BEZDEK FAMILY NOT WILD OVER CITY LIFE

Famous Coach Writes From Chicago Saying "We Have a Great State."

Colleges Seem to Be Planning More Sports Than Ever, He Says.

"The Bezdek family is settled down to the routine of city life."

So says a letter from Oregon's famous coach, which has just come to President Campbell. And the next is typical:

"But," he continues, "we are not wild about it. Oregon looks good enough to us. It is taking a lot of 'Oregon spirit' to buck these blizzards—so says Hugo Jr."

"Mrs. Bezdek joins me in sending our best wishes to you, Mrs. Campbell, and the University."

"We have a great state."

"Yours sincerely,

"HUGO BEZDEK."

"Bez" and his family are evidently at home at 2447 North California avenue, Chicago, for that is the address he tacks to the end of his letter.

He says that as far as he can tell, the various educational institutions are planning more sports than ever; it seems to be the desire of both officials and men in service to extend such activities. The field of baseball, in which he is specializing as manager for the Pittsburg National league, is normal, he says. The attendance at the big league games is expected to be the same as usual, depending, of course, on conditions in France by spring.

WAR PAMPHLET SERIES RECEIVED AT LIBRARY

Works Cover Wartime Measures, Conduct of a Soldier and Topics of General Information.

Two series of pamphlets upon war subjects, issued by committees under the government, are being received at the University library and may be secured at the circulation desk. A booklet called "Home Reading Course for Citizen-Soldiers," published by the war department, is the latest received. This gives information concerning enlistment, personal conduct of the soldier, personal appearance, necessary physical care, and also relates to many national traditions which must be observed by the soldier.

Other numbers of this series are, "German War Practices," and "National Service Handbook." The handbook is a source of almost any kind of informa-

The other series is called the war information series. There are six numbers of the series in the library, and some of their topics are: "The Nation in Arms"; "The Great War: A War of Self-defense"; "American Interest in Popular Government Abroad"; and "Government of Germany." Each of these subjects is handled by specialists.

MAGAZINE WAR ARTICLES LISTED BY DR. R. C. CLARK

History Professor Gives Monthly Selections to Library for Benefit of Students.

An annotated list of current magazine articles on the war has been made and submitted to the University library by Dr. R. C. Clark, of the history department. Dr. Clark makes a similar list of recent articles each month for the convenience of students in finding articles on war subjects.

The last list is as follows:

Japan's Attitude Toward the War, by K. K. Kawakami in the February number of the Review of Reviews. The writer has recently returned from Japan. Thinks it may take threats of German influence in Siberia to arouse Japanese to co-operation with allies.

Bordeaux-Odessa vs. Berlin-Bagdad, to be found in February number of World's Work. Shows possibilities of a railway line along 45 parallel from Bordeaux to Odessa. There is a map.

Why France Wants Alsace-Lorraine, to be found in February World's Work. A good explanation of French views.

The Simonds article in February number of World's Work explains probable direction of the German drive the coming spring. There is a map to illustrate.

Bolshevism as a World Problem, in February Review of Reviews. Predicts a United States of Russia and ultimate future of Bolshevism, and gives what seem good reasons for such opinions.

How Germany Is Preparing for the Next War, in World's Work for February. There are good maps showing extent of destruction in Belgium, industrial resources of occupied part of France and the economic map of Serbia. This article is intended to show the danger of making peace until Germany is thoroughly crushed.

The annual meeting of the University board of regents will be held on the campus Saturday morning, February 16, at which time Oregon will have as her guests the various members of the board from over the state.

So far, owing to the rush of affairs which has occupied President Campbell's time since his return from the east, no definite outline of business has been prepared, but routine matters will be considered.

President Campbell will present his annual report, which will deal in part with the situation in Washington and the east; the various department budgets will be estimated, and several degrees are to be granted.

Delta Delta Delta and Pi Beta Phi are having an exchange dinner this evening. Katherine Twomey, Mary Murdock, Helen Campbell, Elizabeth Stausfield, Doris Churchill, Katherine De Voe, and Helen Hair are guests of Pi Beta Phi, while Elvira Thurlow, Hester Hurd, Annette Spencer, Ella Dews, Ada Matthews, Adele Powell, Pauline Beals, and Kathleen Ke mare dining with the Delta Delta Delta girls.

CAPITAL IS LIKENED TO COLLEGE CAMPUS

President Says Department Posts in Washington Are Filled by University Graduates.

R. O. T. C. Situation Hopeful; May Obtain Better Organization.

Two things struck President P. L. Campbell with particular emphasis on his just-completed trip to Washington, D. C., and other eastern cities, he said Wednesday, in his talk on "Washington in War Times," given at the student assembly. The first was the enormous resources of the United States as they are revealed in a trip across the continent at this time; the other the similarity of the national capital to a huge college campus because of the large number of young people who are employed in the various departments there. Most of these appear to be college graduates, he said, and are the same type of men and women—alert, full of vigor, and with a pleasant smile and friendly manner.

"Washington is," continued President Campbell, "a city in which every interest in the world, both political and financial, is represented at the present time." He spoke particularly of the New Willard and Raleigh hotels, saying that the former has probably more men of world prominence going in and out its doors each day than any other in the world.

Is Economic Center.

"The Raleigh," he said, "is the economic center, where the typical men of business with a capital 'B' are to be found. They are the men there to put through the great contracts, many of them running as high as 100,000,000, which have to do with the carrying out of the government's war measures. Side by side with the political and business powers are to be found the beauty, fashion and wit of all countries of the globe."

Fuel and weather conditions he found to be very bad, and the president told an amusing story of how the Washington resident is often interrupted by his neighbor from the British embassy, come to borrow a scuttle full of coal. Thousands of homes are without fuel, and conditions are serious, President Campbell declares.

"The same shortage applies to hotel accommodations; it is necessary to wire a week ahead for rooms," said President Campbell, "and then upon arrival one is apt to be told that he can have a room in a week. The next best thing to do is to seek the park benches, unless one is gifted with unusual persuasiveness, in which case he may be allowed the privilege of paying $5 for the boon of a cot."

Sees Soldier's Everywhere.

"There are soldiers everywhere," said the speaker. "They are without a touch of dissipation, and it makes one proud of a United States soldier or sailor anywhere; it is not only a crime to buy a drink for a man in the service, but a crime to drink with him. United States officers' uniforms are in evidence everywhere." President Campbell visited in the course of his trip, Camp Funston, where 40,000 troops are stationed.

In Boston he saw D. W. Morton, former dean of the University school of commerce, who is now on a leave of absence; at New York he attended a meeting of the National Security club, which has for its purpose plans for re- at that time, however, that a war de- war; and an educational meeting in Chicago.

Attends Education Meeting.

The latter meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the problem of reorganization of the educational forces of the country, with a view to having trained men in reserve in case of a prolonged war. After some debate on the best means of accomplishing the desired end, the meeting recommended that a secretary of education be appointed to give the educational forces of the country a more prominent place in government. The eight larger educational associations were to form an advisory council to formulate plans. It was found at that time, however, that a war department council had been appointed consisting of three war department officers and five civilians, with a large financial backing.

"They are making of it a long-sighted proposition," said President Campbell, "and expect a steady supply of trained men for carrying on the war as a result of the scheme. A bill has been introduced in the senate by Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, providing that a department of education be created, the head of the department to be a member of the president's cabinet. of defense in all countries," declared President Campbell. "America has to lead in the educational reconstruction of the world—it must be either Germany or America for Russia. The whole reconstruction period will demand educated men and women. The opportunity to become leaders in this great work is coming to every college student; it will come to all of you here."

In regard to the R. O. T. C. authorization which is pending, the president said that some definite announcement will be made within a few days. All that is necessary to bring the good news is a wire to Washington, but it is possible that some more satisfactory form of organization may be found. The splendid work being accomplished on the campus under Colonel Leader is recognized and was highly commended, he said.

A talk by Dr. F. Morgan, religious and educational director of Camp Kearney, Cal., in the interests of Bible study classes, preceded the address, with four songs by the women's glee club. The song, "Knit, Knit, Knit," from "Jack o' Lantern," scored especially high with the crowd which filled Villard.

SON BORN TO FORMER STUDENTS

Announcement Received from Mrs. Sylvia Rowland Chase.

In a letter received last week by Dean Elizabeth Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Chase announced the birth of a son, Richard Lee, on January 12. Both Mr. and Mrs. Chase attended the University last year. Mrs. Chase, who was Sylvia Rowland, was a member of the class of 1919 and majored in the school of journalism. Mr. Chase was a member of the class of 1920. Mr. and Mrs. Chase are making their home at Summit, Ore., where Mr. Chase holds the position as relief agent and operator for the Southern Pacific.

Laurel Canning and Nellie McClure are the latest residents at Hendricks Hall, having taken up residence Saturday. Both are entering the University as juniors from Monmouth Normal school. Besides her work at the University, Miss Canning will teach arithmetic in the seventh and eighth grades in the junior high school.

A. F. Reddie, head of the department of public speaking, this morning accepted a position as instructor in the dramatic interpretation department of the University of California, for the coming summer school session.
