FOR THE VOTERS' BENEFIT.

At the next regular meeting of the Associated Students, Wednesday, May 1, the amendment proposed to make all letter awards for the various major sports of uniform size is to come to a vote. No question brought forward for the consideration of the students this year has ever approached the degree of interest non-partism point of view when the mat- vira Inuriew. aroused by this proposal to change the system of athletic awards.

The amendment was first proposed at the last meeting of the student body, but was referred back to the Student Council for investigation and a report, because it was felt that the merits and demerits of the plan were not well enough understood to be intelligently decided at that time. In the Student Council the matter has been referred to a committee, which is to report at the next meeting of the Council. And while the Council and its matter has been referred to a committee, which is to report at committee are investigating, the student body at large is accumulating its information largely tthrough rumors, many of them wild and exaggerated.

The question at issue cannot be wisely settled either in the negative or affirmative except when all of the arguments for and Room Daintily Decorated with smith, Lois Macy, Jennie Parelius, against the change have been put squarely before the students. The Emerald, therefore, will print such information as is submitted between this date and the date of the balloting that deals directly with the question of changing or retaining the present system of letter awards. With the exception of communications already in the hands of the editor, the Emerald, however, reserves the right to reject any communication more than 300 words in length. All communications should be typewritten and must be written on one side of the paper only. The Emerald desires to print as much information on both sides of the award question as its limited space will justify and, if available, will print at least two communications in each issue. First come first ing by the members of the fourth served. Editorially the Emerald will stand behind the move- ordnance class promises to be one of ment to standardize the athletic "O," but in the news columns the treatment of the qusetion will be entirely impartial.

Two communications relative to the proposed amendment tion and every advantage of this has are as follows:

Editor of the Emerald:-I notice that there is a proposition before the student body to amend the constitution so as to grant a uniform "O" to football, baseball, basketball, wrestling and track, and if you will permit the courtesy, I would like space in your columns to enter a protest against this change. I fully apdifferent angles, and the man who has been out of school tor a few years likes to see things maintained the way they were when he was in school, while sometimes there may be no reason for maintaining such an order, and it may be that I am prompted by this desire. Nevertheless I feel that there ought to be a distinction between the football "O" and the others, as I believe the men work harder for the football "O" than for any other "O," which it is the privilege this without any fear of being accused of of the sport in which the man took part. being selfish, for I am not a wearer of | design, as prescribed in 1905 and '06.

brought to our attention that there is a out the scheme. measure before the student body to change the letter wards. We are all naturally watching the student body at the "U." this year and it was a surprise when the proposed change was introduced. Although not present at college preciate that we view these things from this year we feel an active interest in what is going on.

The awarding of the letter "O" was settled upon several years ago by a group of students who had well in mind the matter of distinction and appreciation by which the student body honored those who took part in the various athletic to tivities. The matter was settled upon and has never before been subject to such radical charges as are now initiated. At the time we wore the "O" it was considered a privilege to wear same and of the student body to grant, and I say the size of the letter bore the distinction
