

S. A. T. C. ORGANIZED INTO 2 COMPANIES

Men Quartered at Same Place to Be in Same Platoon.

The Student Army Training Corps has been organized into two companies to be known as A and B. They are to be divided into eight platoons, four platoons to each company. These platoons will consist of from 45 to 58 men each.

Men who have had previous experience in army training will be acting non-commissioned officers. They will be divided as evenly as possible among the platoons.

Lieutenant Edward Radcliffe is to have charge of company A, and with him is Lieutenant Cornelius Willis. Lieutenants Frank Spratlin Jr., and Roubie H. Partridge have charge of company B.

The basis of division into platoons and companies is being made according to the way in which the men are housed so that the men in the same platoons and if possible the same companies will be in the same place.

The equipment, which consists of beds and bedding which the University has ordered so that the S. A. T. C. men may be made comfortable is now on the way. Thus the men who have been forced to sleep on straw ticks will soon be more adequately provided for. Ammunition has also been ordered.

It is expected that the barracks which are under construction on the golf fields just east of University avenue will be ready by the first of November. The twenty-five thousand dollar fund for the building of the barracks was furnished by the merchants of Eugene. The barracks are to be rented to the University until funds have been raised to purchase them when they will become part of the University buildings.

TO TEACH NEGROES ABROAD

Brother of Siberian Sent to France to Organize Educational Work

H. P. Douglass, brother of M. H. Douglass, librarian of the University of Oregon, has resigned as secretary of the American Missionary Society in order to go to France as a Y. M. C. A. worker. Mr. Douglass has been in Eugene, where he lectured before the ministers' conference held in connection with the summer school of 1916.

Mr. Douglass has been sent to France to organize educational work among the negro troops of the United States who are fighting in France. The purpose of this organization is to educate the soldiers so that none will return to the United States as illiterate and uneducated men. Mr. Douglass is working under the direction of the Y. M. C. A., but it is thought that the government will, after the war, take up the work of educating returned soldiers.

When He Fails to Get That Letter, World's One Lump of Gloom

"She writes me, she writes me not. She writes me, she writes me not."

Thus does the eager man in the mail line tell of his fate with each step that brings him nearer the window where the precious missive may lie waiting him.

Twice daily the men try their luck at the window in the upper floor of the Administration building. And twice daily they vow that next time they will be the first in line or know the reason why.

One man came away from the window Friday morning trying to hide a life-size hat box that gave itself away most decidedly. He muttered about it deprecatingly, but wait until it tops his golden locks and the shame of carrying a "regular girl's hat box" is forgotten, and then it will be all glory.

They talk about the men in the trenches, appreciating their letters from home, and if you want to get a testimony of this watch the fellows as they turn away from the window. It takes no mind reader to tell whether the man has been satisfied or not.

MAIL FORCE SWAMPED

Parcel Post Packages Average 200 Daily at Office

A wagon load of mail comes to the University office every day to be distributed to the men of the campus, and the mail force is swamped. Five times as much mail as formerly, comes to the office. The principal burden is parcel post packages, which average 200 daily. The mail is being sorted according to companies and orderlies call now each morning thus relieving the long, serpentine "country postoffice" line, which has been forming at mail hour for the past two weeks.

MEN'S ADDRESSES WANTED

The president's office asks that every student, knowing the address of an Oregon man in the service, please turn it in at once so that the records may be made complete. More than 1,000 Oregon men are now serving the country, but records at the office give recent addresses of only half this number. The addresses are wanted particularly at this time so that the newspaper which the editing class of the school of journalism is publishing, may reach all Oregon men possible.

LIBRARIAN TO BAN COUGHS

Mr. Douglass, librarian, asks students who have had coughs to remain outside the library because of the disturbance which the continual coughing makes, and secondly he wishes to safeguard the public.

WARNING BELL INSTALLED

A warning bell at five minutes before the hour has been instituted at the Library in order that the building may be cleared of students as nearly after ten o'clock at night as possible, so that the assistants may not have to stay overtime. Students are asked to leave immediately at the sound of the bell.

ART SCHOOL GIVES PRACTICAL COURSES

Work in Ship Drafting and Military Sketching Offered

Ship drafting, military sketching, normal art and principles of French architecture are among the new courses offered this year by the school of architecture and the art department to meet the demands of students who wish to apply such training to practical use during war times.

"Many opportunities are now open," said Professor P. P. Adams, "to students who have had training in ship drafting." As men are being taken every day from ship yards and put into combat service Professor Adams believes that there will soon be a great demand for women with training along this line. The course offered by Professor Adams is a two-hour course. Students wishing to enroll must have mechanical drawing as a prerequisite.

The normal art course offered this year by Miss Helen Rhodes in conjunction with Professor Alfred H. Schreff, is the first of its kind to be given in the northwest. The training is offered to prepare students to meet the present demand throughout the state for art teachers in the high schools. Included in the course are elementary design, lettering and representation, under Miss Rhodes, theory of color, under Professor Schreff, and constructive drawing, under Professor Adams. There are twelve students now enrolled in these classes.

Some Courses Offered in Evening

The military sketching course has not yet been fully arranged. "We have found it difficult this year," said Professor Schreff, "to adopt our classes to suit the men who are members of the S. A. T. C." As a result Professor Schreff is offering several of his art courses in the evening.

The school of architecture, which last year carried off many high honors at the Beaux Arts Institute of Design, New York, is this year finding existence under the new military regime difficult. Of the twenty-two men who enrolled in the school at the opening of college less than half of that number have found it possible to continue their courses.

Three members of the architecture faculty last year are now in the service, Professor Roswell Dosch, was commissioned second lieutenant in the United States army at the Presidio this summer and is now personnel officer at Reed college. Professor Frederick Fritsch is now in France with the base hospital unit and Professor Louis Rosenberg is with the camouflage division now in France.

Miss Rhodes Back

Miss Helen Rhodes, who was in charge of the art department at the University this summer will remain with the University this year. Miss Rhodes studied art at the National Academy of Design, New York, and at Columbia University under Arthur W. Dow. She has taught art in the New York City Normal school, the University of Pittsburgh and at Bellingham Normal School, Washington state. Before coming to the University Miss Rhodes taught in the Portland high schools.

TRAINED WOMEN TO CARE FOR SICK

Miss Morris, Miss Calef and Eva Hansen Nursing U. of O. Girls.

The task of nursing the steadily increasing number of sick, at the infirmaries, and at Hendricks Hall has fallen on the shoulders of the three trained women available, Miss Margaret Morris, Miss Mira Calef and Miss Eva Hansen, a junior in the University.

Miss Morris and Miss Calef are both trained nurses from the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland and Eva Hansen took her training in the Reconstruction course offered at Reed College this summer. The youngest one to complete the course, Miss Hansen was among the first to be recommended for foreign service and expects to receive her call sometime this winter.

Place Offered Miss Hansen

During the summer Miss Hansen assisted Dr. Elmer Carlson in the teaching of anatomy and was offered a position for the winter teaching anatomy and assisting in the clinic there.

The work in the course consisted in giving massage and remedial exercises to hospital patients which the doctors turned over to the students and of giving treatments to all types of cripple children. "We could really see marked improvements in a short time in the cases of the children," Miss Hansen said, "and you can imagine how encouraged we were."

In addition to this the students watched operations of every kind. Miss Hansen said that they were allowed to ask questions during the operations and the process was explained step by step. The operations selected were types that would be especially valuable in war time surgery.

Girls in War Course Help

Besides Miss Hansen as an assistant, Miss Morris has the girls who are enrolled in the war course for nurses, detailed in groups of twos to help her. This work is to form part of their training in practical nursing. Caroline Alexander, Grayce Sage, Betty Epping, Helen Woodcock, Betty Kessi, Katherine Livingood, Evalena Calvert, and Esther Banks, are the girls enrolled in the course. Esther Banks has received her appointment to Camp Lewis. She expects to leave about the first of the year.

The girls who have enlisted in the United States Student Nurse Reserve receive their appointments direct from Washington, while the girls who are only enlisted in the war course for nurses course, Professor Esther Banks has received their appointments for Camp Lewis from the University. However none of these girls will leave before their first three months of training ends, that is the last of December. The period that they train here will serve as the probation in part in detail hospital work.

Mrs. P. L. Campbell has been working almost incessantly in equipping the infirmaries. Mrs. Teressa Jackson, of Eugene, who has taken Red Cross courses in nursing, is helping out at the Hall, and Miss Gertrude Talbot head resident of Hendricks Hall has been putting in on the average of 16 hours a day looking after the girls who are not sick enough for the infirmaries. Miss Talbot says that in every phase of the work she has met with a wonderful spirit of co-operation on the part of all who are connected with any part of the work.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN TO MAKE SANDBAGS

Trench Protectors Will Be Supplied, at Suggestion of Colonel Leader.

To the women of the University another patriotic demand has come. Colonel Leader needs sand-bags! Anywhere from 50 to 1000 sand-bags. Trench work must stop unless they are supplied, and the university cannot afford them at twenty cents apiece.

The Red Cross committee held a hasty meeting this morning under the direction of Bernice Spencer, president, and decided to appeal to university women, students and faculty wives. Scraps of any material, any color, will be welcomed.

"They do not have to be made of especially strong stuff," said Miss Spencer. "After they are placed along the trench they will not be moved. A box will be ready for all materials at the Y. W. C. A. Bungalow. We girls can make the bags but we must have the cloth."

All donations will be taken Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday when the bags must be finished ready for the trenches.
