unusually difficult, thanks to Dr. Bovard, whom "Skinny" ranks as high as any professor there.

Among his professors are several men whose texts he studied in his elementary course at Oregon.

All his grades have been above eighty-five, although he has missed some work, on account of illness. He was much better at the time he wrote, and is still determined to keep on with the "old profesh."

Y. M. C. A. FUND SHORT

Oregon's Response Falls Below Expectations.

State Committee Calls for $400 More—Macpherson Urges Subscriptions.

That the University of Oregon failed to rise to its opportunity in connection with the Y. M. C. A. drive for $1,000,000 for work in the prison camps of Europe, was the statement of James Macpherson, campus secretary of the association, today.

"We raised only a little more than $2,600," said Mr. Macpherson. With a student body of nine hundred, the average capita, is less than $3. Our quota was $2,000, and we exceeded it $600. This looks like a fair record until it is compared with the magnificent response made by the University of California and the University of Washington, among the larger institutions, and Willamette and many of the colleges much smaller than Oregon. All of these at least doubled their quota. The University of Washington, with a student body less than three times that of Oregon, subscribed $13,500, or more than five times as much."

Not Yet Fully Awake

Mr. Macpherson does not wish to be understood as complaining of Oregon's response.

"I think the trouble is," he said, "that we did not quite wake up to the importance of this work. The canvass, obviously, was not complete. Now, General Secretary John R. Mott has issued a call for more funds, urging that an effort be made to shoot far above the quota. The state association now expects the University of Oregon to raise its total to $3,000. This will leave the per capita far below that of several other institutions. I believe that, in a good deal of the student body, the surface has been only scratched. In some of the fraternity and sorority houses, of course, the work has been very thorough, and the response generous."

"We have, therefore, not closed our campaign. We are still after funds for this Y. M. C. A. work. We hope to raise that $400. Money is still coming in, but rather slowly."

Enlisted Man Helps

"Only yesterday, one of the freshmen, Dorward C. Pratt, who has left college to enlist in the navy, dropped into my office. I suggested that he perhaps could not be expected to contribute, in view of his going into the service. He was, however, eager to help the work and left $4. Another young man, who is earning his way by waiting on table, came in unsolicited and gave $5. I believe another systematic effort by those willing to help the work, will result in raising the $400 needed to bring the University up to the $3,000 desired by the state committee. This money should come from those who either have subscribed very little or nothing at all, as yet."

STATUE IS RETURNED

Famous "Iron Woman" Taken Back to Resting Place.

Image Stolen by Members of Freshman Class Again Sits on Pedestal in Corvallis.

The O. A. C. "Iron Woman" which has made Eugene its quarters for the past few days, was sent to its former resting place this afternoon by the student body.

The trophy first made its appearance on the campus on Monday morning. Several members of the freshman class desirous of "getting even" on the cow collegians for the painting of the "O" on Skinner's butte late Sunday evening, journeyed to Corvallis early Monday morning and confiscated her without the least notice of the students there. The Aggies did not have a guardian for her majesty, and it was in complete surprise that they woke up on Monday to find their heroine absent from her usual pedestal.

Besides kidnapping the pride of O. A. C. the babes also gave the Corvallis institution a little of her own treatment by painting large signs of "Fight 'em Oregon" and "U" all over the campus and fraternity buildings.

During her stay in Eugene, Her Majesty was royally entertained. Yesterday afternoon the entire student body turned out to Villard hall to greet her. "Slim" Crandall led several yells in her behalf during the rally in celebration of the California victory. After this she was locked in a side room of one of the campus buildings for a short stay before her long journey back home.

However when time came to send her away last evening she was not to be found. A searching party immediately set out on the trail of the captors and after a long search traces were discovered and at ten o'clock she was recovered and placed in safe keeping till the afternoon.

When the news of the disappearance reached the agriculturists yesterday morning the entire student body declared a holiday and began to prepare to recover their prize. However, when they learned that the "O" had been painted the evening before, they took it in a sportsmanlike way and admitted that the tables had been turned on them. A few of the rougher element journeyed to Eugene last night in machines, but were prohibited from doing any damage by a large number of students who guarded the campus and the letter on Skinner's Butte.

All men who played in either soccer game, against O. A. C. turn out tomorrow (Wednesday) at 4 o'clock in uniform, for practice. Be there!

OREGON VICTORY MARKS 39TH ANNIVERSARY OF DEAN STRAUB

Pioneer Tells of Changes Since 1878. Deady Only Building; Was Used For Woodshed, Classes, and Assembly

Dean Straub says he knows why Oregon defeated California in the Homecoming game.

"The University team knew that November 17, marked the thirty-ninth anniversary of my arrival on this campus," said Dean Straub this morning. "The boys couldn't lose because they knew it would spoil my 'University birthday.'"

Dr. Straub came to Oregon on November 17, 1878, when Deady hall was the only building on the campus. President Johnson, Dr. Thomas Condon, and Mark Bailey, with Dean Straub, comprised the faculty, of which the dean is the only surviving member.

The Oregon spirit, in the opinion of Dr. Straub, had an early beginning at Oregon. "Even in those days," he said, "we had that great determination to win, which characterizes the college today."

"Many things however, have changed since 1878," said he. "When I came to the University as dean of the college of liberal arts, horses, not limousines, were a familiar sight near Deady, the only building on the campus."

"Students drove 'Dobbin' to school in those days," he continued. "During classes the horses were tied to a fence which surrounded the building and included the Condon oaks."

Dr. Straub said that Deady was then a brick-colored building. "Although begun in 1872," said he, "it was not completed until 1876. I remember that when I arrived, the room where the Y. W. C. A. is now located was the only part of the basement then finished. The entire remaining space in the basement

AGGIES WIN AT SOCCER

Saturday's Game Results in Score of 1-0 for O. A. C.

Kelleher, Pearson, Heywood Star for Oregon, and Ford Brothers for Visitors.

Oregon bowed for the second time in two weeks, to O. A. C.'s soccer team Saturday afternoon, when the lemon-yellow dropped a hard-fought contest to the orange and black, by the score of 1-0.

The game was practically a repetition of the first contest, with the Aggies having the advantage during the first part of the struggle and Oregon staging a come-back in the second half, but being unable to score. O. A. C.'s goal came in the last few minutes of the first half. Lowe, playing inside right forward, received a pass, when goal was unprotected, and it was a simple matter to shoot the ball between the posts not more than ten feet distant.

Oregon fought hard in the second half, but try as they would, the Varsity forward line was unable to put the leather through. Kelleher, the little Irishman, playing inside right, was the whole show on the forward line, but his scrappy tactics availed nought in the matter of scoring goals. Captain Pearson, at center half, and Herb Heywood, taking Schmeer's place, at goal, were the only other men who stood out for their playing. For the Aggies, the Ford brothers were the shining lights.

The lineup follows:
O. A. C. Position Oregon
Bonnie C F Sheehy
Richards I L Sengstake
Neal Ford O L Hartley
Hugh Ford O R Fox
Lowe I R Kelleher
Wilmot R H Parr
Bryant C H Pearson
Perry L H Holdridge
Lagus R F Bain
Kirkiand L B Lind
Ferguson Goal Heywood

CLASSES MEET TOMORROW

Ten O'clock Period to Be Taken Up by Gatherings.

Class meetings will take the place of the regular assembly period Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. All of the classes have important matters to bring up and each president is very urgent that full attendance be present.

The freshmen will meet in Villard hall, sophomores in the lecture room of the education building, the juniors in Guild hall and the seniors in the lecture room of Deady hall.

BOYS AT FORT WANT WAR TALK OR ENTERTAINMENT

Dr. Conklin Returns From Second Visit to Coast Artillery to Give Psychology Lecture.

Dr. E. S. Conklin made his second trip to Fort Stevens the past week-end, lecturing to the men on "The Illusions of Daily Life."

"What the men seem to want," said Dr. Conklin yesterday, "is either instruction about war, or entertainment, and since I can't teach them about war, I have to try to entertain them."

Lewis P. Bond received his commission as first lieutenant Friday, the day Dr. Conklin arrived at the fort. He is in the field artillery, and will leave soon for Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, for special training.

Dr. Conklin is organizing correspondence classes in psychology among the men at the fort, but was unable to meet them all, for some of them were on guard duty. About seven men are taking psychology by correspondence now.

"The men are all happy enough," said Dr. Conklin, "but they want to be in France."

One of the Oregon men Dr. Conklin met was Ross McKenna, who demanded the professor's pass.

SAN FRANCISCO TO SEE DRAMA BY "U" STUDENT

"The Storm," One-Act Play by Cecelia Hagar, Accepted for Production by Little Theatre.

This morning Cecelia Hagar, graduate student in rhetoric and psychology, received a letter from the manager of the San Francisco Little Theatre saying that her one-act play, "The Storm" had been accepted for production.

Miss Hagar wrote the play last year while in Da. Bates' technique of the drama class, and some time ago sent it to Adren Metzger, editor of the Little Theatre magazine, in New York. Mr. Metzger, much struck with the play, sent it to the San Francisco Little Theatre, which accepted it.

The scene of the play is a houseboat on the Columbia. The principal character is a girl who has been a long time in love with a man who for years has been absent, and in thinking constantly of him she loses her mind. She imagines he is coming back to her and that he will come up the river in a boat. But through the other characters we learn that her lover is married and lives on the lower part of the river. The girl, thinking constantly of him, one night in a great storm cuts loose the moorings of the house boat and loses her life in the storm.

The play goes to rehearsal at Christmas. If the royalties are large enough, Miss Hagar says, she will go down to see the first performance. Miss Hagar is now working for a master's degree in rhetoric and is student assistant in psychology.

GROWING OF WALNUTS TO BE EXPLAINED TO CLASS

Fred Groner of Hillsboro Will Lecture Before Men in Industrial Course.

Fred Groner, prominent walnut grower of Hillsboro, Oregon, will address the students of the School of Commerce in Deady hall, at two o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, on the subject of walnut growing in Oregon.

The class in Industrial and Commercial science will have walnut growing and the marketing possibilities of Oregon walnuts, under special consideration at that time. John P. Masterson, who has made an exhaustive survey of the industry, will deliver the student's report, preceding Mr. Groner's address.

Mr. Groner has been in the walnut growing business many years, and is one of the most successful growers in the state. He has written extensively for the newspapers and magazines on this subject and is an interesting and entertaining speaker. The public is invited to hear the address.

PROMINENT PREPPERS VISIT

Steffen, Tennis Champion and Kely, Editor of Lens, Here for Homecoming.

Among the visitors at the Homecoming celebration last week, were Paul Steffen, the junior champion tennis player of Portland, and Eugene Kely, a senior at the Washington High school, and editor of the Lens, the student publication at that school. Mr. Kely is the son of Paul R. Kely, night editor of the Oregonian. Both boys are planning to enter the University next year. They were entertained while here at some of the fraternity houses.

VICTORY OF OREGON CELEBRATED IN RALLY

Tremendous Turnout in Villard Graced by Presence of Aggies' Famous Iron Lady.

PEP OVERFLOWS INTO GYM

Big Informal Dance Given There in Honor of Surprising Gridiron Triumph.

Full of "Oregon Fight" and jubilant over their 21 to 0 victory over California, on Kincaid Field, last Saturday, 800 Oregon men and women gathered together for a great rally in Villard hall last Monday afternoon. Several times during the morning the fountain of "pep" nearly bubbled over, but it was decided to hold back and let loose all at once at the big rally in the afternoon.

At 12:30 sharp, the band and the rosters, including the girls, never known to have failed a rally, met at the Oregon. Headed by the band, playing "Mighty Oregon," the rosters marched up Alder street, thence up Thirteenth and then north into Villard.

"Iron Lady" Unmasked

From now on enthusiasm reigned supreme. Mid yells and cheers that shook the very building and echoed from wall to wall, "Slim" Crandall mounted the platform, followed by President Campbell, Coach Bezdek, Bill Hayward, Dean Walker, and members of the team. After the cheers had partly died, Slim unmasked "The Iron Lady," the sacred woman of O. A. C., kidnapped the day before from her graceful position on the O. A. C. campus. This brought forth thunderous applause.

President Campbell was called upon to make a few remarks, and responded by saying that the Oregon spirit was still alive, and that the one thing we must look out for and most learn to do is to confine it to its proper sphere.

WOMEN'S BAND PRACTICES AND CHOOSES OFFICERS

Co-eds Learning New Waltz; Can Not Work Enough to Suit 'em, Says Director.

Yes, the Women's band has its officers now. It met in the Music hall at 8 o'clock last night, and elected Jeanette Calkins president; Tula Kinsley, treasurer; Beatrice Thurston, manager; Evelyn Smith, secretary and Clair Gatzley, librarian.

Then the band practice went fast and furious for an hour. "When the time was up," said rector Albert Perfect, "the girls wanted to practice longer. They are all here on time too, and the practice went off fine. We tried a new waltz this time."

The next practice hours are from 4:30 to 6, on Thursday and Friday.

HOISINGTON NOW TEACHING

Former Oregon Student Instructor in Psychology at Cornell.

L. B. Hoisington, former student of the University, who is now an instructor at Cornell, in the psychology department, is the author of an article in the American Journal of Psychology, telling of some special research work he has been doing.
