BOOKS GIVEN TO LIBRARY

Carl Homer Adds Longfellow's Works to Memorial Collection

A new addition to the Homer memorial collection of books at the University library is the 13 volumes of Longfellow received this week from Carl Homer. The books are Cygnet edition, published by Houghton & Mifflin, with portraits of the author at different stages of his life as frontispieces. One photograph of unusual interest is that taken during the early part of his career, in 1846.

A miscellaneous collection of books by Oregon authors and about Oregon country has been added to greatly since the first of the term. Twenty-nine volumes have been secured since the first of the month, being obtained chiefly from second-hand book dealers in Portland. "Art Works of the State of Portland," published in 1909, is said to be interesting because of its large number of good photographs of Oregon.

It has been announced by Mr. Douglas that several numbers of the Stars and Stripes are missing from the library records and any persons having the missing copies are requested to communicate with the librarian. The missing numbers are Volume I, numbers 1, 3, 25, 43 and 44.

LUNCHEON PLANS BEGUNWOMEN'S LEAGUE TO FEED 3500 PEOPLE

Menus, "Memories of Oregon," to be Sold for Women's Building During Homecoming

The executive board of the Women's league met last Thursday evening in the Bungalow to discuss further plans for Homecoming on November 15. Louise Davis gave a report of the work which had been accomplished by the committee on the campus luncheon. Jeannette Moss, who is chairman of this committee, has appointed girls from each class who will be her assistants in the gigantic task of feeding 3500 people. The affair will cost about $350, and the student council has agreed to pay $50, the rest being paid by the Women's League. On account of the extremely high cost of food the senior, junior and sophomore women will be asked to pay 75 cents this year, instead of the 50 cents of former years. The freshman women will be required to make either two dozen sandwiches with filling or three dozen plain sandwiches. This affair, which will take place in the men's gymnasium, will have floor managers of representatives from each class to see that everyone is served in the quickest possible order.

The song composed by Homer Martin, "Memories of Oregon," will be sold for the benefit of the women's building on all the trains coming into Eugene on Homecoming. Herald White has assured the league that the men will get behind the proposition which the women are undertaking in the sale of the song and will see that it is brought to the attention of the whole University. The men's glee club will sing the song during the campus luncheon and there will be booths erected in the gym where the song may be procured.

Ella Rowlings, who is chairman of the committee to take guests on tours of inspection around the campus, has been working on an organization of her committee and is asking the cooperation of all who will help to do anything which may be needed for the big event of Homecoming.

Louise Davis is urging that every girl in the University get behind the efforts everyone is making for a huge success and with a sincere backing everything will go off with real Oregon spirit and push.

Johnnie Houston is chairman of a committee with Ella Rowlings and Lindsey McArthur in charge of student funds and general campaign. Dean Fox, Miss Dailey, Mabel Weller and John Gamble will attend to the soliciting of support from the organizations and from the local and outside churches.
