

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT FOR BASKET GAME

Several Star Players of Last Year Expect to Be Back to Join Team.

Now that the curtain has fallen over the football season of 1918, the next activity along athletic lines is basketball. Coach "Bill" Hayward issued first call the other night and let the men warm up and get the links out of their muscles. It is hardly probable that real practice of the varsity and freshman teams can begin before the start of the second term.

On paper, Oregon looks to have some fine talent for a winning basketball aggregation this season. From the first team of last year, "Chuck" Comfort is back for his old job at center. Ned Fowler and Dew Wilson, forwards, are also among those present, which makes a good nucleus for a first class squad of basket shooters. There is also a possibility that both "Bill" Steers and "Dot" Medley, guards last year, will be out of the service in time to play this year.

Of the freshman team of last year there are four regulars back. They are: Si Starr, center; F. Jacobberger and Eddie Durno, forwards, and Nish Chapman, guard. There is also any number of second string men of the freshman squad who are back and who will bid for jobs again this year.

Of the varsity subs who are back, Billy Morrison, Herm Lind and several others will be out for varsity positions this year. From present indications there should be some competition for the five positions and the Lemon-Yellow should be better represented on the basketball floor than it has been for several seasons.

BRAMHALL TEACHES AT MILITARY CAMP

University Man Acts as Senior Instructor in Officers' Training School.

"At present, in addition to being company personnel officer and supply officer I am senior instructor in the 'Technique of Machine Gun fire' at the Divisional Machine Gun Officers' School," says Burle Bramhall in a letter to Dean Eric Allen of the school of journalism. Bramhall is at Camp Sherman, Ohio. He was business manager of the Emerald 1915-16-17.

He says further: "I have made a few changes since last I saw Eugene but I think the next one will be back to the west. From the training school at Lewis I was transferred to the M. G. T. C. where I was commissioned on September 16, along with Floan, Couch and Gore. We were all assigned to different groups in the training center at Hancock and finally scattered all over the U. S. At the time I arrived here this battalion consisted of one major, nine second lieutenants all from Hancock were assigned to the battalion. Before our men arrived we were sent to the Divisional Gas school where three of us qualified as Regimental Gas officers. Three weeks ago 20 per cent of our men arrived from Hancock. These men were to form the non-coms. Men were being assigned to us from the Depot Brigade and we were just getting a good start when the demobilization began. While we are still continuing intensive training we are certain the organization will not be completed.

"The major tells me that he intends to recommend me for a commission in the regular army. I do not know whether I will get it or whether I will want to accept it if it is offered me. In the meantime I will probably be discharged before the first of the year."

MILITARY DRILL ATTRACTS

Thirty High Schools Already in Touch With Colonel Leader.

Approximately thirty high schools over the state are corresponding with Colonel Leader in regard to the plans for the military training to be introduced in these schools. Colonel Leader is the chairman of the state committee for the supervision and direction of this work.

A complete list of the high schools who will institute this training will be sent to Colonel Leader through the office of J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of schools, when the final plans are completed. Among those in correspondence with the local office are the schools at Forest Grove, Albany, Madras, Ashland, Baker, Hood River, Pendleton, Hillsboro, Silverton, Salem, Astoria, Ontario, Medford, La Grande and Eugene. The complete list is expected within three or four days.

The colonel will visit all these schools early in the next term, at which time the work is to commence. His main duty is that of inspection.

The instruction in these schools has already been arranged for, according to the colonel, and is to be given by men who have attended one of the Oregon State Officers' Training camps which were held here at the University during the summer and autumn. All these towns have been represented in some of the camps and those men who have returned to their homes will direct the military training in these places.
