

WASHINGTON WILL NOT MAKE GOOD ON BROKEN CONTRACT

Tiffany Receives Reply to His Inquiry Regarding Cancellation of Oregon Game in Eugene.

WILL ASK CONFERENCE TO CONSIDER QUESTION

University Delegates Opposed to Any Change in Ruling Regarding Freshmen.

The University of Washington has not intention to pay its guarantee of $1500 to the University of Oregon...

This is the substance of a message received this morning by Graduate Manager Tiffany from the athletic management of the Washington school...

Oregon paid $1500 to Washington last year as the amount guaranteed for the visiting team and by the same terms was to receive $1500 from the proceeds of the game at Seattle this year...

The question of Washington refusing to pay her guarantee, said Prof. H. C. Howe, "will be the principal point that Oregon will bring up at the Coast Conference meeting to be held in San Francisco Monday..."

Oregon's attitude on the freshman rule has not changed, said Prof. Howe, who with Graduate Manager Tiffany, will represent Oregon at the conference.

"We cannot consent to the revoking of the freshman rule, for the faculty has consistently held that freshmen would not be permitted to play at Oregon," said

CITY RED CROSS TO HAVE FOOD SALE TOMORROW

Suggested That Fraternities Buy Thanksgiving Supplies at Headquarters Downtown.

A food sale for which all kinds of food materials are acceptable will be held by the city chapter of the Red Cross on Tuesday and Wednesday in the old Caswell and Whitton store on Willamette street.

Pies, cakes, cookies, jellies, cooked meats, raw meat, vegetables, chickens or turkeys, alive or dead, are all acceptable and will be gladly received.

"We are going into the game under a big handicap, Newman is out for good and his place is well-nigh impossible to fill. The team will fight to the finish but I doubt whether they can stop Oregon."

Who Will Win in Portland? All Oregon Watching Team

With the passing days, the whirl of the leaves and the gobble of the turkey, "The Eyes of the Pacific Coast" have been called from the battlefields of Europe to a battlefield closer to home—the white lined mixing grounds known as Multnomah field—where on turkey day a "Belgiumized" Oregon eleven will meet a mass of bone and muscle with spiked shoes and nailed hands, known as the Aggie football team.

Who will win? The sport writers of the coast, men who have studied the two teams from every angle for the past season, say that it is impossible to predict the winner from the games played and the scores made by the two teams during the past two months, and they point to the fact that the result of the Oregon-O. A. C. game is always the one big surprise of the Pacific Coast football schedule.

Fans Have Waked Up

The bright hope of victory over O. A. C. which shone to the Oregon students on the night of that eventful day when the Golden Bears sought their den with a load of 21 to 0 bullet holes hidden in their slotful hides, has dimmed to a certain extent, for during the past few days the Oregon fan has waked up to the fact that Oregon's victory over California was in many ways a miracle, not likely to be repeated this season.

have a reputation of hitting the line hard. Then the fact came to their view that O. A. C. has seven old players back in the ranks and that on the Oregon eleven, there is not a single man who has had a year's experience on the regular varsity lineup.

Oregon Has Fighting Chance

Then it was that the Oregon man woke up with a terrible load of care on his mind; "The odds are that O. A. C. will win over Oregon." Gone was that "sure we'll beat" idea and instead, the thought became surplanted in the minds of every student that Oregon has but a fighting chance and that it will be "Oregon fight" that will add another victory to the Oregon list instead of the list across the page.

The lull which precedes a storm has come. A hush has fallen over the Aggie camp. A sort of foreboding, impending-disaster hush. For the past week Coach Pipal has put the men through the hardest of practices, with long nights of blackboard talks and signal practice in the armory.

Elmer Leader, Sam Dolan, Philbrook, all men who have officiated in games which Oregon has played in, and R. L. Matthews, coach of the Willamette University eleven, who sat on the Oregon bench as a guest during the California game, have made the Aggie headquarters their home for the past week and have aided Coach Pipal in the final preparation of his proteges.

The team received a damaging blow when Captain Meier Newman received an injured shoulder in the Washington tussle. Newman was one of the Aggies' nose-busting, line-bucking heroes, and the sport critics of the two teams agree that his loss was a great one, although Lee Bissett, the 170 pound Newberg lad, who has planted his feet under the varsity team training table for the past three years, will fill his place with ease.

Final Plans Behind Closed Doors

The cleated-shoe men of the University have made their final preparation behind closed doors for the past week, and old Kincaid field could have well been the inner court in an old feudal castle, as far as the outside observers' knowledge of what was going on inside is concerned.

It will be a crippled lineup which will greet the Corvallis lads when they trot onto the white lined level in the rose city. Carl Nelson, who hurled his 164 pounds through the mushy walls of the California line time and time again in the Oregon-California contest, and in doing so upset many a well-planned attack of a California charger, had his ankle badly sprained and the nerves in his foot shattered during practice last week.

Dot Medley Out

The greatest loss, which the team has suffered during the past season, comes in the shape of a bad injury which Dot Medley received in the final moments of the California game, when he tackled the mammoth Wells, and in doing so, landed with his shoulder coming into a smashing contact with the big back's knee.

The pre-contest rumors that Coach Bezdek is going to spring some "knock 'em dead" plays in the coming contest have as usual been circulated. Just what has been going on behind those four pine board walls during the past week, will never be known until the day of the game—but leave that to "Bez."

Steers Best Kicker

There are sure to be some gasps of wonder spring up from the grandstands when the educated toes of Bill Steers and Carl Lodell swing on that ball. It is the general opinion of the followers of the oval ball, that Steers will have the edge in this department, although Lodell's boot, has saved the Aggies many yards of hard serenade.

With their heavy backfield men the Aggies will probably seek to batter the Oregon line into submission, over and through it for their points. This was California's mode of attack, but Bez's brains and Oregon fight, was more than Andy Smith's beef and California could stop, although Uncle Andy says his boys lost because Hall replaced Hansen at center, and that Hall couldn't throw straight, which slowed up the Bears' attack so that it didn't get away with the Oregon line, as would have been the case if Hansen had been in the center position.

Bez Can Out-Fox Pipal

Fandom agrees that there is no question but what Bezdek can out-fox Pipal any time, any place and anywhere, and sport critics are worrying for fear Oregon will not get the ball enough to show up the cunning offensive plays which Bezdek has developed for the Oregon attack. Should the heavy O. A. C. men take a lease on the ball, Oregon fans fear for the defensive, but still the Oregon defensive left to cause for worry in the California game—so there it goes!

The team will leave Wednesday morning for Portland and will make its headquarters at the Imperial hotel.

BE THERE AND ROOT, URGES YELL LEADER

"Slim" Crandall Wants All University Students Out for Thanksgiving Day Struggle.

"FIGHT 'EM OREGON" IS CRY

Stunt to Be Put on Between Halves Will Be Lemon-Yellow Rooters' Surprise.

"Everybody go—and root for Oregon!"

So says "Slim" Crandall, Oregon's official yell leader, in urging University students to attend the Oregon-O. A. C. game in Portland, on Thursday.

"Everyone must be there to yell 'Fight 'em Oregon!'" he continued. "There will be a special section reserved for Oregon students and backers in the southeast section of the bleachers. O. A. C. will be on the north side, and we have to out-yell them every time. Wear a rooter's hat and don't be afraid to use the megaphone we will provide."

Band Will Lead Rally

The band, thirty strong, after its arrival in Portland on the Southern Pacific which leaves Eugene at 1 p. m., will play on Wednesday evening, and Thursday morning from 9 to 11. It will lead a serpentine of rooters who will assemble at the Imperial hotel before the game, and parade up and down Washington street, from 1 to 2:30. A serpentine, the forming of a yellow block "O," and a stunt will be put on by Oregon between halves.

"We want to keep this stunt a secret," said Crandall. "But I don't mind saying that 'Jaz' and 'pep' don't describe his feature of the rooting. It will be a big surprise."

Team to Go Tomorrow

"The team leaves tomorrow at 7:35 a. m. on the Oregon Electric," said Crandall, "and all Oregon students should be there to show the boys we're with them. They've got to win and we must help them do it."

Wednesday's assembly hour will see University students united in a big holiday rally. Yells and speeches will be the feature of the program at Villard. Classes will be held as usual, until 12 a. m., when the Thanksgiving vacation will begin.

A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager, says that the sale of seats indicates a large attendance. "Undoubtedly," said he, "the game will be a great drawing card."

RECITAL PROCEEDS FOR CHRISTMAS PACKAGES

Modern Music to Predominate in Faguy-Cote Recital to Be Given in Eugene Theatre Tonight.

Christmas packages for the soldiers in France, will be bought with the proceeds of the recital to be given in the Eugene Theatre tonight by Prof. Faguy-Cote of the University School of Music.

On the campus it is considered the duty of every student to make some small sacrifice, in order that a little Christmas spirit may prevail in some otherwise bleak spot on the west front, in the holiday season. The entire proceeds are to be turned over to the Red Cross.

Mr. Faguy-Cote has prepared a program designed to please the most critical music-lover. Modern music, for which the artist has a preference, will predominate.

"I can't see where we have a chance. O. A. C. will outweigh us ten pounds to the man and their whole team is composed of veterans. They have seven letter men from last year; we have none. Only one of my men, George Cooke, ever played against the Aggies before and he played but a few minutes. Oregon is the underdog and we will have to show more fight than ever before to make a showing. Never before were the odds so heavy against us. The California game was a miracle, not likely to happen again."—Coach Bezdek.

OREGON HAS WON 13 GAMES; LOSER BUT 3

Varsity Made Record Score in 1895, Defeating Aggies to the Tune of 44-0.

History Shows Lemon-Yellow Failed But Four Times to Cross Goal.

Portland will be the mecca for thousands of football followers from all parts of the state next Thursday afternoon, when Oregon Agricultural College, and the University of Oregon meet for their twenty-first battle.

For twenty years, teams representing the black and orange, and the lemon and green, have fought for the honor of their respective schools.

Oregon Wins 13

Oregon has far outclassed her opponent in past contests. Of the twenty games that have been played, Oregon teams have been victorious 13 times, while O. A. C. has had to content herself with three wins. Four times the two teams have played each other to tie games. Teams representing the lemon and green have piled up a total score of 237 points for the twenty games, compared with 68 points registered by the "Beavers." Oregon has made an average score of 11.6 points per game, compared with 3.4 points registered by O. A. C.

The biggest score piled up by either of the teams, occurred in 1895. In that year Oregon's heavy team walked away with the "Beaver" representatives to the tune of 44 to 0. The game as the

DR. GILBERT HONORED BY TAX CONVENTION

Oregon Professor Placed on Resolutions Committee of National Association at Atlanta.

Relation of Federal and State Revenue Not to Be Taken Up During War.

Dr. James H. Gilbert, of the department of Economics, who returned this week from attending the sessions of the National Tax Association and the Council of States on Taxation at Atlanta, Ga., brings back word of very successful meetings of both organizations.

Dr. Gilbert and State Tax Commissioner C. V. Galloway, were appointed by Governor Withycombe to represent the state of Oregon at the eleventh annual conference of the National Tax Association at Atlanta, November 12-16. At the same time, on the initiative of Governor Stephens of California, the Council of States on Taxation was called to discuss relations between state and federal revenue systems, and to protest against what was felt to be the encroachment of the federal government on the domain of the state in the scope of fiscal activities.

The prevailing sentiment was that the federal government should have an open field till the war is brought to a successful conclusion," said Dr. Gilbert.
