OREGON SCHOLARSHIP

At Rush Medical College where there are perhaps more Oregon men taking advanced work than at any other similar college, Blair Holcomb, a former student in pre-medicine on the campus and later at the University school of medicine in Portland, has been elected to the highest scholastic honor society. The election to the society of which Holcomb is now a member is peculiar and reflects particular credit on Holcomb and upon the University of Oregon.

Only the very highest students who have had their previous training at Rush and one only a year from all the students who have affiliated there with preparatory work in other parts of the United States are admitted to membership. Holcomb, competing with medical students from all parts of the United States including virtually all the leading institutions, was elected this spring.

No small amount of credit is due the scholarship of other Oregon students at Rush—the Fitzgibbons brothers, Bob Baker, Dean Crowell and numerous others. Records of these men at Chicago show them to well up in the lead in scholarship and all of them far above the average scholarship shown there. None are low in their studies.

Here is enlightening information for those who have been over-awed by the University of Oregon's athletic prowess to the extent of believing that this is the chief and only work of the University. For none of the men now attending Rush Medical College went to Chicago from the University with any unusual scholastic standing at the University. Here a majority of them were average.

Oregon spends no more time for athletics than other universities on the Pacific Coast with which she competes and no more than eastern institutions. It is simply the way Oregon men enter into the games they play for physical development and exercise, the Oregon Spirit. While it naturally can not be so spectacular as Oregon's athletic triumphs of recent years which tend to overshadow the real purpose of the University as far as publicity is concerned, scholarship is found at the University, high scholarship.

SHELL FISH ARE STUDIED

Dr. C. H. Edmondson, professor of zoology, spent the spring vacation on the Lincoln county coast working on shell fish. Dr. Edmondson is making a study of the life history of the clam found there, and has already made several interesting and valuable discoveries concerning it.

MISS HAGER TO LECTURE

Miss Celia V. Hager, assistant in psychology, will lecture on the "Teaching of English" at a local teachers' institute at Albany Saturday afternoon.

HOME CONCERT FOR APRIL 18

Glee Club Returns From Successful Tour Over State; Men Received Royally at All Stops.

Making a big hit is great sport, according to members of the University Men's Glee club who returned from a ten day tour through southern Oregon towns Sunday night, and who have been delighting campus friends with glowing tales of the receptions received at their various stopping places. All that was lacking was the brass band. The Sixty-fifth had nothing on the men's glee club.

"There was not a single poor concert," said John Stark Evans, director, who accompanied the men on the trip, "and the newspaper comment received along the line, testifies to the popularity of the show." The stunts, under the direction of Graham Smith, were, according to Mr. Evans, the climax of the performances. Packed houses everywhere succeeded in making the trip a financial success.

In order to prove to the University that the Glee Club "hit" was genuine, the men have planned to give a home concert April 18. After ten days' experience on the road," said Mr. Evans today, "I feel sure that the home concert will be the very best, and since this term is bringing back old University customs, it should also be the one social event of the year."

Men "Farmed Out"

The Glee Club members left the campus for their concert tour March 18 and sang for the first evening in Cottage Grove before a full house. The men were "farmed out" for the night in the private homes of friends of the University, a system employed as an economy measure at all the stops. Here Bill Morrison was unlucky, according to his own story, for he was scheduled to spend the night in an undertaking parlor as the guest of the city undertaker. Bill needed much urging before he finally accepted the invitation. Before the evening was over however, Bill was on friendly terms with his host who confided to him that business was dead.

Alumnie Entertain

From Cottage Grove the club went to Oakland. The next stop was Klamath Falls where the men were entertained by Oregon alumni. The quartet composed of Herald White, Charles Huggins, George Hopkins and Bill Morrison, with Curtiss Peterson as soloist, was taken to the various churches where they sang at the Sunday evening services. Two concerts were given in Klamath Falls, both before capacity houses.

Medford, Ashland, Grants Pas and Roseburg were in the trip and each entertained the club after the concerts.

Stearns Unlucky

At Medford, George Stearns, who had found his dress suit hard to keep track of, left his white vest in his room. He did not realize this until he reached Ashland where he was preparing to make a sparkling appearance in the evening performance. In consequence he took the next Ford to Medford and returned entirely "vested" in time for the concert. The club members are of the opinion that they make good travelers, however, and are looking forward to another shorter trip this term.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED

Ruth Young and John Huston Take Posts in Mask and Buskin

Ruth Young was installed as president and John Huston as manager at a meeting of Mask and Buskin, honorary dramatic society, held in Guild hall Thursday evening. These new officers take the places made vacant by the resignations of Frances Frater, who resigned as president when she left college, and Curtiss Peterson, whose work on the Oregon fills his time. The other members of the cabinet of this organization are Norvel Thompson, vice president; Helen Guttery, secretary; and Evelyn Smith, corresponding secretary.

Business for the evening constituted the discussion of plans for a play to be given as soon after Junior Week-End as an open date can be secured. The play to be produced has not been definitely decided upon.

BISHOP SUMNER COMING

Bishop Walter T. Sumner, of the Oregon Diocese of the Episcopal church, will visit the University for three days, beginning Monday, May 14, according to a letter received from him by President P. L. Campbell. It was the wish of the University to have Bishop Sumner here during Junior Week-End, but he found it impossible to be here at that time.

SPANISH CLUB HEARS TALK

Pedro Alcantara Tells of Philippines; Vida McKinney Gives Dance

"The Philippine Islands" was the subject of a most interesting talk by Pedro Alcantara before the Spanish club Thursday night at the Bungalow. Senor Alcantara spoke briefly of the plant and animal life of the islands and the ideal climate, but more particularly of the people themselves.

"There would be less trouble in the world if people understood better the people of other countries," he said. "The present disturbances are largely caused by misunderstandings. The people of the Philippines are very grateful to the Americans, and the late Senator Wm. Jones was one of their greatest heroes," he stated.

Other members on the program that were greatly enjoyed were a Spanish dance in costume by Vida McKinney, and a humorous talk, "Spanish As It Was," by Harold Wines. Grace Knopp, president of the club, read a letter from the college students of Uruguay, expressing their good will toward American students.

A feature of the meeting that proved very entertaining was the telling of short Spanish stories and jokes by the members.

WILL FOUND FELLOWSHIPS

Faculty Colloquium Recommend Establishment of Several

Graduate work and fellowships were discussed at the faculty colloquium which met last Tuesday evening. Reports were given of the graduate work and professional graduate work for each department was discussed. It was decided to recommend to the graduate council that teaching fellowships be founded in the departments in which they could best be used. These would include all the science departments, economics, sociology and others.

A committee was appointed to investigate the research material now in the library in order to determine what valuable material is there for graduate study and what is needed. Also to recommend a possible addition of research material.

GIRLS SLATE FOUR GAMES

Fair Ty Cobbs Will Vie Thursday; 25 Girls Out for Baseball

A big feature of the season in women's indoor baseball will occur next Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when four teams representing Kappa Kappa Gamma, Delta Gamma, Oregon club and Hendricks hall, will meet.

It has not yet been decided which teams will meet each other in this contest, but lots will be chosen at the last practice. The two winners of the first games will then play the final game. The names of the girls composing these four teams will be posted later, as the coach, Miss Gladys Gorman, has not fully decided who shall play.

Outdoor baseball practice started with 25 girls. The rules for the regulation game are being used. Preliminary practice consisted of throwing, catching and batting. Later in the season a first and second team will probably be chosen and contests held between them.

Kappa Alpha Theta announces the pledging of Valerie Coffey, of Portland.

STYLE SHOW IS PLANNED

Eugene Merchants Will Add Auto Show to Annual Spring Events

In connection with the style show, which is to begin next Monday, Eugene will hold an auto show, which is planned to be one of the biggest and best things ever shown in this city.

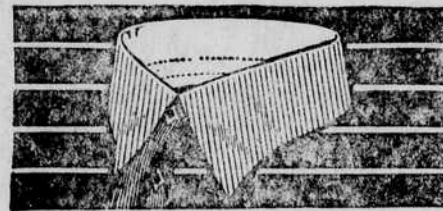

Present indications show that the exhibit will be largely attended by the people of Eugene, neighboring towns and cities outside the county. A large number of dealers have signified their intention of being on hand. The committee in charge of the show have arranged to have the same decorators who decorated for the Portland auto show decorate the Armory in this city.

The show will be somewhat handicapped because of the lack of display room in the armory but it has been arranged to have all the real feature cars of the season.

The men's University Glee club, which made such a big hit in southern Oregon during spring vacation, will ride through the streets on a big truck, singing Oregon songs and some of their famous hits. This will take place Monday night, the first night of the show, and the University is expected to be largely in attendance. It has also been arranged to have the big naval searchlight play on the crowds.

The auto show will end next Thursday by a road race for Ford cars, between Eugene and Junction City. The officials have arranged with the county authorities that the racers will not be prosecuted for violation of the law. Only Lane county Fords can be in the race but any driver can enter. Several prizes have been put up, one of them being a fifty dollar prize by E. C. Simmonds for the winner of the race, providing ten cars enter.
