

ORDERS FOR S. A. T. C. MEN'S WORK GIVEN

Attendance in Classes and Study Hours Will Be Checked Up.

Orders received from G. A. Isaacs and L. V. Koois, assistant directors of the twelfth district of the collegiate section of the committee on education and special training for the Student Army Training Corps of the war department, while here last week, give the following directions to instructors regarding the attendance and work in classes in which Student Army Training Corps men are enrolled.

1. The Assistant Educational Directors of the Students' Army Training Corps, Collegiate Section, Twelfth District, wish to call attention to the requirements of the committee on education and special training of the war department that each student shall devote a total of 53 hours per week to military and academic instruction and preparation. Of these 53 hours 11 are to be scheduled for military instruction and 42 for academic instruction and preparation therefor.

2. In order that the 42 hours of academic work may be fully accounted for, attendance upon all class exercises must be required by instructors, and excuses offered by students for absences from these exercises are not to be accepted. All absences must be reported by the instructors to the registrar on the day of their occurrence.

3. Each student is to be scheduled for a number of hours of supervised study which together with hours of instruction and laboratory will make a total of 42 hours of academic work. This will mean that for each lecture or recitation the instructor will require of each student two hours of preparation, and assignments should be made accordingly.

Although not a requirement it is recommended by the war department that the supervision of study be not merely disciplinary but that it be also instructional and the Assistant Educational Directors recommend that whenever possible instructors be assigned to the supervised-study hours.

4. If the above recommendations are faithfully observed and executed the success of the academic instruction of the Students Army Training Corps of the University of Oregon should be assured.

LOUIS C. ROSENBERG TELLS OF BIG DRIVE

Former Architectural Instructor Meets University Men on Battle Front.

Louis C. Rosenberg, former instructor in the University school of Architecture, now with a camouflage unit in the American Army in France, has written the following letter to President and Mrs. Campbell, under date of October 7:

"Time drags a little here with us just now and it's a good chance to write a few friends. I would like to tell you just where I am at present and about our trip here, which was full of interesting and exciting times. You might be able to guess. Have been in the same drive as Walter Church, but much to my disappointment although very close to him was unable to see him. Two of us were detailed to work with his regiment but it happened that Walter's company was out of our sector.

"The second day after the drive started and we had crossed the old front lines I ran on to Howard Annette, which was a great surprise and delight. I don't believe I ever was more pleased to meet anyone than when he called to me from the side of the road where he was stationed. He had seen Colin Dymment a few days before who was also in these parts.

"Our American Lake boys went over the top here, and did very well, showing good fight, and covering the ground fast. Allan Hopkins, I believe, went with him. Annett told me of Cy Noble's death. I can't say life has been over interesting in this spot. We have been subject to air raids and to shelling all hours of the day and night, which soon becomes very tiresome. Three of us are 'dug in' in the sidehill. Our dugout is about six by six by two feet, which isn't very large, but we all agree it's just the place. We are not depending on its construction to withstand any shells. We just figured we selected a spot where none would land, and I hope our judgment was good.

"Was much interested to hear what success the R. O. T. C. was having at the University and hope it continues, which it no doubt will."

WAR PICTORIALS MOVED
The war pictorials in the library have been placed in a rack on the table near the War Bulletin board. Heretofore they have been in racks in different parts of the library. The library receives regularly the following war pictorials: The French L'Illustration; the Italian L'Illustrazione Italiana; the Illustrated London News; the British War Pictorial, Punch, and The Times-History and Encyclopedia of the War.

CHRISTMAS PASSES GIVEN

S. A. T. C. Men Have Five Days' Vacation During Holidays.

Men of the S. A. T. C. will be given five day passes for Christmas, the corps being so divided that not more than half of the men will be absent at the same time, to comply with the orders of the Committee on Education Special Training. The passes will be granted during the period of December 21 to 30. It is planned that one-half of the enlisted strength of the corps will be absent on pass December 21 to 26 and the other half will be on leave December 24 to 29. Thanksgiving day will be a holiday for the S. A. T. C. men also, but classes for the men will meet on Friday. The women of the University will have vacation on Friday as well as Thanksgiving day.

HOLIDAY DATES DECIDED

Women to Have Only Two Days Thanksgiving; Two Weeks Christmas.

Thanksgiving vacation will not start until Thursday morning, Registrar A. R. Tiffany stated this morning. Numerous inquiries are made at his office daily, asking whether Thanksgiving vacation will not start at noon on Wednesday as formerly. The faculty in special meeting about two weeks ago decided that the women of the University would have vacation on Thursday and Friday. The men of the S. A. T. C. following S. A. T. C. rulings, will have vacation on Thanksgiving day only.

The next term will probably open January 3, Registrar Tiffany said this morning, although action of the faculty will be needed to determine the dates of the Christmas vacation and the date of the opening of the new term. Christmas vacation as scheduled for the S. A. T. C. men will be from December 21 to 29, with the provision that only half of the men be absent from the unit at one time. Christmas vacation for the women will probably be December 21 to January 3.

OREGON'S BIG GAME

Saturday was when Joe Trowbridge dived about ten yards and nabbed Archibald behind his own line. Trowbridge played a good game Saturday and the fact that he was boxing a man who weighed approximately 190 pounds, did not appear to bother him at all. Wilson and Howard showed up well at end, as well as any end could show up on a field as poor as the one at Corvallis. The Corvallis field is declared by sport followers to be the poorest field and in the poorest condition of any collegiate gridiron in the northwest.

Shy Makes History.

In defeating O. A. C. "Shy" Huntington placed himself in the annals of Oregon football history. Both Huntington, of Oregon, and Hargiss, of O. A. C., are spending their first year as coach at the respective institutions. It was a great boost to "Shy" to have his men triumph over the orange and black as it sure established him in the front rank of coaches.

"Bill" Hayward, regardless of the hard boiled picture of himself in the Sunday Oregonian, wore a smile a mile broad after the game. "Bill" now declares that instead of the Aggies winning in 1917, as history would have it, they will not win again until 1937. "Bill" says that the next time the Aggies win he will be an old man.

S. A. T. C. NO LONGER TO PRESCRIBE COURSE

Work for Men to Be Planned by Colleges After This Term, Says Order.

Courses for men of the S. A. T. C. will probably not be prescribed by orders from headquarters after the end of this term, and the University will be free to plan its own program of work, it was announced from the president's office yesterday, following receipt of telegraphic orders from S. A. T. C. headquarters of this district at Helena, Mont. Modification of the curriculum is also provided for in the communication, so that more time may be given academic subjects.

The University is allowed to discontinue immediately or at the end of the current term, December 21, courses in military law and practice, surveying and map making, map reading and navigation and modern ordnance. Modern ordnance is the only one of these courses which will be discontinued at once here. Surveying will be given for those men who wish to continue the course.

Programs May Be Left Open.

"The time freed from these subjects must be devoted such academic work as each institution may prescribe," read the telegram. "It is probable that no program of academic work will be prescribed after the end of the current term but that the college will be free to lay out their own programs except that nine hours per week will be reserved for a course in war issues or some modification of that course.

"Military instruction will continue as at present prescribed, being strictly confined to eleven hours. All military details conflicting with academic exercises will be eliminated. These changes in the curriculum do not affect the existing financial arrangements between the war department and the institution."

Eleven Hours For Drill.

By this new arrangement, men may have a free election of all University subjects, provided that they comply with the usual college requirements, regarding necessary subjects for the major subjects, language and science requirements. With this plan, the regular academic courses may be followed, provided the eleven hours is given to drill.

It is expected at S. A. T. C. headquarters here that other changes in the curriculum and life of the S. A. T. C. men will be made soon.

ROOMS RESERVED FOR WOMEN

The stack room, the newspaper room and room 4 in the basement of the library are still reserved for the use of women during the hours in the evening when the general reading room is used by the men of the S. A. T. C. An additional table has been placed in the stack room for use during the evening hours from 7 to 9. Reserve and reference books may be obtained by the women from an assistant who will be in the rooms.

S. A. T. C. INSPECTOR VISITS OREGON UNIT

Major Patten Believes Corps Will Soon Resume Normal Academic Work.

Major W. T. Patten, military director of the twelfth district of the S. A. T. C., inspected the Students' Army Training Corps unit at the University yesterday afternoon. He visited the barracks and drill field and said that he was well pleased with conditions as he found them here, especially the health situation.

"The units everywhere have been slow in organizing," said Major Patten last night. "They have been handicapped by lack of equipment, for they had to take what was left after outfitting the troops who went across—which was right."

To Resume Normal Standards.

Major Patten said that he felt sure that the corps would soon return to the normal academic standards and be back on the educational standard. "The courses will no longer be intensive," he said, "for the men will get military training in four years, which they now received in three, six or nine months."

A return will be made either to the old R. O. T. C. form of organization, the major thinks, or a modified form of the present S. A. T. C. will be in effect under the new and changed conditions. In the R. O. T. C. organization, men are enlisted in the army as they are under the S. A. T. C. plan.

"The change which will necessarily be made will depend on what the people want," said Major Patten. "It is certain that they will wish their young men to take some sort of military training."

Several Institutions Visited.

Major Patten is making a tour of the universities in his district, having S. A. T. C. units. He came to Eugene from Portland, after having visited the University of Idaho, University of Washington, College of Puget Sound and Washington State College. He left this morning for Corvallis and will go soon to Willamette University at Salem. His headquarters are at Helena, Montana.
