

SPECIAL TO TAKE 1000 LOYAL ROOTERS

Oregon's Light Team in Fair Shape for Contest

LEMON YELLOW IN FAIR CONDITION TO FACE HEAVY FOE

Aggies Expected to Have Big Advantage on Probably Wet Field.

The greatest day in the University sport calendar is to be Saturday when the Oregon regimental eleven journeys to Corvallis and clashes with Oregon's ancient foe, the Oregon Agricultural College. Both institutions are awaiting the day and the two coaches are keeping their men working late into the night. The two yell leaders are planning all manner of new stunts and in both Corvallis and Eugene a big rally will be held Friday night to arouse some "pep" and "jazz" for the contest.

Oregon is facing a hard fight, and the men know it. With a wet field the "Aggies" have a decided advantage. Their team is heavier and they are determined to make a great stand. The O. A. C. line is 13 pounds heavier than that of the Oregon line, which is a decided advantage. In the backfield things are more nearly even. O. A. C. has an advantage here of six pounds. Taking the regular team, and considering them only, the team average of O. A. C. is 176 pounds, as compared to 167 pounds for Oregon.

Dry Field Wanted

Coach Huntington does not seem to be worried about the difference in weight if the field is dry. "Shy" considers Oregon's chances slim enough, and on a wet field it will be cut in. Huntington intends to put his men through a stiff workout tonight and then give them lighter practice tomorrow. The team will leave with the rooters and the hand and will have plenty of time to warm up before the game.

O. A. C. managed to put one over on Oregon last year in Portland on Thanksgiving day, thanks to a wet field. The members of the Oregon team as well as "Shy" and "Bill" are determined to start the ten years right and to win over the "Aggies." The Corvallis eleven is allowed to win every ten years in order to keep up interest, and the Oregon followers do not intend to change this policy. The "Aggies" next year to win will be in 1927.

The lemon-yellow team is in pretty fair condition. Some of the men are sore and have strained muscles, but such things as these don't figure in a game with the "Aggies." Coach Hargiss has a good team, he admits it himself, and they are not going to hand the game to Oregon. Oregon is out there to fight, and if they win it will be because they outfight the Corvallis team and nothing else.

Yell King Wants 1,000

Yell King "Nick" Carter wants 1,000 Oregon students and members of the faculty to board one of the special trains Saturday and to file into the Oregon rooters' section and give the team all the support that is possible. Carter says that the only way to lick O. A. C. is to yell them to death, and he is starting to work out this policy.

There will probably be a number of old Oregon "grads" back to see the annual struggle between the two schools, and they can always be counted on to come in and yell for the Oregon team. The team itself will do its best and it deserves all the support that Oregon students can give it.

Oregon's Backs Experienced but Lacking in Beef

The Oregon backfield will be Oregon's best bet in the game with Corvallis Saturday in that it will be made up of more experienced players, four of the eight candidates being old hands at Oregon. They will, however, be handicapped nearly as bad, as the line when it comes to weight. But headwork and spirit coupled with speed may do a lot for the Lemon Yellow, and it may be a triumph for mind over matter.

Just whom Huntington will start in the "Aggie" game is still in doubt as the condition of the field and the weather will more than likely decide the kind of game the backfield will work against O. A. C. and consequently decide the men who are to play it.

NISH CHAPMAN, half, is one of the hands aforementioned who played on the "Frosh" team last year. Since getting over the "flu" Nish is only doing 152 pounds, which is rather light for him. This has kept him out a little lately but it is likely he will be in conspicuously against O. A. C. Saturday.

FRANCIS JACOBBERGER, quarterback, has been playing about eight different kinds of football this season but there is only one kind that he will give the Aggies. Jake is from Portland. He is 20 years old and weighs 168 pounds and is credited with being a member of the Freshman baseball, basketball and football teams of last year. "Jake" was Oregon's strong man at Camp Lewis.

VINCENT JACOBBERGER, left half is a pretty backfield player although this is his first year behind the line. When playing for Columbia University he occupied an end berth. He lives in Portland. Vinc weighs 162 pounds and is 19 years old and is a brother of "Jake."

EVERETT BRANDENBURG, right "Shy" hasn't said that Brandy is going to play right half but we have a hunch that he is. Brandy was one of the Frosh eleven last year. He is 20 years old and weighs 160 pounds.

MERAL BLAKE, full back, is the king of them all. You can always figure on Blake playing a good game. His game is so steady that he is usually forgotten in the honorable mention. Blake is from Ione. He weighs 175 pounds and is another of the last year's "Frosh."

JOHN WATSON, half, has been playing right half this season and has been doing some nice work. He may be expected to take this position in case Brandenburg is not started. He is from Salem, weighs 165 pounds and is 21 years old.

JOHN TUERCK, half, is a brother of "Bill" Tuerck, who played for several seasons for Oregon, and is a good football player. A bad shoulder has kept him from showing to best advantage. Tuerck played for two years at the Lincoln high school in Portland. He weighs 158 pounds and is 19 years old.

EDWIN DURNO, quarterback, is from Silverton. Eddie is the lightest man on the team doing only 134 pounds. He was the star of the Freshman basketball team last year and is playing good football. He will be held in reserve for Jacobberger.

OREGON EXCHANGES SOON

Editing Class Will Publish Bulletin; Bess Colman, Editor.

Preparation is being made for the first issue this term of the Oregon exchange Bulletin by the editing class in the school of journalism. Bess Colman was elected editor of this edition by the class at the Wednesday morning class hour. Elizabeth Aumiller will be managing editor and Helen McDonald will act as circulation manager.

The class in editing, according to Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, is more of an editing club which plans and carries out the different publications with as little advice as possible from Dean Allen. This class just issued the "Oregon Overseas" bulletin for the University men in the service.

GO BIG! FIGHT RALLY WILL BE OLD TIMER

A thorough-going revival of the Oregon Spirit not to what it was last year but to the place it held several years ago among the old students and an introduction and baptism for the frosh, men and women—that only will make Oregon a victor over O. A. C. this season. It will be the object of an old-time pre-game rally to be held for men and women of the University tomorrow night.

"Shy" and "Bill" tell us that only the Oregon fight at its best and on the bleachers at Corvallis will save the day for Oregon and give the victory Oregon is entitled to this year—and they are afraid the students will not come through," said Nick Carter, yell leader today in discussing the program for Friday night. "But," Carter added, "it is up to us to show them they are wrong by producing the fight to back the team they have made for Oregon this year. The team has fight, lots of it, but they are going against odds. The Oregon rooters at Corvallis will face 3600 O. A. C. rooters—we too, will be fighting odds, but numbers don't count against Oregon Spirit."

"We've got to get that spirit back. Friday night will be our last chance to show it to "Bill" and "Shy" and the team so that they will know what to expect when we get behind them at Corvallis. With this old fight we will go to Corvallis 1,000 strong.

The pre-game rally, counted on by Coach Huntington and "Bill" Hayward to put the present student body behind the team as the old students used to be, will be a real old timer itself—peejama parade, yells, songs, speeches on Kincaid field and a surprise feature to take the place of the bonfire made impossible by weather conditions and lack of time.

The ball will begin to roll when the entire man end of the student body assembles on Kincaid field at 7:30 p. m. for the peejama parade. Following this both men and women will gather on Kincaid field for the pre-game demonstration calculated to put hearts of iron into the Oregon warriors resting for the biggest game of the season.

Speeches will be made by Coach "Shy" Huntington, "Bill" Hayward, trainer, Dean D. W. Morton, Dean John Straub, and alumni of the University who will be on the campus for the occasion. Yells and songs will be led by "Nick" Carter, yell leader, and Johnnie Houston, newly appointed assistant.

SPIRIT POOR; O. A. C. IS PROBABLE VICTOR

Coach "Shy" Huntington and "Bill" Hayward, trainer, expressed the positive opinion today that Oregon was beaten in Saturday's game before they went onto the field unless the present spirit of the campus by some hocus pocus can be changed to the old Oregon Spirit which in the past has made Oregon's long line of triumphs possible. They are afraid the present student body will not produce this spirit.

"SHY" HUNTINGTON.—The Oregon student body has never really backed the Oregon team by any kind of co-operation or enthusiasm for the work they are doing to uphold Oregon's football reputation. Now, with the big game of the season upon us, they are cocky to the point of laziness because of the mistaken idea that Oregon last Saturday at Camp Lewis. In reality they defeated the depot brigade team, and did not play good ball. In the game with O. A. C. they will be handicapped, but I know they are fighters. I wish the student body had the same spirit—we might have a chance.

BILL HAYWARD.—It has always been true of Oregon that her men although they have been beaten have never been licked. They won't be licked Saturday. Whether they will win depends largely on the student. So far the students this year have been absolutely lacking in Oregon Spirit and haven't even ordinary "pep," giving no support whatever to the Oregon men on the field. With Oregon outweighed, playing the big game of the year on the Corvallis grounds and meeting more experienced players, it will be the fright of the students on the bleachers that will have to put Oregon over if we do win. As for the team I can say that they deserve to win. They have worked for Oregon under the most difficult situation that has ever faced an Oregon team in training. All through they have shown that they were made of the old stuff and they'll fight like an Oregon team Saturday.

LET'S GO 1,000 STRONG SAYS STUDENT HEAD

Herald White, president of the Associated Students, today gave the Emerald a statement urging a delegation 1,000 strong be sent to Corvallis to back the Oregon team when the Oregon special for Corvallis leaves Eugene shortly after noon, Saturday.

Pointing out the fact that dope is against Oregon this season, although the team has made many sacrifices and worked hard, White asks that the eleven lemon-yellow warriors be backed to the last student when they go against O. A. C. for the biggest game of the year. His statement, making a strong appeal for a survival of the Oregon Spirit, follows: "The eleven men who go on the field at Corvallis next Saturday to face the 'Aggies' are your representatives. These eleven men are fighting for Oregon and they deserve your support. The football team is willing to work week in and week out, plough around in a field of mud, and to give up personal desires for hard practice that they may be able to fight Oregon's battles on the gridiron and keep the lemon-yellow up to the standard of previous years. "The least that we, as students of Oregon, can do is to give that team all the support that we can. The dope is against us, the 'Aggies' are a heavier team, and, besides being on their own field, they are in better condition. Let's keep up the Oregon Spirit. Let's be there 1,000 strong."

MRS. HALL TO STAY HERE

Declines Editorship of Red Cross Magazine Issued in Seattle.

Mrs. Emma Wootton Hall yesterday declined the editorship of the Red Cross magazine of the Northwest, published in Seattle. Eric W. Allen dean of the school of journalism, recommended Mrs. Hall to Arthur B. Grindell, editor of the bulletin, in response to Mr. Grindell's request for a competent journalist to take charge of the publication.

Mrs. Hall will continue her work as military secretary in Colonel John Leader's office. She is a graduate of the school of journalism in the class of 1918.

Aggies Outweigh Oregon's Linemen; Headwork to Win

When the Oregon service eleven goes into action against O. A. C. Saturday, her line will be outweighed ten or possibly fifteen pounds to the man by the "Aggie" linemen. The Corvallis men average 185 on the line while Oregon's eleven contenders for the six line positions average but 170.

If the Oregon line holds on defense and opens the Aggies up for the backfield when Oregon carries the ball it will be because of superior football heads in the Oregon line, well coached, well trained and backed by the Oregon Spirit at its best.

Howard Is Now.

MARTIN HOWARD, left end, is a new man at varsity football but has been working hard building on his two years' experience gained under Coach Homer Jamieson, former Oregon player, now teaching at Jefferson high school in Portland. Howard weighs 158 pounds.

PAT O'ROURKE, left tackle, is one of the naval units' representatives in the line and comes to Oregon with a record of two years standing in football at the University of Montana. He is aggressive and will lean on the Aggie line with 180 pounds.

Played Under Walker.

"SCOTTY" STRACHAN, left guard, is not exactly new at Oregon football having played under Dean Walker on the freshman team last season. Strachan is from Dufur and will offer 180 pounds of weight hardened as if he had worked in the harvest fields.

CARL MAUTZ, right guard, weighs 184 pounds and probably will be Oregon's heaviest lineman in Saturday's game. Mautz played on the frosh squad last year and has been picking up football fast under Huntington this season. When anyone speaks about the aggressive way he has developed about executing "Shy's" plays, Carl tells 'em "Go on, it's a part of the game."

PRINCE CALLISON, center, is right at home here although this is his first year at the University. It is because he represents Eugene and besides he weighs 165 pounds. He has been at center in Oregon's last two games.

JOE TROWBRIDGE, right tackle, is a tackle who fights for Oregon at just a suggestion from Huntington and Hayward, and is counted on to do something to O. A. C. in this game. He played on the frosh team last year and previously was a Portland interscholastic league man. He will go into the game at 193 pounds.

DOW WILSON, right end, is one of the few men on the team this season who has had previous experience with the Oregon Varsity—and with O. A. C. He will weight in at 163 pounds and renew acquaintances.

SI STARR, guard, is out for football for the first time this fall but stands a good chance to get into the game with O. A. C. Saturday. He is offering "Shy" some fight and 190 pounds. He is from Dallas, a sophomore in the University, and a sailor on the good ship Sigma Chi.

Fought Aggies Before.

RALPH DRESSER, guard, met some of the present Aggie players when he played with the Oregon frosh against the O. A. C. rooks last fall. "Stuffer" is from Marshfield.

ALBERT HARDING, left guard, has been pairing off with Mautz for a long time now although just a freshman from Baker, and the fact that he is still doing it makes him look pretty fair as a possibility at Corvallis next Saturday.

JOHN BROCK, end, is another of the boys who did service last year with the frosh eleven. He weighs 160 pounds, was raised on a farm and wants to get a crack at the Aggies.

DR. SHELDON TO GO TO PORTLAND

Dr. H. D. Sheldon, dean of the school of education, will go to Portland Friday morning to make arrangements for the State Teachers' association which is to be held there immediately after Christmas.

CHANGE IS GIVEN ALL STUDENTS TO BACK THEIR TEAM

Train to Leave at Noon for Corvallis; O. A. C. to Have 3,600 in Bleachers.

"Oregon must have a rooting section of 1,000 students at the Corvallis game Saturday to give the Oregon team the support it needs to insure a fighting chance for victory over O. A. C.," is the statement of Coach Huntington and Bill Hayward, trainer, which has led to the beginning of a big effort for an Oregon rooting section to offset the 3,600 O. A. C. supporters who will be present, and to give Oregon the encouragement her warriors deserve.

To this end a special train has been provided to leave Eugene at noon or shortly thereafter, Saturday.

Every man and woman in the University will be able to make the trip through special permission for leave by the military and University authorities, who have taken the action in the light of Oregon's need for support. The action is made possible because of the lifting of the Spanish influenza quarantine, effective Friday night.

Assurance that virtually every man in the S. A. T. C. has been given at meetings of the various companies. Only the women of the University now seem to be lacking in their promised support of the Oregon team against O. A. C. Saturday.

"From what I have been able to learn not more than two-thirds of the women of the University will make the trip," said "Nick" Carter, yell leader. "Unless the women get behind the team with a more united effort, the Oregon rooting section will fall short of its needed 1,000."

"We must have 1,000 in that rooting section to give Oregon the support she must have. It is a big matter. They do not deserve to win."

"And those of us who will go will go with Oregon fight. In this respect the pre-game Friday might be called the 'last chance' rally for Oregon students this year. If we don't produce the old spirit, then our names should go onto the Oregon slacker list together with the names of Oregon men and women who do not make the trip on the special Saturday to back the Oregon team."

The Oregon special will arrive in Corvallis in ample time for the game, according to Coach Huntington and Lieutenant Edward Radcliffe, officer in charge of athletics. Return will be made from Corvallis one-half hour after the game, the train arriving in Eugene in time for any week-end activities planned.

The fare, it is announced, will be $1.35 each way.

WOMEN'S WAR WORK TOPIC

Miss Tingle Wants Data On Activity of College Girls.

Mrs. G. T. Gerlinger, member of the Board of Regents, is collecting data for the government upon the activities of college women in the war. Miss Lilian Tingle, head of the Department of Household Art, who is collecting the information for the University of Oregon, requests that every girl who was engaged in war work last summer report to her. Mrs. Gerlinger said in a letter to Miss Tingle that the report submitted at the Oregon Agricultural College is a splendid record of patriotic service.

Any girl who worked in a war industry or contributed in any way to the winning of the war is urgently requested to give her name to Miss Tingle. Those who assisted in food conservation are especially included.
