Out of 450 votes cast Thursday and Friday for the student volunteer representatives Stanford Anderson, president of the associated students, received 409 votes, the highest number cast for any of the thirty-two candidates. Louise Davis ran a close second with 394 votes. The other candidates were elected only by a slight majority in every instance.

The voting was considerably lighter than the committee expected and showed that only a small percentage of the student body voted. Most of the voting was done on Thursday, according to Eva Hansen, who handled the polling. Although there is a marked deficit in the fund to be raised before November 25, several plans are crystallizing whereby the committee hopes to raise the necessary amount during the next month. Effort will be made to solicit the aid of townspeople with the assistance of William Moll Case, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church. The benefit play to be given by Mask and Buskin at the Eugene theatre, December 6, is expected to advance the needle several points toward the thousand dollar mark.

The winning candidates from the university along with the delegates from the other institutions of Oregon will leave Portland by special train during the latter part of December so as to permit their arrival in Des Moines by December 31. The convention will occupy five days, ending January 4.

STUDENT BODY AMERICAN

Only 1.29 per cent of Oregon Men and Women Born Abroad

Only 1.29 per cent of the students attending the University of Oregon are of foreign parentage, according to figures just compiled by the registrar. The tabulation shows that of the 1,555 students on the campus all but 22 are American born.

England has the largest representation at Oregon. Four students are of English birth, three students are Canadians and two Chinese are enrolled this year. Three Filipinos and Two Hawaiians, who are not classed as foreigners, are registered.

Ten countries are represented on the campus by one student each. They are Scotland, Mexico, Finland, Russia, Germany, India, Norway, Greece, Holland and Japan.

BRONZE TABLET HERE FOR JOHNSON HALL

Inscription Commemorating Memory of Oregon's First President to Be Placed

Johnson Hall is to have a memorial tablet. In fact one has been received by the university from a Portland brass works, and will be installed within a few days. The building was named Johnson Hall, in commemoration of the first president of the university, but no tablet has ever been placed in it.

The tablet is made of bronze and is approximately two feet by three feet. It will be placed in the corridor near the main entrance to Johnson Hall. It reads as follows:

"JOHN WESLEY JOHNSON,

"First president of the University of Oregon, was born near Kansas City, Missouri, in the year 1836. In 1876 he was appointed to the presidency of the University of Oregon. He served the university in this capacity until 1893 and subsequently as professor of Latin until his death in 1898. In commemoration of a life nobly lived and worthily dedicated to the cause of higher education in the commonwealth of Oregon, this building has been named,

Johnson Hall."

ARCHITECTS TO ISSUE TEXT BOOK ON ART

DEAN LAWRENCE BACK FROM NEW YORK WITH NEWS—INSTITUTE EDITOR COMING

That the Educational Committee of the American Institute of Architects will publish a book in the near future, is the news brought here by Dean E. F. Lawrence, of the School of Architecture on his return from a meeting of the committee in New York on November 10, 11, 12 and 13. The publication will deal with art and architecture in general as it is practiced in the different countries of the world.

A medal and substantial prize will be given to the essayist who will write the best presentation of the appreciation of art and architecture from the standpoint of the student. The essay accepted by the committee will be used as a preamble to the book, said Dean Lawrence. The contest is open to anyone wishing to enter, he explained, and rules governing it will be published soon. C. H. Whitaker, editor of the Journal of American Institute of Architect, is coming to the coast in about four weeks, says Dean Lawrence, and will probably speak in Eugene. Mr. Whitaker was trained as an architect, but has spent most of his time in newspaper work, he explained. Being an expert on housing, he will probably speak on the subject.

"LITTLE DOG LAUGHED" IS CLEVERLY STAGED BY DRAMATIC CLASS

Charlotte Banfield, Gertrude Phetteplace and Adah McMurphy Star

Carrying the audience back to the days of their childhood, with its wealth of folk stories and Mother Goose rhymes, Fergus Reddie's fantasy in four acts, "The Little Dog Laughed," was produced at the Eugene theatre last night. From the time that the first curtain was drawn upon the kitchen of the old Goose home in Salem, Massachusetts, in the beginning of the 18th century until the last drop the audience was held by the unique manner of production and the clever work of some of the members of the cast.

Miss Charlotte Banfield, as Ann Goose, was perhaps the most pleasing of the characters. Gertrude Phetteplace, playing the role of the little dog that laughed, and Adah McMurphy, as the cat with the fiddle, were especially clever in their parts, added a great deal of humor. Peter Piper, a bachelor—very fond of pumpkins, was played by Roy Veatch, who gave one of the best of the characterizations of the play.

In the role of Captain Eleazer Goose, Norvell Thompson was apparently unable to sink his own individuality.

Thompson carried his lines well, but it was evident at all times that it was he and not the character from Mother Goose's rhymes, as the others soon became.

The action of the fantasy throughout takes place in the kitchen of the old Goose home in Salem, Massachusetts. Until the last act, the time is in the early 18th century. In the last part, for the most part, it is supposed to be up-to-date.

UNIFORMS MUST LAST R.O.T.C. CADETS YEAR

Capt. Baird Says Worn-out Equipment Will Have to be Paid for or Credits Will Be Lost

The practice of wearing R. O. T. C. uniforms at work is being discouraged by Commandant R. C. Baird. The uniforms are intended to last each cadet a year, and if they are worn out before the expiration of this time the price of the equipment will be charged to the cadet by the university and credits in all subjects will be withheld until the equipment is paid for.

Notices to this effect were distributed among the companies at drill last Friday. It was announced that in the future no credit will be given for worn out clothing returned unless the cadet's record of attendance at drill has been satisfactory and the condition of the uniform such as would be reasonably expected from the service required of it.

Copies of Service Magazine Needed.

The university library needs the following numbers of "Stars and Stripes" to complete its file for binding: Nos. 1, 3, 25, 43, 44. Anyone having copies of these numbers that he is willing to spare is requested to communicate with Librarian M. H. Douglass.

ORATORICAL MEETING HELD AT WILLAMETTE

ABE ROSENBERG REPRESENTS OREGON AT CONFERENCE OF 8 COLLEGES OF STATE

A meeting is being held at Willamette University at Salem to complete plans for the Old Line oratorical contest which is scheduled for the early part of January by eight colleges of the state in competition with the university. Abe Rosenberg, secretary of the league, left this morning for Salem to represent the University of Oregon at the meeting which will be concerned chiefly with the selection of judges for the contest. Oregon takes the stand that the three judges chosen for the contest should in addition to being judges of delivery also be capable of judging the manuscript from a literary standpoint.

Try outs for the triangular state debate in which the Oregon Agricultural College, Reed College, and the University of Oregon are participants, will be held next Tuesday at 4 o'clock in Professor Prescott's room in Johnson Hall. Oregon's negative is to meet Reed's affirmative in Portland, and O. A. C.'s negative will come to the university to meet Oregon's affirmative. The immigration question, "Resolved, that the principles of the Chinese exclusion act should be applied to all immigration into the United States for a period of not less than five years," is the question decided upon for discussion. January 9 is the date set for the debate.

CURRENT GOES ON STRIKE

Motion Pictures Fall and Biology Lecture is Postponed

Because the d. c. current which supplies the motion picture machines on the campus refused to "kick" Wednesday night the biology films, "How Life Starts," were not shown last night. Some trouble has been experienced with the generator which supplies the power. The condition was remedied and the first three reels of the series shown to a large division of the class at 8 o'clock this morning.

A second showing of the pictures will be held at Villard hall Monday evening. The general public is invited to attend. The pictures will include four reels of films.

VARSITY MEN REST TODAY TO PREPARE FOR PORTLAND GAME

Only Light Workouts Held During Week for Turkey Day Clash

OTHER GRIDIRON CONTESTS IN CONFERENCE WATCHED

All Eyes on California-Stanford and Washington State-Aggie Contests—Results Important

The varsity, after playing its three hardest contests, rested for the first time in four weeks today. As Thanksgiving day comes on next Thursday, it was deemed advisable by the schedule makers last fall to allow a day of rest before the final game with Multnomah.

It is certain that the game next week will not be a walkaway as the one was earlier in the year against the Clubmen. Since that time several former stars have joined the ranks of the Portland aggregation and have strengthened the eleven greatly.

On the other hand the varsity has passed through one of the most strenuous three week schedules that any team ever faced.

As a result, the members of the team have put their best efforts forth before this time and are not in the shape they were for the other contests.

Daily practices are being held as usual. Several of the substitutes are being used regularly in the lineup, and they will probably be used more for experience than anything else. Coach "Shy" Huntington is looking ahead to next year's team and using some of the men who are prospects for the 1921 varsity.

Little more has been heard about the Pasadena proposition. Almost every paper or prominent sport writer has a verdict of some different institution, but nothing will be known until the board meets for the final consideration, probably soon after the Turkey day games.

Today's clashes on other gridirons will count a great deal in the final consideration. O. A. C. has a chance to stage a comeback when they meet the Washington state eleven on Multnomah field in Portland. The Aggies are fighting strong to come through the season with at least one conference victory and they may put it over. The Cougars are weakened greatly by the absence of Jenne, who starred in the Oregon-W. S. C. clash two weeks ago, and Captain Dick Hanley. If the O. A. C. eleven downs or even ties the northern team, it will prove to the Pasadena people that Oregon has a real eleven.

In the southland, Stanford will endeavor to lower the Blue and Gold colors. Unless the unforeseen occurs, the Golden Bear should have little trouble with Coach Evan's Stanford team. Should Stanford win, it will simply mean that the title will be settled in the northwest, because W. S. C. downed California and O. A. C. nearly tied her a few weeks ago. Stanford has played but one game in the north, when after being outplayed by the Aggies during the entire game, they rallied and won by a recovered fumble. So Stanford should not be a contender.

California meets Washington next Thursday in perhaps the most important deciding contest of the season. If the northern aggregation can down the southern aggregation the Pasadena board will have to make its choice between Oregon, Washington and W. S. C.

Sophs and Seniors Tie On Gridiron Many Footballs Complicate Game

A scoreless tie was the result of a hard fought battle between the senior and sophomore football teams on Kincaid field Friday afternoon for the interclass championship. Neither team had the punch nor cleverness to put the ball across for the telling score. During the last quarter the seniors carried the ball down the field 50 yards to the 10-yard line. Fox pulled a pass but one of the sophomores on the sidelines was unfortunate enough to get in the way of the ball, thus completing the pass. With the ball 5 yards from the goal the final whistle blew, ending the seniors' only chance to score.

The game was full of thrilling features, as are most senior-sophomore contests. Mast's end run in the second quarter was one of the diversions of the game. He raced from one side of the field to the other, but as there seemed to be sophomores in his road everywhere he did not advance the ball. Jay Fox intercepted a pass, and ran 33 yards before he was tackled. At this time it is not certain whether he used the ball that was put in play or not, but that is immaterial.

The line plunging of "Herm" Lind was the source of much gain to the four year men. Time after time he slashed through the ever weakening sophomore line for substantial gain. The sophomores played a defensive game throughout the entire contest. The backfield was particularly effective in stopping the forward passes and end run plays of the husky seniors. La Roche, the second year pilot, did not play up to regular form. Collins and Purdy seemed to be the main yardage grabbers. "Mort" Brown substituted in the senior line up at right half, featured himself in the latter part of the game by making repeated gains through the line.

It may be said that the seniors played an almost entirely offensive game, while the sophomores defended their goal with a dogged persistence that was almost impossible to overcome. "Eddie" Durno, referee, was kept busy counting the number of balls on the field to locate the proper pill, and he also had some trouble keeping eleven men on a side.

Because the time of the game was changed from Saturday afternoon to Friday the crowd was small, and the rooting section was practically nil. Class officials believe that another game will be played to settle the coveted championship.
