JUNIOR AND SENIOR GIRLS—BASKETBALL

Games Characterized by Snap and Lots of Fight; Few Rooters Present But Spirit High.

Class Teams to Play; Faculty May Get in on Schedule After Holidays.

Snappy games, with lots of fight, characterized the two co-ed inter-class games, which were played this week, in the women's gymnasium, and which left the juniors and freshmen as winners. Although there were few rooters present at the games, those that were there, brought all their pep with them, and did their best to urge their respective teams on to victory.

The juniors and seniors played Tuesday night. The game was fast, although at times a lack of team work was apparent on both sides. When the whistle blew for time up, the score was a tie, both classes having won five points. To work off the tie, the game had to be continued till one team won two additional points. The seniors, on a free throw, won one additional point, but a neat field basket, made by Maud Lombard, gave the victory to the juniors, by a score of 7 to 6.

In the progress of the game, the lights went out, and the rooters spent the time in serpentineing and rooting, for their respective teams.

The freshmen-sophomore game went against all traditions, when the frosh walked away with the ball, with a score of 15 to 10. For some time this game also was tied, but finally ended with the class of '21 five points ahead.

The finals between the freshmen and juniors are being played tonight. Both teams are going to do their best as the frosh are anxious to win from the upperclassmen, while the latter, likewise want to see the Hayward cup decorated with a '19' for the third time. "It promises to be a very exciting game," says Hazel Rader, who has been refereeing the games.

Plans are also being made for games between the different class teams and the faculty team, although these will not be played till after the holidays.

The lineup in the games was as follows: Seniors, Esther Furuset, Margaret Crosby, forwards; Frieda Laird, Ethel Newland, guards; Margaret Crim, Beth Smith, centers.

Sophomores: Allie Phillips, Jeannette Moss, forwards; Myrtle Magerle, Margaret Bailey, guards; Eva Hansen, Elizabeth Peterson, centers.

WORK OF OREGON ARTISTS DISPLAYED

Colorful Exhibit Opened at the University; Lecture Will Be Given Monday Night.

Mix oil paintings ranging from tones of crimson in the centre to greens and yellow at either end, supplement them with water colors, pastels and charcoals, sprinkled with a few pieces of sculpture throw in a background of dull gray and you have an idea of the coloring of the exhibit of Oregon art which is being shown to the public at the University school of architecture.

The collection will be shown every afternoon from two until five o'clock until the beginning of the Christmas holidays. A lecture on the display will be given in the exhibit room next Monday evening at eight o'clock by Professor Roswell Dosch, instructor in the art department.

All the sculptured pieces shown have been done by Mr. Dosch, who has studied under Bourdelle, the greatest pupil of the late Auguste Rodin. Remarkable among these is a bust of his mother, Mrs. Dosch, a symbolic work, and characterized by Professor A. H. Schreff as the finest thing that Mr. Dosch has done. Busts of his father, Colonel H. E. Dosch, his small nephew, Fleuret Dosch and Dr. George Rebec, all show high creative genius and fairly breathe with realism. Striking among the oil paintings is a portrait study by Shanna Cumming, of Portland. The exquisite coloring, the splendid poise of the head, the fine sense of proportion combined with the subtle personality of the thing fascinate the visitor. "The Boy in Red" by Miss C. J. Stephens, teacher in the Portland art museum, is another outstanding piece of work. Dashing in design and execution, the brilliant coloring and finished workmanship of the piece are remarkably effective.

Vibrant with color and life is "The Portland Public Market," by Miss Edna Ereyman, of Portland. "The Spring Freshet" also by Miss Ereyman, is an exquisite study in pale grays and greens. "The Old Barn," by Datus E. Mears, has a remarkably realistic out-of-doors atmosphere. Prominent among the oil works are some samples of still life by Miss Anna Bell Crocker, curator of the art museum in Portland, and Miss Fern Merriam.

Particularly fine among the water colors are the works of H. F. Wentz, an art teacher of Portland, who displays an unusual sense of color and power of expression.

Report Made of Knitting Done by University Girls

At the Young Women's Christian association advisory board meeting held Monday afternoon, reports were given of the knitted work done by the University girls and turned in to the Red Cross. This includes 40 sweaters, 24 mufflers, 4 wash cloths, 4 pairs of socks and 5 pairs of mittens. A good many articles are not included in this list, as they were called in and lacked a little bit of being finished. Besides the knitting work, a good many girls have been going to the headquarters to do surgical dressings.
