

FATE OF JAMES FULLERTON TO BE KNOWN SOON

Prosecution Closes Case at 3:30 Naming Defendant's Testimony Rumor.

CASE GIVEN TO JURY AT 4:10 THIS AFTERNOON

Attorney Slattery Attempts to Show Falsity of State's Evidence.

The argument of the prosecution in the case of the state against James Fullerton for criminal libel against the University of Oregon, President Campbell and the students of the University, closed at three-thirty today with Attorney Hammers characterizing the charges made in the "Hornet" as "mean, nasty attack" having only the basis of rumors brought up during the last forty years. A recess was declared at the time of the closing of the argument of the state, and the case was given to the jury at 4:10 o'clock this afternoon.

Attorney Slattery for the defense attempted to show that the terms "immorality" and "rampant" were not necessarily to be taken in the accepted sense in this case. Conviction will rest on the jury's belief that the passages quoted from the Hornet, which is admittedly published by Fullerton in Lane county, are untrue and libelous.

Fullerton's Memory Faulty. Fullerton's memory failed him when he went on the stand in his own behalf Wednesday afternoon. He was unable to cite one single case of immorality to substantiate his sweeping charges against the University. Everything of a scandalous nature published in the "Hornet," he told the jury, had been of a hearsay nature. The only case of immoral conduct of which he had personal knowledge, witness testified, was a spectacle he said he had shared with a student in the law school of the University. He had forgotten the student's name and had lost a letter he said he had once received from him. The defense closed its case without any effort to corroborate this statement.

Fullerton entertained the spectators with a declaration of his disgust with his American citizenship. "If I ever get my feet out of the mud of Eugene," he shouted, "I won't be an American citizen more than a week. I'll go back under the old flag (the British), where they don't persecute people." Fullerton, who is a native of England, 65 years old, testified that he had made four attempts to clean up the morals of communities in which he lived—twice in Montana, once in Seattle, and this last time in Eugene.

Starts to Instruct Jury. Defendant started to argue with the court on matters of procedure, but he could not get a start with Judge Skipworth. Several boys were called to the stand to tell of alleged acts of immorality they were said to have witnessed. Neither they nor J. F. O'Brien, a fitney driver, were able to give any evidence of anything of the sort.

Several residents of Eugene were called to the stand by the state to testify to their knowledge of moral conditions at the University. Mrs. Robert McMurphy testified that she was an Oregon graduate herself, had sent her two daughters to the institution, lived close to the campus, and was thoroughly satisfied with the conditions there. Similar testimony was given by Mrs. F. L. Chambers and W. W. Colkins, president of the United States National bank. Mrs. F. M. Wilkins and Mrs. Thomas Bailey, parents of University students and graduates, testified to the confidence in the purity of moral conditions on the campus.

Students called by the state in defense of campus conditions were Charles Comfort, Sophus Wither, Richard Avison and Stanford Anderson.

Ray Sums Up Case. Mr. Ray's summing up for the prosecution, which occupied the main part of the morning session, was a careful analysis of all the evidence presented. The district attorney called attention to

Emerald's Sleuth Muck Raking for "Jimmy's" Paper

The great detective, Lorenzo La Snoope, has been loaned by the Emerald, with its usual generosity and fair play, to "Montana Jimmy" for use in the defense of his little paper, the Vulture. Lorenzo immediately began his investigations, and it is in accordance with its policy of utmost fairness to everyone, that the Emerald prints herein his report.

The first charge is so dreadful, that we hesitate to print it. However, we must do our duty, so here it is. Gum Chewing, is rampant on the campus! La Snoope has verified the evidence. Five years ago last August a student was caught in the act of throwing away a piece of gum. He is positive that it was gum, because he rescued it from the gutter as soon as the student was around the corner, and sampled it. He has used it for four years, and will produce it as exhibit at the appointed time. This, coupled with the fact that two years ago a piece of gum was discovered on the trousers of the youngest son of the janitor of the Hall apartments, is considered as conclusive evidence of Montana Jimmy's statements. The statistics offered, show that proportionally one-third of one per cent of the fourth year Greek class would chew gum if they could obtain it.

According to La Snoope, Jimmy's assertion that three years ago he himself saw a man student say "Hello" to a co-ed, is undeniably correct. Lozenge is forced to admit, however, that the two were summarily dealt with.

Persistent research also brought out the fact that a member of one of the fraternities once owned a bicycle. Cross questioning proved that he had once taken a brother for a ride on the wheel. Both of the culprits have since left school.

The astounding fact that a canoe had been seen on the mill race at four o'clock in the afternoon one day last autumn, is being investigated by La Snoope. It is said that he knows a boy whose uncle met a man in Portland who said that while in Corvallis he was told by a man that his third cousin had heard of a man who is said to have declared that his sister-in-law heard it directly from the brother of the man whose two-year-old baby saw them.

CAMPBELLS GIVE FIRST THOUSAND

$1500 Subscribed to Fund for Women's Building to be Raised in Eugene.

A gift of $1,000 toward the new women's building for the University by President and Mrs. Campbell, was announced by President Campbell at a dinner given on Tuesday evening at the Hotel Osburn by the members of the committee appointed from the Eugene Chamber of Commerce and faculty members to discuss the campaign to raise $25,000 in Eugene for the building.

President Campbell made an address outlining the general situation at the University, the needs of the institution, and why it was not possible to get more from the legislature. He concluded by saying he would like to ask that he and Mrs. Campbell be permitted to have the honor of subscribing the first $1,000 to the $25,000 which Eugene is raising.

The president of the Chamber of Commerce, E. C. Simmons, then said that he felt he had done his part in appointing the committee to carry on the campaign, but that if the Salem branch of the house which he represents, Vick Brothers, could be counted with the local house his speech would be worth $500 to the fund. No objection was made to the count proposed.

At the same meeting the identity of the anonymous donors of $500 to this fund two years ago was disclosed. The money was given by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Osburn of Eugene. The names of the donors were only given, Mrs. Osburn said, that they might inspire others to give toward the building.

W. W. Colkins, of Eugene characterized the University as Eugene's greatest asset. Mrs. Ben C. Ely, of Portland, who was present at the dinner, followed his statement by saying that the University's greatest asset was President and Mrs. Campbell.

OREGON IS WINNER OF OPENING GAME WITH CALIFORNIA

Lemon-Yellow Hoopers on Long End of 39-37 Score at Berkeley.

The University of Oregon basketball quintet won the first game with the University of California at Berkeley last night by the score of 39 to 37 giving them a one game lead over their opponents in the contest for the Pacific Coast championship. The Oregon quintet, champion of the northern division of the Pacific Coast conference, is playing a series of three games with the California representatives, who won the title in California for the championship of the coast.

The game at Berkeley last night was spirited throughout, and at one stage, in the last half, the score was tied 34 to 34. Eddie Durno is credited with scoring the winning points for Oregon and rolled up 18 points for his team during the evening. Symes, California forward, with 19 points to his credit, was the high point man of the contest.

The two teams will meet again tonight for the second game of the series, and if it is necessary, the third game will be played Friday night. From the score it would appear that the game last night was wild that there was a lack of close and efficient guarding on the part of both teams.

If the Oregon team wins the coast honors and decides to return to the campus at any hour except about 2 a. m. there will be a big crowd to greet them. It has been some time since Oregon has picked off the coast title in basketball and the team sure deserve a royal reception. They should get it whether or not they win the title as they have been doing some great work this year and the northwest title is not to be sneezed at.

DR. SMITH SEEKS DATA

Wants Facts About Oregon Earthquakes to Use in Article.

Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the University geology department has been asked to write on the "Earthquakes of Oregon" by ex-President John C. Braner of Stanford University.

In collecting material for this work, Dr. Smith has found that there is very little on record and wishes to appeal to the University students and people throughout the state to help him collect facts. If anyone has felt an earthquake shock or heard of an earthquake which that person please communicate with Dr. Smith, sending him exact dates, intensity of the shocks, and any interesting phenomena connected with it such as the appearance of springs or the drying up of streams.

"While there have not been many earthquakes in Oregon," said Dr. Smith, "there have been serious disturbances both north and south of Oregon along the coast and it is very important to learn conditions here in studying the conditions in the other states, he explained.

There is record of an earthquake at Baker City and one at Klamath Falls.

DEAN STRAUB KNOWS HIM

Gets Note Asking About Tutor Who Joined Faculty in '78 at $75 Per.

Dean Straub often finds pleasant surprises on his desk in the morning. A few days ago he found a check for $1,000, not for himself however, and one morning this week he found a letter which carried him back years and years ago.

The letter read: "In examining the records of the board of regents held on the 7th day of November, 1878, there appears a record to the effect that the president of the board of regents was authorized to tender employment to one J. Straub at tutor at $75.00 per month under the direction of the faculty.

"What do you know about this?" Yours very truly, "L. H. JOHNSON."

Dean Straub knows a great deal about "this." "I could hardly believe my eyes at first," he said. "Made me think I was young again and I felt as happy as I did at the time when I was first told of my election. Then I realized that the date of the letter was 1919. Mr. Johnson, in looking over the records, had found the record and wanted to bring back those old days again."

All That Glitters Is Not Gold; Some May Be Brass, Writes Dere Mabel

Geology Students at Suggestion of Dr. Smith Depart from Forms, Put Romance Into Quiz Papers on Gold; Here is One Result.

A departure from the staid and monotonous type of quiz paper was made recently when Dr. W. D. Smith told his class to put romance and life into their quiz papers which they were writing that hour. He said that he didn't care how they were written, just so they contained the information. The students, glad of the opportunity to do "something different," produced some original quiz papers, according to Dr. Smith, the following being one written by Ruth Young. The subject is "Gold."

"All this glitters is not gold." Neither must you believe all you see, as 'looks is sometimes deceiving.'—Ann Onymous.

Dere Henry: I just got your last letter, and since I got to write about gold for Gee Ologee, I guess I might as well tell it to you. Dr. Smith (re's really not a doctor, you know, Hen—we just call him that 'cause he's traveled and been to school and knows a lot) says we have to be very perticular about our grammar, so if you find any mistakes you might send me a postal and tell me so as I could correct any mistakes as I might make.

Well, first, Hen, I'll tell you where they find gold. Maybe you don't know it, but you can't go out and find gold a laying around at the seashore like agates, and most always you have to get it mixed up with a lot of other stuff. Then you have to wait a lot of time gettin' it segregated—I learned that word from "Timmy." He's the French man here at U. of O. You see gold is a mineral, and all minerals have ores to 'em.

As I was tellin' you, you can't find gold anywhere. Funny how it got strewn all over the world, isn't it? You'd think as long as God was makin' the world all himself he could put it in more convenient places. Now you see if he'd put it in the Willamette valley I could be panning gold while you're in the army and could probably get enough saved up to last us a couple of years. There is some gold in Oregon, but I guess not much. There's a lot in Cal. tho. And Alaska had a big gold rush too, you know. I guess there was a lot of hot air mixed up with that gold tho. They say there is a lot in South Africa. You better come that way when you come home. Seein' is believin', you know, Hen. Besides that they have a lot in Colo. (Cripple Creek's in Colo.) South Dakota, Mexico, Hungary and New Zealand. Seems as tho with all those places there ought to be plenty to go round.

Probably you know some of the things gold is used for, but I suppose I know a lot more about it than you do, so I'll tell you. Of course they make money out of it, and dentists use it in people's teeth. That's why you see advertisements asking to send in old false teeth. You see they hope there'll be some gold in 'em. Then of course they use it for jewelry. Dr. Smith says if it wasn't for the women there wouldn't be so much scrapperin' over gold, but I don't believe it, 'cause look at that gold watch you was savin' up for for such a long time. Then besides when you buy my engagement and wedding rings I'd rather you'd get platinum so you see what he said about isn't so at all.

The bell just rang so I have to stop. I think I've told you all you need to know about it anyway. Just be careful and don't let 'em slip it over on you and try to make you believe brass is the real stuff, and you'll be all right. Yours till the Klondike grows cold, MABEL.

BASKETBALL MEET PLANS FURTHERED

Interscholastic Tournament may be Annual Affair; 50 Boys to Come.

Plans for the first state interscholastic basketball tournament to be held at the University, beginning March 14, are progressing. Dean Walker, basketball coach, will complete arrangements upon his return from California.

The various student committees appointed are working hard to make the tournament a success, and it may become an annual affair, much as the interscholastic track meets, which are a feature of Junior Week-end.

The sale of tickets to the games is in the hands of a committee composed of Marion Coffey, Virginia Smith, Howard Kelley and Henry English. These people have each a committee under them, composed of representatives from every house on the campus.

The games will be played March 14 and 15, both afternoon and evening. The teams from each of the eight districts have two claimants for the championship. This means that the University will be hosts to more than 50 high school boys.

Committees Selected.

The committees, which will have charge of the sale of tickets about the campus are: Committee No. 1—Virginia Smith, chairman; Dorothy Wootton, Gamma Phi Beta; Florence Riddle, Delta Delta Delta; Dorothy Reed, Alpha Phi; Margaret Fell, Phi Beta Phi; Helen Clarke and Leola Green, Hendricks Hall.

Sam Lehman and Emma Garbade will sell tickets to the faculty in the women's gym, McClure, and the Journalism annex.

Committee No. 2—Marion Coffey, chairman, Theodore Stoppenbach, Kappa Alpha Theta; Clara Corrigan, Kappa Gamma; Gladys Hollingsworth, Chi Omega; Ruth Cowan, Delta Gamma; Lucille Caswell and Marguerite Whitten, girls living in Eugene.

STUDENT COUNCIL HAS BUSY SESSION

Basketball Tournament Discussed; Reports made on Play and Dance.

The inter-scholastic basketball tournament to be held in Eugene on March 14 and 15 was discussed at the student council meeting held in the library at 7:15 Wednesday. Financial reports were also given from the student body play and dance at the time.

Shy Huntington explained the basketball tournament and its importance to the University, urging the council to back it. Each fraternity will entertain one team for the week-end. It was also decided to charge $1 admission to the 7 games or 50 cents for one game. A. H. McDonald, manager of the Rex theatre, has promised a free show to the boys on Saturday afternoon and they will be taken to the Glee club concert in the evening. The games will be on Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday afternoon and evening, being straight elimination contests. The proceeds of the games will be divided pro rata among the teams to cover traveling expenses.

Jack Dundore, acting as chairman of the dance committee in place of Nish Chapman, reported a profit of $3.85 on the matinee dance Saturday.

Ella Dews, chairman of the student body play committee reported a profit of $300.95 from "What Happened to Jones." The council members expressed their appreciation of the excellent work done by Miss Charlotte Banfield in coaching the play.

Dorothy Flegel was appointed chairman of the condolence committee to take the place of Helen McDonald. A committee was chosen to take up the matter of seating at the basketball games with Dean Walker and try to arrange for reserved seats or some better plan.

Donald Dalgleish moved that the student council favor all students rising when "Mighty Oregon" and the Ookie are given.

Helen McDonald, Ella Dews and Douglas Mullarky were appointed to work out an amendment to the constitution creating the office of historian and to propose it at the next student body meeting.

Reverend Father Moran, also of this city, will lead the prayer. Classmates of the deceased students are being requested to make responses following the prayer ceremony.

Fergus Reddie, professor of public speaking, has been ill for the last few days, and Miss Helen C. Rhodes of the School of Architecture, will take his place as chairman of the decorations committee. She expects to arrange plans for the assembly hall this evening.
