

ADVANCED MILITARY CLASS TO ORGANIZE

Work in Administration and Tactics to be Given By Colonel Baird

An advanced class in administration and tactics, under the instruction of Lieutenant Colonel Raymond C. Baird will be started Friday afternoon and will meet once a week. Three University credits will be given for the work which will be based on an assumed military organization. Each phase of regimental organization will be taken up in detail from the laying out of a camp site to the training for men and officers after organization.

Colonel Baird yesterday announced the following men as enrolled in this class: Major, Estes Brosius; captains, Arnold Keopke, Wayne Laird, John Gamble and French Moore. Three men, Clyde Davis, Frank Palmer and Ernest Evans, have made application. Their eligibility will be decided upon by Colonel Baird upon receipt of their military record. Only men who have had sufficient basic military training are eligible for this advanced work Colonel Baird says.

One hundred and forty men reported for drill Saturday morning. This was the best showing to date, said Colonel Baird, who was pleased with the interest evidenced by the cadets in the motion picture showing all the mechanical workings and the effective work of the Browning Automatic rifle.

Literature prepared especially for the visiting editors by Colonel Baird, outlining the work and purpose of the R. O. T. C. was distributed at the state newspaper conference Friday afternoon.

It is hoped that in this manner a fuller understanding of the importance of the organization will be made known throughout the state, for, as the bulletin states, "experience in past wars has proven that the college man, or rather the educated man, is the one who is best qualified after a certain amount of intensive training, to handle our forces in battle. It has also been proven that those men who have had a certain amount of previous basic military training have developed most rapidly along the lines of an officer, and have been of material assistance in hastily organizing a new army. It is the purpose of this organization to train the cadets in the fundamentals of military science."

Y. M. C. A. SPEAKER PRAISED

J. S. Wilson Said to be Worth Semester of College Work

Literature and pictures praising the lectures at other colleges by J. Stitt Wilson who will lecture at the Y. M. C. A. hut May 18-21, are coming in, according to Secretary Van Osdel. The following is from a letter written by Harry Kingman, of Pomona College and University of California.

"I write to tell you how fortunate I think our colleges are that they are to have the opportunity of soon hearing the message of Mr. J. Stitt Wilson. I have never heard him speak until last week, and I scarcely expected to become enthusiastic about him, but after listening to him for three days I am ready and anxious to announce that he is a wonder."

"The things that Mr. Wilson speaks are things that have burnt into his heart, and he in turn burns his convictions into the hearts of his audience. There are undoubtedly not more than a handful of men in the nation to whom the college student of today could as profitably listen. Sitting under Stitt Wilson for four days would be worth more to most of us than a semester in college."

BOND SALES TOTAL $6,250

Colonel Baird Urges All Purchasers on Campus to Report

Reports on the purchase of Victory bonds by faculty members and reported at R. O. T. C. headquarters to Monday totaled $6,250, as announced by Lt. Colonel Raymond C. Baird.

The military department makes an urgent appeal to everyone connected with the University who has subscribed for a Victory bond to report the purchase at military headquarters by telephone, in person or by letter, in order that the University may have a chance to receive one of the recommendations which will be given by the war department to the universities or colleges with an R. O. T. C. organization showing the largest subscription of bonds.

Society

Two house dances last week and another to look forward to next week-end has made the week-ends very busy socially. Some of the dances are formal, but for the most part dress suits and flowers are out of order. Every available date for the rest of the year is filled up with dances, so no one need worry about the week-ends being full.

Members of the Scroll and Script, senior women's honorary society, entertained the junior women of the University at a delightful tea Saturday afternoon at the Kappa Alpha Theta house. Those in the receiving line were: Ethel Waite, Kathryn Johnson, Lois Loughlin, Marie Badura, Marian Tuttle Williams, Mariam Page and Callie Beck Heider. Patronesses for the affair were: Mrs. L. H. Johnson, Dean Louise Ehrmann and Miss Gertrude Talbot. Mrs. David Graham presided at the table. The sophomore girls serving included Lois Macy, Stella Sullivan, Dorothea Boynton and Alice Thurston. Marian Gilstrap, accompanied by Theodore Stoppenback, entertained with singing during the afternoon.

The freshmen and sophomore girls of Kappa Kappa Gamma were hostesses to the upperclassmen at a delightful matinee dance and picnic at the country club last Saturday from four until eight. The chaperons of this affair were Mrs. G. E. Lehman and Miss Camille Dosch. Besides the upperclass girls the guests were: Adelaide Fairbanks, from the University of Washington, and Leith Abbott, Estes Brosius, Horace Foulkes, Elmo Madden, Marc Latham, Ogen Johnson, George LaRoche, George Van Waters, Mortimer Brown, Sanford Gehr, Vergil Cameron, Charles Robinson, Glen Stanton, Irving Smith, Ormand Hildebrand, Kenneth Smith, John Gamble, George Hopkins, Morris Morgan, Jerry Backstrand, Eugene Keilty, Jay Butler, Verne Dudley, Martin Howard, Clifford Manerud, Sydney Haslip, Wesley Behrerell, Raymond Lawrence, Chester Adams, Elstrom Ireland, Kenneth Comstock, Joe Trowbridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Medler.

Mrs. Frank Bates, who has been visiting her sister, Miss Nellie Reidt, at the Chi Omega house for the week-end, returned to Portland Monday.

Mrs. J. Studler and Mrs. W. H. Giles, who were spending the week-end with their daughters at the Chi Omega house, returned to Portland last Sunday evening.

Miss Ruth Ralston returned to her home in Portland Monday, after spending the week-end at the Delta Delta Delta house.

Sunday dinner guests at the Kappa Alpha Theta house were: Carter Brandon, Forest Watson, Richard Martin, Nish Chapman, Everett Brandenburg, Martin Howard and Donald McDonald.

Dinner guests of Alpha Tau Omega Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Russell, Roberta Schuebel, Ada MacMurphey, Elizabeth Hadley Helen Carson, Lois Macey, and Ila Nicols.

Professor and Mrs. C. H. Edmondson, Mrs. Brown, and Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Bovard were Sunday dinner guests of Delta Gamma.

Sigma Chi men were hosts of Delta Gamma at a hot cake breakfast Sunday morning.

Homer Maris, an old Phi Delt, from Portland, spent the week-end at the Phi Delta Theta house.

Fred Main and Wilbur Carl were guests at the Phi Delta Theta house at O. A. C. last week-end.

Tonight Beta Theta Pi and U-Avava will hold exchange dinners.

L. Nunn and Harry Kuck were week-end guests of Sigma Chi.

Cleve Humphrey and Charles Hater were dinner guests of Sigma Nu on Sunday.

Sunday dinner guests of Sigma Chi were Doris Dezendorf, Blanche Wilson, Helen Ranson, Janet Sewall, and Emma Wootton Hall.

Members of Kappa Kappa Gamma were hostesses to several U-Avava men last Sunday evening at lunch. The guests were Guy Armautrot, Jay Butler, George Harris, Stanley Eisman, Adrian Rouslou, Morton McDaniels and Harry C. Lindley.

Rena Adams and Vivian Chandler spent the week-end in Portland.

LOCATION OF COURTS DEFENDED BY DE COU

Campus Will Not Be Marred by Cutting of Trees, Says Professor

Further details concerning the selection of the site for the new cement tennis courts were given today by Professor E. E. DeCou, who is chairman of the faculty committee on intramural sports, which made arrangements for the building of the courts.

"Many objections have reached me concerning the destruction of so many trees north of the library, where the new courts are being built," said Professor DeCou. "The fact is that no other spot on the campus could have been used."

When the committee headed by Professor DeCou looked into the sites suggested for the new courts, they considered that one of the dirt courts south of Kincaid field, but upon conferring with Dean Lawrence, of the school of architecture, they found that the wing of Hendricks hall, which is planned for some future time, would extend over that ground, and so they could not be placed there.

Other Sites Suggested
Another suggestion was that the courts be placed south of the driveway that it is planned to have across the campus between Johnson hall and the Hut, across Thirteenth street. This, however, it was found, would interfere with the use of the athletic fields by the baseball and track men, and although a new athletic field is planned, the old ones may have to be used for a year or more, so these sites were not advisable.

"Dean Walker suggested the site where the courts are now being built," said DeCou, "and the selection was afterward approved by Dean Lawrence."

The present location will not mar the beauty of the campus, says Professor DeCou, but will add to it later when the courts are laid out. The proximity of trees will eliminate the needless glare of the sun and the central location of the courts makes them very desirable.

Courts Cost $1500
"The cost of the courts will be near $1500," said Professor DeCou. "Later, in the new athletic field more courts will be built, so in this way, every need of the University in tennis will be provided for."

The faculty intramural committee, of which DeCou is chairman, consists of Dean Walker, Miss Mabel L. Cummings, Professor R. W. Prescott and Professor H. C. Howe. This committee hopes also to complete the remodeling of the old drill shed, so as to provide courts for handball, squash, and indoor golf on the upper floor of the building.

SCHAFFER OUTLINES COURSE

Former Professor Heads Committee On Citizenship Training In Schools

Joseph Schafer, former professor of history at the University who is now on leave of absence in Washington, D. C., has recently completed a report on the new proposed common school course in history, correlated with civics, reading and geography. It will be printed in the May number of the Historical Outlook. Dr. Schafer is chairman of the new committee of eight on history and education for citizenship in the schools, with headquarters in the capitol city.

Dr. Schafer said in speaking of the aims of the course: "It will broaden children's knowledge of world affairs as distinguished from narrowly national affairs; it will, in consequence, impart a truer knowledge of American history and life; finally, it will result in a much more definite and, we think, more adequate training for citizenship—our supreme object."

Dr. Schafer will call a meeting of the history teachers of the Mississippi Valley in St. Louis early in May to discuss the plans for this committee. He expects to make definite recommendations for the courses before the first of June.

LIBRARY COURSE OFFERED

New Work to be Given at Summer Session, Alma Penrose, Instructor
Courses in "The Administration of High School Libraries" will be given at the summer session of the University this year, M. H. Douglass, librarian, announced today. Miss Alma Penrose, librarian of the West high school, Minneapolis, assisted by members of the University library, will give the lectures.

Miss Penrose is a graduate of Oberlin College and the University of Illinois library school. She has given courses in classification and cataloguing for the past two summers at the University of Minnesota summer school and previous to this at the Iowa summer school. Miss Penrose was formerly a member of the library staff of Grinnell College in Iowa.

World's Greatest Musicians are Graduates of Conservatories

There is every reason to believe that in giving your children musical educations, it is your desire to give them the best obtainable. The conservatory methods, such as followed by this institution, offers many advantages and short cuts—In our first year's course we teach standard concertos and advance students rapidly. History tells us that:

Ossip Gabrilowitsch—Russian pianist and world famous, holds world's record for playing greatest number of standard concertos from memory in one season, is a graduate of the conservatory at St. Petersburg.

Henri Marteau—French violinist, also world famous and holds world's record for rendering greatest number of standard concertos from memory in one season, the number in each case being eighteen.

Leopold Godowsky—One of the world's most talented pianists and a pupil of Saint-Saens, who is a conservatory graduate, has been director of the piano departments of the following conservatories: Broad Street Conservatory, Philadelphia; Chicago Conservatory, Chicago; Ellison-White Conservatory, Portland.

History tells us that many others of our master musicians received their training at conservatories—at conservatories students fairly live in their music—practice hours, lesson hours, recital hours. Music from early until late under conservatory methods is the environment by which music becomes a part of a student's very self. They live in and become so imbued and so fascinated with the work that it is not any wonder that by these methods after years of study they become master musicians.

Ellsworth Crocker, president of the Pacific Conservatory, and violin instructor, is a conservatory graduate and received his instructions from conservatory graduates. He is familiar with all the latest methods taught by conservatories.
