

MUSIC AND LECTURE SERIES IS ARRANGED

Noted Figures in Art, Letters and Public Life to be Brought Here Next Year

An extraordinary music and lecture course is planned for next year which will give the students of the University and towns-people opportunity to hear and see some of the most noted American musicians and speakers. It is to take the place of the lyceum course formerly given by the Buceel circuit, which has given up this field.

At a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday, plans for this undertaking were made. There were present at the meeting representatives of the University faculty, student body Chamber of Commerce, Fortnightly club, association of Collegiate alumnae, Eugene public schools, The Ministerial association and the Eugene Lyceum course. The course is to consist of four concerts and three lectures. For the concerts there will be such prominent artists as Theo Karl, tenor, and Leopold Godowsky, pianist. The speakers will be persons of note, such as ex-President Taft, Ida Tarbell, associate editor of McClure's and otherwise famous in the literary world; Irvin S. Cobb, short story writer and contributor to the Saturday Evening Post, and Thomas Sheyhill, who will lecture on Gallipoli. There will also be a stringed quartet or two.

Eugene people will possibly remember that Theo Karl (Johnston) played the hero part in "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," given here several years ago by the Philogian society.

The object of the course as expressed by Dr. John Landsbury, Dean of the University School of Music, is to create an interest in music and bring before the people of Eugene and the students, representatives of the best there is in both musical and literary worlds.

Tickets for either the whole course or individual concerts will be obtainable. The price asked for the course will be little more than one usually pays for a single good concert in Portland. This will be very small in comparison with the great value received, according to Dr. Landsbury.

CLUB HOLDS 'OREGON DAY'

Faculty Members Attend Annual Fair of Portland Civic League

President P. L. Campbell, Mrs. Mable Holmes Parsons and Miss Charlie Fenton have returned to the campus from Portland where they attended the annual "University Oregon day" meeting of the Portland civic league at a luncheon at the Hotel Benson and spoke in the interests of the University.

In addition to the three who went from the campus, Dr. George Rebec, of the extension division, and Dr. Kenneth A. J. MacKenzie, dean of the medical school from Portland, spoke at the luncheon. Many former students, friends and supporters of the University were present at the meeting.

The war record of the University was described by President Campbell in a talk. He gave the accomplishments of the University during that period and outlined the needs of the institution. He attributed the new courses in college to the unexpected display of power made by the students during that time and stated that they had done more than was expected of them. This development of new power called for new courses to be instituted, he said.

Mrs. Parsons outlined for the club the need of the new Women's building, and the need of funds, and Dr. Rebec told of the activities of the extension department.

Dr. MacKenzie told of the work accomplished by his profession during the war and expressed hopes of speedy completion and occupation of the new medical building in Portland.

Dr. Carl G. Doney, president of Willamette University, spoke for the victory loan and O. Clark Leiter, former Portland newspaper man, gave a report of the Oregon reception committee in New York, which is there engaged in the work of welcoming the Oregon soldiers upon their return.

MISS HASLETT ILL

Miss Edith Haslett, national traveling secretary for the Student Volunteers, has been confined in the University Infirmary for several days with a severe cold. Miss Haslett expects to leave for Oregon Agricultural College on Wednesday, if she is able to leave the infirmary.

EDITING STAFF SELECTED

Frances Blurock to Handle Next Issue of Oregon Exchanges

The staff for the next issue of Oregon Exchanges, the little magazine published by the Editing Class in the School of Journalism for the newspaper men of the state, was selected at the meeting of the class this morning. Frances Blurock will be editor; Clytie Hall Frink, managing editor; Frances Stiles, circulation; Tracy Byers and Elizabeth Aumiller, copyreaders; James Sheehy, all over Oregon editor; and Helen McDonald and Erma Zimmerman proofreaders.

The class has just issued one number of the Exchanges and will have the next one off the press shortly after the newspaper conference which is held here this week. They hope to get much of their material from the editors who are at the conference.

PARTNERS DRAWN IN SENIOR LOTTERY

Junior Men Fill Required Quota for Dance to be Held May 2

At last the Senior Lottery committee held their long expected meeting and decided the fate of their classmates and also of several fortunate junior men who were needed to make up the necessary quota of men.

"It was a square mix," said Lloyd Tegart, chairman of the lottery committee, "everybody had a square deal, and we strove to please."

"The annual affair will be staged at the usual place and promises to be bigger and better than ever. Come prepared for a good time, and remember that it is no formal affair."

This is the one time that the high and mighty senior forgets his dignity and trips the light fantastic. Wagons, drays, wheelbarrows, etc., are the proper modes of conveyance for the fair sex. The time and the place, Sigma Nu house, Friday, May 2. The Lottery results is as follows:

FRED DUNBAR TO RETURN

Former Student, Now in France Expects to Reenter University

Fred Dunbar, ex-'16, of the University and formerly reporter on the Eugene Morning Register, in a letter received by Karl Onthank, secretary to President P. L. Campbell, this morning states that he expects to take some additional college work upon his return to the United States from France. His letter follows in part:

"Well I didn't expect to be writing to you from France on this date, but such is the guerre. We have been waiting here over six weeks now to get on a boat and don't seem to be any nearer getting aboard now than before."

"The other companies ahead of us took from two to three weeks at the port to get out by way of Brest and St. Nazaire. I think that their program of sending five divisions home a month is keeping us here. We will probably have to wait until they build some more ships or convert the German merchant navy into transports. Well, we still have hopes anyway."

"As I wrote you before, I had hoped to get in a little work at the 'U' this spring and summer. I am too late for the spring work, but perhaps will be able to do it this summer. I remembered correctly the 'U' adopted the four semester plan within the last year or so, thereby running a semester through the summer, which ought to give me a crack at it anyway."

On account of the delay in sailing, Dunbar has asked for entrance to the port school at Bordeaux but says he has as yet heard nothing of it.

"We are located here at a chateau," he says, "in the midst of the vineyard region. It is very interesting for awhile but I must say that personally I lost my taste for Vin Blanc some time ago, and I would rather see a few wheat fields."

CAMPUS Y. WANTS HUT

Transference of Building Ownership From National Order Sought

It was decided to ask the National War Work council of the Y. M. C. A. for the ownership of the Y. hut on the campus, at the meeting of the advisory board of the campus Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening, according to Dr. A. E. Caswell, president of the board. A committee was also appointed, with Dr. C. H. Edmondson, chairman, Dean D. W. Morton, and Dr. A. E. Caswell, to look into the matter of a secretary for next year. The present secretary is in the employ of the government and a campus organization will have to secure one for next year.

The Y. M. C. A. hut on the campus belongs to the National War Work council, with national headquarters at New York city. The council will be asked to give a bill of sale for the hut and its contents to the campus organization.

Dean Walker Bumps Chief of Police and Digs $2 and Costs

With Dean H. Walker as defendant and Dean Louise Ehrmann as a witness, the police court took on an unusually high-brow atmosphere yesterday morning. Mr. Walker had run afoul of the law on Sunday morning, and Dean Ehrmann had seen him do it.

It cost Mr. Walker just $2 and costs to bump into the chief of police with his automobile at Eleventh and Willamette. This amount, in the judgment of Miss Grace Stearns, city recorder, adequately covered the damages.

According to the story told in court the graduate manager was driving his automobile past a street car when the trouble occurred. It was Sunday morning and he did not think anyone would be alighting from the car at that particular time. However, a woman church-goer, with her baby, was getting off, and the graduate manager had thrust upon him the choice of running down the woman or Chief of Police Christensen. The chief was elected, and the car was brought to a stop just off one of the law guardian's feet.

Being quite familiar with the city ordinance, the chief had it borne in on his attention that when a street car is turning a corner any vehicle coming in the opposite direction must pass to the right. This, according to the complaint, was not done by Mr. Walker's car.

WOMEN TWO TO ONE OVER MEN IN CLASS

Percentage of Girls Smaller Than in Last Year; 27 of 19's From Portland

According to the list of students who have already filed their petitions for graduation, the women of the senior class outnumber the men two to one, which is an increase in the number of men graduating, over that of last year when the figures stood three to one in favor of the co-eds. Of the 110 who have already applied, 73 are women and 37 men.

In the last two years the class of 1919 has remained practically the same with regard to the number of its members. There were 128 juniors registered in the University last year, and there are approximately 130 students in the graduating class this year. This feature shows that the number of incoming students has balanced with the withdrawals in the upperclass ranks. Unless something unusual happens within the few weeks before commencement, this year's senior class will not make a record in membership, as there were 124 in the 1917 class and 131 in the 1918 class.

Among the students registered for graduation up to date, 27 are from Portland and 27 have their homes in Eugene. For the most part the other 50 per cent of the class come from other towns in the state. Eight members are from outside states and countries. They are as follows: Two from California, two from Washington, two from Iowa, one from Wisconsin, and one from China.

Natural sciences seem to be the most popular general courses for both men and women. English literature comes next. Closely followed by Romance languages, journalism and rhetoric.

Mrs. Laura Beck, of Portland is the oldest student in the class and in the University.

Ada R. Hall, who has submitted her petition for a masters degree this June, has received a fellowship from the University of Illinois for the coming year, through the assistance of V. E. Shelford, professor of ecology at that institution. Miss Hall will be working toward her doctor's degree, which requires two years.

GIRLS HANDY WITH BOWS

Archery Is Becoming Favorite Sport Among University Women

Archery is one of the favorite sports among University women this spring, according to Miss Harriet Thompson, instructor, who says that there are several girls in her class who could vie with Dan Cupid himself when it comes to using the bow and arrow.

The best individual archers are Marion Bowen, a junior, who won the yew bow last year in the spring contest, and Dorothy Lowry, a sophomore, who is just beginning the work but who shows unusual ability to hit the elusive tri-pod, Miss Thompson says.

There are three sections of archers this term and the classes are very large Miss Thompson stated. The 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock groups are doing excellent work she says, while the 4 o'clock sections have much more difficulty in scoring.

The archery contest will be held sometime in May when the yew bow will be awarded again by the Women's Athletic association to the highest point winner.

PRACTICE GAMES OFFERED

W. E. Millikin, coach of baseball in the Eugene high school, announced today his willingness to stack his high school youngsters against any of the fraternity nines in the doughnut league on any evening convenient to both teams. In this way, he says, both the preppers and the University men can obtain much needed practice. A telephone message to the Eugene high school office will reach Mr. Millikin.
