NEW REGISTRATION SYSTEM TO SHORTEN PROCESS NEXT WEEK

Schedules and Cards for Each Course to Be Made Out by Students and Filed.

MAY PAY FEES NOW OR ON RETURN IN JANUARY

Announcement of Studies With Prerequisites and Hours to Be Issued Soon.

There are only two main steps to registration under the new regulations, which go into effect next week in registering for the second term. The first step is the making out of the study or registration cards, and the class record cards, and the second, the filing of one study card, and the class record cards with the payment of all fees, if desired, at the cashier's window of the administration offices.

At any time next week students may confer with their advisors or major professors, and make out the registration card or schedule of courses which corresponds to the study card, which was carried around to each professor for his signature, under the old system. Two of these cards will be made out, the original one by the advisor, and signed by him, and a second, made out in duplicate, by the student. The first card is for filing at the business offices, and the second is to be retained by the advisor, instead of by the student, as incorrectly stated in Thursday's Emerald. At the same time, the two registration cards are made out, class record cards for every course scheduled, including gymnasium and military drill, must be filled out also. These class record cards are very similar to the class enrollment cards, made out by the individual instructors at the time of signing the

STUDES ASK WAR QUERIES

Great Struggle is Cause of Questions Asked Miss Upleger.

That the inquiring mind of University students has taken the trend of war time subjects is shown by a record of questions asked, kept by Miss Margaret C. Upleger, reference librarian at the University library.

There is a notable recurrence upon the list of the subjects of Red Cross, camouflage, the second Liberty loan, women in government work, nursing, text of conscription bill, atrocities of former wars, airplanes, submarines, the psychology of the great war, the Y. M. C. A. in war time, the re-education of blinded soldiers, American women in the war, and the health of the soldier.

Since the list of war books in the library was completed last week, there have been many inquiries for the books, says Mrs. M. F. McClain, assistant librarian. "Some of them are so much in demand that they are promised for weeks, ahead," she said.

COLLEGE SOLDIER MARRIES FORMER UNIVERSITY CO-ED

Lillian Porter is Bride of Harold Say, Former Journalism Student, and Now at Fort Stevens.

Harold B. Say, of the Second company, Oregon Coast Artillery, and Miss Lillian Porter, of Portland, were married in Eugene Friday night by Rev. George H. Parkinson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. The ceremony took place at the church in the presence of Miss Patricia Paterson, of Portland, Mrs. W. O. Prosser and daughters, Miss Edwina and Miss Jessie and Max P. Taylor, of this city. The wedding was the culmination of a college romance. Mr. Say and Miss Porter were members of the sophomore class at the University of Oregon last year. Mrs. Say is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Mr. Say, who is a son of N. O. Say, of Wilsonville, was the city editor of the Eugene Daily Guard at the time of the declaration of war, when he enlisted in his country's service. Mrs. Say is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Porter, 968 Regents drive, Portland.

They spent Saturday with their friends here, expecting to leave that night for Portland.

OREGON STARS LEAD GREAT RIVAL TEAMS

Johnny Beckett's Marines and Dudley Clark's Ambulance Corps Men to Clash New Year's Day.

Western Players on Both Sides at Pasadena; Hard Fight Is Expected.

Two Oregon stars will lead the eleven representing the East and West, which will clash at Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's Day, as the big athletic event of the annual festival of roses. The western team will be the eleven of the United States Marine Corps, stationed at Mare Island, and the eastern that of the ambulance unit at Allentown, Pa. Johnny Beckett is the marines' captain, while the ambulance men are led by Dudley Clark, famed in Oregon gridiron history.

Clark Handles Ambulance Men

The Allentown squad, not to be outdone by the "Soldiers of the Sea," also have a number of western stars in their lineup. The "Dead Wagon Crew" is being coached by First Lieutenant Dudley Clark, who for several years was the mainstay of the Oregon team, and who afterwards played for several seasons with the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club team, of Portland. Clark has just received his commission as a full-fledged first lieutenant, having been serving as acting lieutenant since he took over the Ambulance Corps team.

One of the shining lights in the "Stretcher Carriers" team is "Tuffy" Conn, the sensational Oregon Agricultural college halfback, of last season, whose run of 100 yards in the O. A. C.-Nebraska game scored the only points registered by the Aggies.

Marines Have Great Array

The marines have undoubtedly the greatest array of Northwest football stars ever gathered together, and the game will be watched by all followers of the gridiron in the country, as it will bear on the old question of whether or not the gridiron warriors of the West are in the same class as those of the East.

So far this season the Allentown team has lost but one game, that going to the Georgetown University, at Washington, D. C., Thanksgiving Day. More than 1000 members of the company made the trip from Allentown in army motor trucks. It required 102 trucks to haul them all, and only enough men were left for guard duty.

From all angles that a dopest can look at this game, it looks as though it was going to be very close, but all Oregon students are back of the marines, and are pulling hard for Beckett's team to uphold once more the football honor of the West.

WELLS CAPTAIN.

At a meeting of the letter men after the game with the University of Southern California, "Dummy" Wells was chosen captain of the California football team for 1919.

BASKETBALL CENTER OF SPORT ATTENTION

Coach Hayward Must Develop Entire Team Because Letter Men Are All in War.

Varsity Five to Be Picked Largely From Stars in Doughnut Series.

With Northwest and Coast football retired to the shelf, for the customary winter rest, those of the sport world now turn their attention to basketball. Oregon's tentative schedule, draw at the meeting of the Pacific Coast Inter-collegiate Athletic conference, in San Francisco, early this week, provides for the season to open with an Oregon-O. A. C. game, at Corvallis, January 11.

Oregon will start the season without a single letter man on her squad, and will be practically up against it, according to Coach Hayward. The inter-class and doughnut series will be watched carefully, he says, and the men for the new Varsity team, drawn largely from the illuminaries of these games. A series of practice games, between the different teams, composing the doughnut league will be played next week, meanwhile Varsity practice will continue without any definite squad being selected for special work.

Spring Sports Dismissed

At a meeting of the athletic directors of the colleges of the Pacific Coast, held at San Francisco last week, the subject of basketball and spring sports was discussed. Owing to the heavy expense of taking basketball teams on tours, and to the uncertainty of finance the conference decided that the University of California will not send a basketball team north, nor will any northern university send their team into California's territory. This agreement means that basketball fans of the northwest will not be able to see the University of California squad in comparison with northwest teams.

The schedule arranged by the conference provides that Oregon play nine games. Five of these games will be

STUDENTS SHOULD WAIT FOR DRAFT, SAYS BOWEN

Duty Lies in Securing Training for Conscription Army is Opinion of Commandant.

"A man shows more patriotism by keeping at his studies until the country calls him, than by enlisting now," said Colonel William H. C. Bowen, who is in charge of the military drill Wednesday "Orders from the war department are specific and should be obeyed by every student, unless there are some other particular circumstances in his case. If I had a son, I should certainly make him stay in college and get all the training available."

Colonel Bowen said that conditions have changed since six months ago, when practically everyone who enlisted, and had had some military training was made a corporal or sergeant. No more such chances will be offered until the next draft army is called. Then the training that will be received in the military drill here, will practically insure a non-commissioned office in the draft army. These non-commissioned officers will be directly in line for commissions and appointments to the officers' training camps.

Unless the University men stay in college and get trained, the army will suffer from a shortage of educated men for officers, in the next draft armies, declared the colonel.

ENFORCE VACATION RULES

Dean Fox Asks Co-operation of Heads of Houses at Meeting.

Term vacation rules were discussed at a meeting of the heads of women's fraternities, with Dean Elizabeth Fox, on Thursday. Miss Fox urges co-operation in enforcement of regular University rules during vacation.

Plans for campus Red Cross work were outlined by Miss Fox, who suggested that the head of each house do all in her power to help the cause. It was decided to leave membership cards at the different houses, giving University women a chance to join the organization before vacation.

MEN URGED TO WAIT FOR SECOND DRAFT

President Campbell Appeals to Students to Remain in College if Possible.

College Training Insures Good Chance in National Army.

"The one big task of college authorities now," said President Campbell yesterday, "is to try to keep down sudden rushes for enlistment in the army. While it is not the idea of the faculty to keep men from enlisting, yet they wish to strongly impress upon them the evil results, should all men who have been preparing themselves in schools of higher learning, leave to join the army."

"It is not that we wish to appear selfish in this matter, but it is in keeping with very strong advice from Secretary of War Baker, and others of high governmental authority in Washington, D. C., that all men remain in school, until a time when their country shall need them." The war department cannot discriminate in favor of the college man, while selecting the men to be drafted, but it is easy to see that should they be in a position to do so, they would undoubtedly leave the college man in school until he has finished his education.

"Another big factor which presents itself, is need of training men to help in the period of reconstruction, after the war. The country will look to the universities to furnish these men."

"The system of drafting is becoming to be looked upon as not only the most fair, but the most successful method of creating an army. People are fast learning to consider the draft more favorably than as a mark of disgrace."

"In the draft army the well-trained college man will undoubtedly have a decided advantage, when it comes time to select non-commissioned officers. He will be thrown with a large number of men, the majority of whom have had no previous military experience, and probably not much more than a high school education. The ability of a well trained man is bound to stand out and gain for him the better positions. If he enlists, he will lose this advantage, for he will be with men who have years of military experience."

"A great many of the men have feared that should they wait for the draft, they would be placed in a department of the army, which would be undesirable. From the reports of former university students, who are now commissioned officers in the various camps, this is not the case. Every opportunity is offered for a man to make good in that department, for which he is best suited. Drafted men are allowed to transfer from one department to another, until they have found congenial work."

MISS WINSLOW TO LECTURE

Playground Management Will Be Theme of Physical Trainer's Talks.

Miss Catharine Winslow, assistant physical director for women, at the University of Oregon, will give a lecture next Tuesday evening, before the parent-teachers' association of Cottage Grove, on the scientific management of playgrounds. Her lecture will be illustrated by a series of stereopticon views, many of which were procured by Miss Winslow herself, in her varied and successful career as a playground instructor, in some of the largest cities in the United States.

This will be the first of a series of illustrated addresses that Miss Winslow will probably give in cities and towns of Oregon. Her meetings will be arranged under the direction of the extension division of the University.

HAS BROTHERS IN SERVICE

Eric Allen's Kinsmen Have Places in Army and Navy.

Dean Eric W. Allen, of the school of journalism, has two brothers in the country's service. One, Chester Allen, has just received a first lieutenant's commission at Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, and has been assigned to Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia. Hugh Allen, is a senior aide in the Portsmouth navy yard.

"THE BEST TIME OF YEAR" SAY 300 FROSH AT SMOKER

Kappa Sigma House Features Annual Event for Men of Class of 1921.

It was SOME party! "The best time of my college year," was the verdict of each of the 300 freshmen, who attended the annual Kappa Sigma frosh smoker. From 8 o'clock in the evening until the final strains of the last sorority house serenade, early this morning, there was something doing every minute for the green cappers. The Kappa Sigma house was turned into one grand den of iniquity, which would have made dance halls of the Yukon look like missionary establishments. The Red Dog saloon was there, complete with the sawdust floor, and the bar presided over by two linen-clad bartenders, who passed out for the small price of one bone, various kind of liquors before the anti-temperance days. There were card tables, where reckless frosh bet huge stacks of their greenbacks on the outcome of poker games, and a roulette wheel, which made millionaires and hoboes. A table loaded with an inexhaustible supply of cigarettes, smoking tobacco, pipes and matches, made the evening enjoyable for the many slaves of Lady Nicotine.

CIVILIAN ORDNANCE JOBS FOR MEN UNFIT FOR WAR

Letter From War Department Says Those Rejected After End of Course Will Get Chance.

Uncle Sam needs several hundred capable young men for civilian positions in the ordnance department of the army, at Washington, D. C.

This information is contained in a letter just received from officials of the war department, by Professor C. C. Jeremiah of school of commerce. The letter advises that all students in the ordnance courses of the University, who are rejected for physical disability, after completing their work on the campus, will be given positions in the civilian branch of the service, at salaries ranging from $1,000 to $1,200 a year.

Professor Jeremiah interprets this to mean that the government does not propose to give civilian positions to men who are physically capable of rendering active military service, but that those who are rejected for physical reasons, will still be given a chance to "do their bit."

TRIPLE C PLANS STUNT FOR BIG JUNIOR LOTTERY

Girls Enthusiastic Over Class Dance; Work on Red Cross Caps Also at Meeting.

Hilarity reigned supreme late Thursday afternoon at the bungalow, when the Triple C girls held their regular meeting, and worked out a stunt for the junior party, on Friday evening.

Some of the girls worked on caps, which have been donated by the Red Cross. They are to be made at the bungalow, some time before Christmas, so that at the beginning of the second semester, the girls will be ready to begin the making of surgical dressings, in Mary Spiller hall.

With everyone so enthusiastic over her own idea of a stunt, that all chattered at the same time, the meeting was broken up, only when the hostesses served light refreshments. Those acting as hostesses were Ella Dews, Genevieve Dickey, Dorothy Flegal, Edyl Fraasch, Frances Frater, Harriet Garrett, Claire Gazley and Grace Gilmore.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB WORKING

Trip Will Be Taken Last of January. Sixteen Members in Group.

Daily practices are now being held by the Men's Glee club to prepare numbers for the concert trip, which will be taken during the latter part of January. It is not, as yet, known where the club will go this year, but it will probably journey through the eastern or northern part of the state. Several members of the club have enlisted, to escape the coming draft, but their places will be filled, so as to make a sixteen member club. The stunt tryouts will be held on December 10, at the School of music.

The members of the club are: first tenor, Morrison, Haseltine and Grey; second tenor, Solve, Smith, Ellis, Moore, Roberts and Flynn; first bass, Peterson, Spangler, McClain Leslie and Montague; second bass, Rowe White and Thompson.

BEZDEK PROMISES TO RETURN NEXT YEAR

"If I Don't Get War Bug and Conditions Are Normal I'll Be Back," Says Coach.

MENTOR GOES TO PASADENA

Good Crowd Bids Au Revoir to Man Responsible for California Victory.

"If I don't get the war bug, and college conditions are normal next year, I'll be back." Such were the last words of Coach Bezdek, spoken before a crowd of rooters, faculty, and townspeople last night, just before he boarded the rattler for California. A fair crowd of rooters turned out to see Bezdek off and show him that Oregon really wants him back again next year.

Jimmie Sheehy, representing the student body, spoke of the past work done by Coach Bezdek at Oregon. "We are all links in a mighty Oregon," said Sheehy. "We are assembled here to show our appreciation for the work that Coach Bezdek has done. It is with the deepest of regret that we have to let Coach Bezdek leave us at this time, we want him all the time. And the only condition under which we are letting him leave us tonight is that he be with us when school opens again next fall."

President Campbell was called upon by Sheehy to speak a few words. "We are sending Coach Bezdek south to demonstrate once again that, in athletics at least, the West is superior to the East," said President Campbell. "Last year Coach Bezdek and the University of Oregon eleven demonstrated that teams representing civil life of the West, were superior to teams representing civil life of the East; this year Coach Bezdek and the Marine team are going to show that teams representing the military body of the West are superior to teams representing the military units of the East. Wherever Coach Bezdek goes, the hearts and best wishes of every man and woman in the University go with him."

As the train approached, James Sheehy presented Coach Bezdek with the football that Steer's carried for sixty yards over California's goal line. On the football were the names of every man who made his football "O" this year, and also those of Bill Hayward and Dean Walker. Inscribed on the pigskin were the words "Oregon 21, California 0."

As the train carrying Coach Bezdek and his family pulled out of the Southern Pacific depot, the band struck up "Mighty Oregon," and the rooters gave three cheers for Bezdek, until the train had passed out of sight.

EXAMINATIONS WILL BE HELD LAST THREE DAYS

Vacation to Begin Friday Noon; Nine Hours Will Be Minimum for Freshmen.

Final examinations will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, December 19-21, the faculty decided at its meeting held Thursday afternoon. There will be three examinations on each of the first two days, and two on the last, other examinations to be arranged by the instructor.

Hours after three, the first two days, and afternoon the last day are open, as well as evenings and Saturday.

The faculty also ruled that nine hours be the minimum amount of work required for first term freshmen, to escape being formally placed on probation. Previously, eight hours has been the minimum for first semester freshmen.

SURGICAL APRONS BEGUN

More Girls Needed to Help Sew on Red Cross Garments.

Twenty-three aprons for the surgical dressings work were cut out Thursday and sewing was begun on them. Mrs. A. R. Sweetser, Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Miss E. Coleman, Mrs. Etta Holbrook and Miss Gertrude Mann directed the work.

More girls are needed to help with the work, according to Mrs. Sweetser, who also says that many of the girls, who helped on Thursday, had formerly been coming to the bungalow to knit.
