

WASHINGTON-OREGON NET STARS TO MEET

Tennis Match Will be Hotly Contested; Both Teams Look Good

The intercollegiate tennis season will open here Friday and Saturday, when the University of Washington wielders of the racquet will play the University of Oregon net stars.

The Washington team of Barker, Todd, and Kitamura, will be seen in action against Brown, Beggs, and Smith, upon whom Oregon's hopes for a conference championship rest this season. Doubles will be played Friday afternoon, one single match Saturday morning, the remaining two singles Saturday afternoon.

The Washington squad is reputed to be as formidable as it was last year, when it won the conference championship. Kitamura is the Japanese star, who has played on the Seattle University's team for the past two seasons. "Mort" Brown beat him last year, but the Jap is reported to be going better than ever now.

Todd to Play Brown

Todd is said to be even better than the Japanese. He is to be played by Brown in a singles match Saturday afternoon, and it promises to be an exceptional contest. Barker seems to be a dark horse, as very little is known of his playing.

"Mort" Brown, captain of this year's team, and member of last year's squad, has been going better than ever this year, and hopes to bring home the championship for Oregon. His form is excellent, and his playing is greatly improved over that of last year. "We ought to win the championship this year, if we have no unlucky breaks," he said.

George Beggs, a new man on the Varsity tennis team, seems likely to be able to put over a win in his game. He will play Kitamura, Saturday morning, and it is likely to be a close game, with luck winning the sets.

Smith-Barker Game to be Close

Graham Smith will play Barker Saturday afternoon in the singles. This also ought to be a very close contest, as from the meagre information obtainable, Barker seems a very consistent player.

The officials have not been selected as yet. As this is the only athletic contest on the campus this week-end, it is expected that a good sized crowd will be on hand to view the series. The next tournament in which the Oregon team will take part is that with O. A. C., on a week from Friday and Saturday, at Corvallis.

GIRLS TO ELECT OFFICERS

Women's League Will Choose New Heads at Meeting Thursday

With student body elections out of the way, the women are again turning their interest to politics. Election for the next year's officers for Women's League is to take place at the meeting of all the women in the University next Thursday afternoon in Villard hall at 5 p. m.

Just who is going to be put up for office is as yet unknown, for little attention has been paid to the matter. Harriet Garrett, president of the League has appointed as a nominating committee, Essie Maguire, chairman, Helen Anderson and Helen McDonald. Persons having nominees in mind are asked to hand the candidate's name to this committee by Tuesday evening. The offices to be filled are president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and reporter.

Beba Macklin, treasurer of this year, will give a financial report on the April Frolic and the Women's League luncheon.

There will probably be an informal discussion of campus affairs for next year.

MILITARY FILMS RECEIVED

A motion picture film, 4500 feet in length showing in detail rifle grenades, French mortars and artillery team in draft has been received at the military department, according to Lieutenant Colonel R. C. Baird, assistant professor of military science and tactics, and will be run at the lecture hour for R. O. T. C. cadets at the campus armory Saturday morning.

TWO MORE GAMES END BALL SEASON

Oregon's Chances of Emerging From Cellar Seem Not Impressive

BASEBALL SCHEDULE

May 24—Oregon Frosh vs. O. A. C. Rooks, one game, Corvallis.
May 28 and 29—O. A. C. vs. Oregon, two games, Eugene.

With but two more games to play, Oregon's chances of climbing out of the cellar position seem not very strong. The two games left to play are those with O. A. C., which are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday of next week, May 28 and 29.

California, who planned a northern trip for her baseball squad, has given up the idea, and Oregon will not be seen in action against that team. The Oregon freshman team will meet the O. A. C. rooks in a return game at Corvallis next Saturday. This will practically finish the baseball season for Oregon.

Oregon lost its last chance to score a win over Washington last Friday, when they lost their game with the purple and gold crew by the score of 7 to 1. The lone score was made by "Herm" Lind on a homer in the first inning. Lind batted a million in Seattle, and in the first game got four hits out of eight times up.

Much Skull Work Shown

The second game was described by Coach "Shy" Huntington as a "prize exhibition of boneheads." Every one from the umpire up pulled a bunch of errors, many of which went for runs for the Puget Sound squad.

Durno pitched a good game, but lacked the proper support. He allowed only nine hits, but his cohorts were only able to gather seven off the Washington twirler, Chamberlain.

Lind and Reinhart were the hitting demons of the team. Both performed excellently in the field, in addition to threatening the score. Outside of Lind's homer, Oregon wasn't even within a dangerous distance of the home plate.

Wilson pitched a heady game in the first session, and is given credit for a deserved win. Burke, who started the game against Wilson was jerked from the box in the third. Oregon gathered four hits and three runs in the first inning of the first game, and had the Washington crew shaking in their boots.

Washington Wins Championship

The victory Friday, gave the Washington team the championship of the Northwest section of the Pacific Coast Conference. Oregon and O. A. C. will compete for second place when they meet here May 28 and 29, each having won a game against the other.

COUNCIL MEETING PUT OFF

Special Session to Elect Historian and Discuss Voting on Bond Issue

Student Council did not meet last evening because of conflict of dates for a number of the members, and a quorum could not be gathered together. The meeting was adjourned for the J. Stitt Wilson lecture.

A special Council meeting will probably be held next Wednesday evening, in order that plans may be made to have every student who is eligible to vote, out at the polls when the reconstruction bond issue comes up for election. Also a historian or keeper of the University museum must be elected by the old student council before the next student body meeting.

FACULTY MEN GET RAISE

Pennsylvania Professors Will Have Salary Increased

All faculty men in the University of Pennsylvania who have been receiving salaries of less than $4,000 a year have been voted an increase of 25 per cent by the board of trustees according to the following announcement issued to the press by Provost Smith:

"All full-time instructors, assistant professors and professors whose regular salaries do not exceed $4000 will receive an increase of 25 percent. All whose salaries are between $4000 and $6000 will receive an increase of 20 per cent, and those whose salaries are $6000 and over will receive an increase of 10 percent.

The scale of increased salaries goes into effect in the fall and affects more than 500 members of the faculty."

Society

Everyone is anxiously awaiting the week-end when six houses will entertain at dancing parties, Kappa Sigma, U-Avava, Delta Tau Delta, Pi Phi, Friendly Hall, and Hendricks Hall. Sunday the usual picnics will be held, and almost everyone will spend the day out of town. The campus is entertaining several visitors from Portland who are here for the unveiling of the statue of "The Pioneer."

Harold Newton, Edison Marshall, Raymond Koessel, Raymond Lawrence, and Prince Callison were dinner guests of Delta Gamma Tuesday evening.

Hendricks Hall entertained Mr. J. Stitt Wilson and Dean Louise Ehrmann at luncheon Tuesday noon.

The Alpha Phi house was the scene of a merry matinee dance Wednesday afternoon from 4 till 6. The guest list included Gertrude Livermore, Merle Margason, "Bill" Holmes, Kenneth Wilson, Horace Foulkes, Curtiss Peterson, Ned Fowler, Forrest Littlefield, Kenneth Smith, Guy Armantrout, Jack Askey, Walter Hempy, Phillip Johnson, Sydney Tewksbury, William Ralston, Nick Carter, Kelly Branstetter, Luckey Bonney, Garfield Madden, Virgil Cameron and Carter Brandon.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Crockatt were dinner guests of Chi Omega Monday evening.

Wednesday evening the Chi Omega house was entertained at dinner by Virginia Giles and Josephine Connors.

Mrs. E. G. Ditto, of St. Helens, is visiting her daughter, Alma Ditto, this week at Hendricks Hall.

Tuesday noon A. S. Diment of Marshfield, was the luncheon guest of his daughter Gladys Diment at Hendricks Hall.

Sisters and relatives of the Sigma Nus were dinner guests at their chapter house this evening. Those present were Mrs. Benson, Mrs. C. Taylor, Margaret Thompson, Marjorie Kay, Leta Kiddle, Mrs. Emma Wootton Hall, Myrtle Ross, Dorothy Graham, Gretchen Colton, Hazel Shattuck, Miss Tracy, and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Walker.

Mrs. E. Kelley, Eugene Kelley, Velma Ross and Laura Canning were dinner guests of Beta Theta Pi Wednesday.

Ray Moores was a dinner guest at the Sigma Nu house Wednesday evening.

Phi Delta Theta entertained Raymond Koessel Wednesday evening at dinner.

on second, "Skeet" Manerude at short, and Bill Collins at third. If this combination is going well they should be able to shut the O. A. C. team out, but if not it looks like a repetition of last week's performance.

Game With California Off
In the outfield "Shy" will probably station, Say, Lalonde, Watson or Walker. The freshman team will probably not go to Corvallis until Saturday and return the same day. The varsity team will be idle this week-end but are billed to entertain the Aggies in the last games of the series here Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

The game with California is off, as the southern team has been beaten by everybody they have played and have decided not to invade the north.
