

SCHROFF EXHIBITING RUNNER'S PAINTING

Oregon Coast Scenes Depicted in Oils and Water Colors While on His Vacation.

Several Eastern Subjects Are Shown With Western Sketches.

An exhibition of 65 paintings in water-color and oil, by Professor A. H. Schroff, of the department of art at the University, are on display in the exhibit room at the architecture building.

All of the paintings are nature studies, and many of them were done by Mr. Schroff last summer, when he spent the months of August and September along the Oregon coast. A large majority of the pictures are marines painted about Newport, The Devil's Punch Bowl and Yachats. Mr. Schroff lived in a tent and ate at the Yachats' post-office for a time, in order to paint some of the scenes of the country.

"Most of these pictures were done in less than an hour," said Mr. Schroff. "When one works on ocean scenery it is necessary to work fast as the tide goes out, then there is nothing to work with."

Weather Not Considered.

Mr. Schroff has several paintings done about Eugene, one scene, looking down from Hendricks park, was painted last junior week-end, during a heavy rain.

Before placing his exhibit, Mr. Schroff had the walls of the exhibit room done over in a soft gray tone. A canvas has been stretching under the skylight to throw a better light on the pictures. "This room," said Mr. Schroff, "is a very difficult one in which to display paintings. However, I hope that at some time the lighting and general atmosphere may be improved."

Besides pictures of the Oregon coast, there are several done along the coast of Maine, one being of a cave called "Spouting Rock," where the water rushes in and shoots high into the air. The picture was painted just at sunrise, and the soft pink and rose tints of the morning sun are just visible on the distant mountain tops.

Shipbuilder Buys Painting.

Another of Mr. Schroff's paintings was done in his back yard at Wellesley, Mass., and shows a still pond with tall willows along the edge, which are reflected perfectly in the clear water.

One of Mr. Schroff's canvases, companion to one of those now on exhibition, was sold last week to A. F. Myers, Portland shipbuilder, for $100.

The paintings will be on display at architecture hall for two weeks.

ALUMNI COUNCIL TO MEET

Conference With Regents Changed From January 22 to February 5.

The meeting of the alumni council called for January 22, has been postponed until February 5. The new date has been set because of the change of the date of the board of regents' meeting, as the alumni conference was called to confer with the regents.

The board of regents' meeting has been moved forward to February 5, because of the detention of President Campbell in the east.

LEADER TALKS TO CHILDREN

Tells Part Boys and Girls of Belligerent Nations Play in War.

Lieutenant Colonel John Leader thrilled a large audience of school children and town folks in Villard hall yesterday afternoon with some of his experiences in France. The children were very attentive, and cheered at some parts of the talk. Colonel Leader spent most of his time in telling the part of the French and British children in the war.

ORDNANCE OPENS MONDAY

New Military Basis of Course Causes Week's Delay in Work.

The third ordnance course begins Monday morning, after a week's delay due, according to Lieutenant C. C. Jeremish, to the changing to a military basis. The course was dated January 4, but was held from mailing for a week.

About 70 are signed up in the work, but at present about 25 have arrived on the campus. Every man will be listed before entering the work of the course. The examining is to be done by Lieutenant Collins, M. R. C., Vancouver barracks.

VARSITY DEBATE TRYOUTS HELD THIS AFTERNOON

Four Chosen From Nine Competitors to Represent the University in Triangle Meet.

The final tryouts for the Varsity debate team were held in Professor R. W. Prescott's room this afternoon. Four were selected, two to debate British Columbia here, and the other two to go to Seattle to meet the University of Washington.

The question deals with the establishment of an international court to pass on all international disputes, with an international constabulary to enforce its decisions. The negative team will travel.

This afternoon each speaker was allowed 12 minutes for his constructive speech and 4 minutes in rebuttal. Professor Prescott, Walter Myers, and Professor Peter Crockatt, were the judges.

Those who signified their intention Friday of competing were Kenneth Armstrong, Day Bayly, Ralph Holzman, Carlton Savage, Hugh Brunk, Walter Grebe, Rosh Graham, Lloyd Still, and Lee Bartholomew.

man out at 165 pounds. He has improved over his form last season, and ought to hold his own against the purple and gold heavyweight.

Hours have been arranged for individual practice, and from now on the men are to train the same as a football team. The tryouts will take place in the wrestling room in the gymnasium.

Graduate Manager A. R. Tiffany announced that he has secured a meet with O. A. C., to be held in Eugene on March 8. Last year the Aggies won five matches and tied one.

MILITARY ETIQUET

The purpose of this column will be to make clear any question which may arise from time to time about military etiquet. If you have something you want to know, and something that you think the other fellow would like to know, let the news editor have your suggestion, and he will pass it on to the right parties to answer it for you.

QUESTION: What would be the etiquet which a private should follow when entering a room in which some commissioned officer or the commandant is sitting? Suppose it should be some sorority house or other place on the campus, outside of the orderly room or the classes.—W. H.

ANSWER: Rise, if you are present when the officer enters, and stand at attention, until told to do otherwise. He will give you the word to come to rest or ease.

If you enter the room in which the officer is sitting, merely come to attention, and remain standing until he gives you the word to do otherwise.

MEN'S GLEE TO CRESWELL

Portland, Seaside, American Lake Included in February Trip.

It was announced by Manager Don Roberts, of the Men's Glee club, yesterday that the club will make a trip to Creswell, Ore., soon, and will give a program there. The appearance at Creswell is to be made in order to give the club the finishing touches for the trip, which is to be taken on February 1. The advertising for the trip, which, as was previously announced, will be to Portland, Seaside and American Lake, is now being done.

The members of the club had their picture taken last Sunday for the Oregonian.

COLUMBIA'S SERVICE FLAG.

Columbia University recently unfurled its new service flag. The flag has been draped across the main door of their library. It has an area of 240 square feet and contains 500 stars with room for 700 more. This does not include graduates. The total number of Columbia men, both students and alumni, who have entered various branches of the service is estimated at 8926.

OREGANA STAFF MEETS ARMY TO FEATURE

Picture of Enlisted Men and Military Work to Be Featured in Annual Edited by Juniors.

Want Personals From Men in Service; Architecture Students to Furnish Plates.

At the last meeting of the Oregana staff held at the Alpha Phi house, it was decided to play up the military department, giving more space to it than to any other feature of the book. The book this year is to contain about four hundred pages, one hundred of which will cover the military activities of the men and the Red Cross work of the women. An endeavor will be made to put in as many pictures of enlisted men as possible. A complete list of Oregon men in the service will also be printed, and has been very carefully compiled by the administration.

"We are very anxious to receive personal notes about any of our soldiers, and will welcome them gratefully," said Helen Brenton, editor of the Oregana today.

More Than Usual About Faculty.

The faculty will figure largely this year, more space being devoted to administration than usual.

A contest is now on in the school of architecture and fine arts for four inserts, frontispiece, page border, book-plate, and book stamp and will be judged by Dean Lawrence and Professor Schroff. The contest, however, is open to any University student. The work receiving the highest award will be put into the book, the next two will receive honorable mention. The school of architecture and fine arts will co-operate with the staff artist, and Professor Schroff will supervise all work.

New pictures of the campus are now being taken, especially for the book.

Year books from many prominent colleges and universities of the United States have been collected and are being examined for new ideas by the staff. All members of the staff will receive complimentary copies.

Personnel of Staff.

MILITARY BRIEFS

Fremont Hodson, ex '20, formerly stationed with the medical corps at Vancouver barracks, has received an appointment to the reserve officers' training camp at Camp Lewis.

Howard Bowles, ex '19, has been transferred from Vancouver to Camp Lewis. Bowles is enlisted in the medical corps.

Ray Murphy, ex '13, a graduate of the Pacific Dental College, of Portland, since leaving the University, is a first lieutenant in the dental reserve. Murphy expects to be called into the service within a few days.

Glen Macy, a member of the football squad last fall, is now in special training at Camp Lewis, studying orthopedics. The members of the course will have the care of the soldiers' feet, and expect to be sent to France ahead of the other branches now in training at Camp Lewis.

INDIANA'S PLAN.

A plan has been submitted to President Bryan of the University of Indiana to begin classes at 7:30 o'clock and let them continue until 12:20 at noon, making five class periods in the morning. This plan is advised in order that military drill may be held in the morning without interfering with regular classes.

ILLINOIS AT THE FRONT

The University of Illinois has at present over 2000 men in the national service, about 200 of whom are at the front. Major General J. Ruckman, commander of the southern department, is a graduate of this university.

MARRIED

Telephoning from Portland to her sorority sisters on the campus, Miss Elizabeth Bruere, a sophomore in college, broke the news that she is the latest of the campus co-eds to enter matrimony. She was married to William Banks, a former student at Dartmouth College, who has enlisted in the army and may be called into service soon.

Members of Delta Gamma, of which Mrs. Banks is a member, professed last night to know nothing of Mrs. Banks' plans other than that she was married.

The ceremony took place in Portland at high noon Friday. Mr. Banks, who is a member of Beta Theta Pi, is at present engaged in the insurance business in Portland.
