With examinations only a week distant, University people have had little time to devote to social happenings. The matinee dance given by the Women's band yesterday afternoon, from four to six o'clock in Hayward hall, has been the main diversion of the week. The affair marked the first appearance of the new organization, and their music was well received and the event a very successful one. Patrons and patronesses of the dance included Dean and Mrs. E. W. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Faguy-Cote, Dean Elizabeth Fox, Dean Straub, Mrs. Daise Beckett Middleton, Professor and Mrs. W. F. G. Thacher, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Walker, and Mrs. Albert Perfect.

The Chi Omega house was the scene of a charming tea Saturday afternoon, given for the benefit of the local Red Cross organization. Over 200 guests thronged the attractively decorated rooms and were received by Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Mrs. F. M. Wilkins, Mrs. R. S. Bryson, Miss Julia Burgess, Dean Elizabeth Fox and Leura Jerard. The hostesses wore the Red Cross aprons and head-dresses. Little Elizabeth Thacher received the silver donations at the door, while the prettily appointed tea table, with its centerpiece and candle shades in old rose tones, was presided over by Mrs. M. L. Bugbee, Mrs. Lee Travis, Mrs. Dean Hayes, and Mrs. A. Faguy-Cote.

Honoring Mr. F. A. Naramore and Mr. Joseph Jacobberger, Portland architects, and members of the jury, which judged the work in design of the University school of architecture, the architecture club entertained with a banquet at the Hotel Osburn last Wednesday night. Places were marked around the attractively appointed table for Mr. Naramore,

Mr. Jacobberger, President and Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Professor and Mrs. F. G. Young, Dr. and Mrs. George Rebec, Professor and Mrs. Arthur Faguy-Cote, Professor and Mrs. A. H. Schreff, Professor Frederick Fritsch, Dean E. F.
