

BALDWIN WILL TEACH

Former Student, Designer of Portland Liberty Temple, to Handle Pen and Pencil Work.

Succeeds Frederick Fritsch in Architecture and Art School.

Clayton Baldwin, a former student and the new instructor in pen and pencil in the school of architecture, designed the Liberty Temple in Portland shortly before coming to the University to take the place of Professor Frederick Fritsch. The Liberty Temple is the most conspicuous building in Portland today, standing as it does in the center of sixth street between the post office and the Portland hotel. It was built under the auspices of the third liberty loan campaign to be the headquarters of the workers.

"All services on the Temple," said Mr. Baldwin, "were donated, even the labor. The building was put up in one day, the men working on it from seven o'clock one Sunday morning until nine o'clock that night. The fountain was running and the steam heat was turned on before the roof was complete. Mr. Baldwin told many amusing instances that occurred during the building.

"One of the workmen," he said, "who was putting in the floor beams found himself, after a half hour, built in. The men above him worked so fast that they found it necessary to rip up some of the flooring to let him free again."

The Temple is a frame building with plaster on the outside, forty feet by eighty feet and intended only for temporary use.

"The city," said Mr. Baldwin, "is planning on moving the building from its present site as the street space is needed. It will probably be placed on the Corbett block directly south of the post office."

DEBATE CLUB TO FORM; ALL CO-EDS ELIGIBLE

Girls to Try University of Washington Method for Stimulating Interest in Forensics.

All girls interested in debate and oratory are urged to come to a meeting in Professor Prescott's room next Monday afternoon at 4 p. m. At this time an organization will be formed to which every girl in the University is eligible. All that is necessary is an enthusiasm for either debate or oratory. Experience in either of these two lines is not necessary.

After the debate with the University of Washington last Monday night, it was decided to try the plan that Washington has for training her debaters. There they have two organizations of girls, forty girls altogether, and these societies meet twice a month and have "a regular time" as one Washington co-ed put it. They have informal arguments which not only benefit the contestants to a very great extent in keeping them in touch with the big movement of the day but also gives them the experience necessary for arsy debate.

If the different organizations on the campus enter the co-ed doughnut league debating series for the shield which the forsenic council is offering, this is an excellent opportunity for the girls who expect to enter from the different societies to get some training before trying for the shield. But this society is not only for those girls in houses, for Oregon Club has just as much chance to win that shield as anyone. Come out to the meeting Monday afternoon, girls.

MEETING OF TRE NU POSTPONED

Business Club To Be Entertained Next Sunday By Mrs. A. R. Sweetser.

The meeting of the Tre Nu which was to be held this Sunday has been postponed until next Sunday, owing to the fact that Lillian Hausler, president, was called suddenly to Portland. The meeting will be held at Mrs. A. R. Sweetser's home and election of officers will be the order of business.

PROFESSOR HOWE TO RETURN

Condition Of Daughter, Ill in New York, Improving Slowly.

Professor H. C. Howe, who was called to Fulton, New York, by the illness of his little daughter, writes that the child's condition is improving slowly, and that he does not think it will be possible for him to return to Oregon before the second week in May.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY FOR WOMEN WILL BE MAY 25

Athletic Association Waives Ruling; New Members May Be Received Now.

Plans for the women's annual field day, to be held this year on Saturday, May 2, are now being made by the Women's Athletic association. No definite arrangements have been made, but it is planned to have the following events as usual: A canoe race, a golf tournament, final tennis tournament, baseball game, track meet, and swimming meet.

No woman is eligible to enter the field day activities for award unless she is a member of the Women's Athletic association. This ruling is made because the awards are made by this association.

A rule of the association is that the receiving of new members shall be closed at the end of the second term, but at a meeting held this morning at 11 o'clock it was decided to waive this ruling, thus making it possible for girls to join, and for old members to pay their back dues before May 1, if they desire to enter field day activities. Dues for membership in the association are 50 cents.

The question of awards was also discussed at the meeting this morning. Further announcement of field day plans will be made later.

PHOTOGRAPHY BOOK ARRIVES

Volume May Be Of Help to Those Planning to Enter Aviation.

The library has received from the library of congress, a bibliography on aerial photography and the applicability of telephotography to the same. This list of subjects deals with facts concerning the branch of service in the United States army in which Eyer Brown, a graduate from the school of architecture last year, enlisted, and Mrs. Mabel McLain, circulation librarian suggests that it may be of interest to other students who are contemplating entering the aviation corps.

WALTER MAY VISITS CAMPUS

Walter May assistant city editor of the Portland Oregonian, spent Saturday in Eugene visiting his sister Miss Gertrude May, who is a sophomore at the University.

Mr. May has been touring the middle west as advance agent for Miss Maude Powell, violinist. He will resume his work on the Oregonian next week.

Mr. May visited the journalism department of the University while in Eugene and spoke highly of the work done there. Mr. May is one of the contributors to the University of Oregon Exchange, a monthly publication issued by the students of the department of journalism for the benefit of newspapermen throughout the state. He left on the 1:50 train for Portland.

ing means of raising $300 to pay the University's dues to the American University Union. This money will be raised locally. The American University Union was formed "to meet the needs of American university and college men and their friends who are in Europe for military or other service in the cause of the allies."

The Union has at its headquarters in Paris a hotel with the privileges of a simple club for American college men and their friends passing through Paris or on furlough. Here one finds an information bureau, writing and newspaper room, library, dining room, bedrooms, baths, opportunities for physical recreation, entertainment, medical advice, etc.

The Union opened October 20, 1917. "Representatives of thirty different American colleges took rooms the first night," reads the pamphlet issued by the Union, "while two weeks thereafter the Executive committee cabled that the accommodations were 'overflowing.'"

By December 1, 1917, ninety-one Universities had joined the Union, among them the University of Oregon.

ment, has been asked to enter the psychological service, but has been advised by the war department to remain at the University for the present, since he is the only man left in this department.

Telephone!! Save Time!!

The merchants whose ads are on this page have installed telephones for your convenience, and the fact that they have their advertisements on this page means that they are inviting you to use the telephone with which to buy goods from them. And it means further that they are prepared to take care of such purchases promptly and satisfactorily. They want your business or they wouldn't ask for it. If they think enough of it to ask for it, they think enough of it to handle it so that you will be satisfied and buy again.
