Several of the candidates show real has had four years' experience on the and Friars. Eugene high school team. Vincent Jacobberger, who played two years on the Columbia University team in Portland, shows considerable class on the floor and has a good chance of placing on the team. Not all of the promising material comes from large schools, as Fred Lorenze, a fast man and a good shot, has played four years on the Coquille high school team. Lorenze plays a clever game and will have an opportunity to shine before the season is over. Eastern Oregon contributes a good man in Francis Beller, who is fighting for a position. Beller has played two years on the Pendleton high team. Marc Latham made a fine showing on the Salem high school team last year. Mare is big and husky, and plays a lively game at center. He will be a strong contestant for the center position.

All in all, the freshman squad looks romising and the men are working hard.
