

FROSH OUT TO SCALP REDSKINS IN BATTLE ON KINCAID SATURDAY

Tentative Line-Up Picked Shows First-Year Men Strong in Brawn and Experience

Stiff workouts are the order of the day for the frosh squad in preparation for Saturday's game with Chemawa Indian school. The 1923 mob is gradually beginning to look like a football team, but good teamwork seems to be missing from their virtues. Coach C. B. Kratz is shifting the lineup every day in an effort to pick the strongest possible combination to face the Redskins this weekend. The men who will probably start the game Saturday:

"Duckie" Holmes will be in as pilot. He is a mighty good man at the helm and has had plenty of experience, having played with the McMinnville high school team for three years, and also for two years in the army.

Backfield Shows Strength

"Pete" Mead or Ables will start the game at right half. Meade is another of the McMinnville products and is a likely looking youngster. He has had four years' experience in the backfield on McMinnville's team and struggled with the pigskin for two seasons while in the service. Ables has been making good in the backfield the past week and will very likely be given a chance to show his mettle Saturday.

"Frankie" Hill, who will start the game at left half, has served several years on the Eugene high school team. He was quarterback on the local team which claimed the state championship last year. If Hill holds his head in the game Saturday he has a chance of making good.

George King, who is slated to hold down the fullback position, has been one of the most promising men since the beginning of the season. King is an old player, and his ability as a line plunger is good.

Jamieson Pupil at End

The end positions will be held down by Borman and McEntee. McEntee is one of Homer Jamieson's pupils, having played several years on the Jefferson teams. His regular position is in the backfield, but he will be tried out at end in this game.

The tackles who will line up at the first whistle are Floyd Shields and "Rud" Brown. Both of these men are husky enough to batter down a stone wall. In weight they tip the scales at almost 200, so it is up to them to make good use of this beef.

Burns, McAlister, Carson and Heerd will all have the chance to begin the game at right guard. Coach Kratz has not yet decided who will start in that position. Archie Shields often called "Tiny"—tiny to the extent of 200 pounds—will be allowed to make the first showing at left guard. There ought to be no trouble with the left side of the line Saturday if Shields lives up to his reputation.

Eugene Center Makes Place

"Flop" Johnson is the center who will make the first pass in the coming melee. "Flop" performed last year on the Eugene high school squad. He ought to come through with some good stuff.

There are several other men whom Coach Kratz may have start the game. During the game as many men as is feasible will be given a chance to show their worth. Having so large a squad it is difficult to pick the team offhand.

According to the coach the Oregon frosh will win the game with Chemawa provided they are as good a team as they look to be on paper. Chemawa nearly always turns up with a foxy crew, so the first year men can expect no snap job.

SHEEHY TAKES SUB TRIP

FORMER STUDENT RIDES IN CAPTURED HUN CRAFT

Oregon Journal Reporter Describes Life on Boat—Long Cruise Unpleasant

A two-day trip in a submarine from Portland to Seattle was the unique experience of James S. Sheehy, president of the student body in 1918, who received his degree with the graduating class of last year. Sheehy is now a member of the staff of the Oregon Journal and wrote an interesting account of his two days spent on the undersea boat which appeared with pictures in the Sunday edition of that paper.

The trip was made in the U-88, a captured German craft, and was accompanied on the trip by the U.S.S. Bittern, minesweeper. The party left Portland at 6:20 Monday morning and arrived safely at Seattle by 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

"You really must take a voyage on board one of these undersea fighters to realize the life the crew leads," said Sheehy in his story.

"The slim death-dealers, heavy and compact, are at the mercy of the sea. We knew that before we started our cruise, but little did we dream of the tossing that was in store for us on the open waters of the Pacific. Up and down from bow to stern, from port to starboard, we lurched and lunged as the nose of the former Hun merchant ship hunter plowed through the seas.

"Space is at a premium on a submarine. When Captain Wilson, in command, told us that life on board the U-88 was nearly unbearable during a 10 or 15 day cruise in a rough sea, there was none to doubt him. 'Think of the stench, the odor and discomfort of spending 10 days in this walled prison—hatches all closed tight, boat pitching and tossing as if mad, water rancid, food low, men unshaved and unwashed—it's a very hell,' Captain Neilson said."

Sheehy was one of the most active men who ever graduated from Oregon. Besides being president of the student body, he was four years a letterman in baseball and prominent in every form of student activity. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

UNIVERSITY WILL ADVANCE MONEY

State Aid to Begin on Same Day Application is Filed

That financial aid, under the state financial aid bill, will begin as soon as the application is filed, was announced from the registrar's office. According to the enrollment records not all students that are entitled to state aid have filled out the application. All previous service men are urged to make out their application as soon as possible if they are desirous of securing this aid.

At the end of the present month all men who have already made application will be notified to fill out a claim form at the registrar's office covering their expenses for the current month. Although the financial aid from the state treasury will not start until January, arrangements have been made by the University for the students to receive their money upon signing a note. A slight rate of interest of perhaps six per cent. for the few intervening months will be necessary.

OREGON'S FRESHMEN TO GET ACQUAINTED AT DANCE SATURDAY

Annual Party Will be Held in New Gym; Committees Named for Event

All freshmen who did not have an opportunity to get acquainted during the underclass mix, will have another chance on Saturday night, when their annual "get acquainted party" will be staged in the men's gym.

Two forms of amusement will be provided. The first hour, figuratively speaking, will be devoted to introductions, as there are over more than six hundred registered 8n the freshman class, and as each one is supposed to greet the other 599 and call them by name, the "hour" part of it may be extended.

After everyone has been properly introduced, Dean Straub will give the high sign, and the music will commence. Dancing will be in order until 11:30.

Various committees to handle the entertainment, vocal offerings, and introductions were appointed today by George Taylor, freshman president.

ALUMNI MAGAZINE OUT

OCTOBER ISSUE OF 'OLD OREGON' EDITED BY MISS FENTON

Homecoming, Women's Building and Other Campus Activities Played Up

The October issue of the Alumni publication, "Old Oregon" appeared from the University press yesterday. The issue is edited by Miss Charlie Fenton, secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association, and Miss Jeanette Calkins, former business manager of the Emerald, is business manager. The publication is in magazine form and this issue contains 56 pages. Features in the October number are "Campus News and Comments," "Fall Athletics," "News of the classes," "The Old Professor," "Home Coming Day" and "Old Oregon Membership."

In the department devoted to campus news and comment appears a sketch concerning the wen school of Sociology, opened upon the return to the campus of Dr. E. C. Robbins and the appointment of Dr. J. Franklin Thomas, from the University of Washington.

A section of the book is devoted to the return of faculty members who, for the most part, have been away in the interest of war work. Among those who are mentioned in this regard are Colin V. Dymont, of the school of journalism; Prof. Fred S. Dunn, of the latin department; Prof. O. F. Stafford, of the chemistry department; Louis C. Rosenberg, of the school of Architecture and Allen C. Hopkins, of the school of commerce.

The military training feature of the work for underclassmen is also described and the Pauline Potter-Homer Memorial Library's collection of works is also given a great deal of comment and a list of the books in the collection and those contributing to the library are listed.

"The Old Professors" is a story by Koel N. Pearey, of the class of '79. It gives a sweeping history from the year 1976 to the present time. The article describes the life of the campus in the days of President Johnson when the Lares and Eutaxian societies were the only two organizations on the campus and baseball was the only form of athletics. The olden days are contrasted with the present and the Dean, John Straub, who came in 1878, is described as "the last link between the old and new order."

Fall athletics and the new athletic field are discussed by Marian F. McClain, the new graduate-manager.
