

Races, Games, Eats, Fun for Faculty Holiday High Jinks to be Track Meet

While students are buring the midnight oil, Saturday morning, for the stiff exams scheduled for next week, the pedagogues will have their big holiday high jinks in the men's gym. It's going to come off sure, blizzard or no blizzard, and note this, H. M. Fisher has promised that the old gym will be w-a-r-m! It's going to be a hum-ding party, says the faculty bulletin and if the entertainment program has anything to do with that prophecy—we're inclined to believe it.

A burlesque triangular track meet will be participated in by every member of the faculty, the teams being captained by none other than Dr. H. D. Sheldon, Prof. E. E. DeCou and Dr. W. P. Boynton.

According to Prof. W.F.G. Thacher rigorous training rules have been in effect for the last week and in addition to the alleged careful supervision by Bill Hayward, who will also act as referee, all of the professors are in excellent condition. Teams will be captained by Professors Sheldon, DeCou and Boynton, and all are confident of success. All members of the faculty will take part in the meet, following which there will be dancing and general making-merry; that is, provided none of the contestants are incapacitated through "rough play" or overabundance of fighting spirit in the various events.

A good old Virginia reel or two and some John Paul Jones for the younger and more frivolous of the facultate and something good to eat, hot chocolate and cake, if the storm keeps up are expected to add to the enjoyment.

Put a little spare change in your pocket before starting out, is the advice of the finance committee, as everyone will be assessed per capita—for even the simplest kind of a party costs something, you know.

"Don't dress up" is the final advice of the committee, nor is any kind of a special costume necessary, but they say soft slippers or shoes might be brought for the athletics. Even that doesn't matter, however. Just come at 7:30 sharp, is the request.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS UNABLE TO ARRIVE

that he was confident the students could do it. That sums means only an average of $20 per student, he explained. He added that one gift of $1,000 was already in sight. The success of the student body in the matter will enable the university to let the contract for finishing the building soon after the first of the year. The Women's building, when completed, will be the finest building on the campus.

Students should know, he declared, how well the state has stood behind the university. The bill providing for $100,000 for the women's building was all that could be appropriated under the 6 per cent limitation law and it passed in both houses without a dissenting vote.

Dean Straub pointed out to the student body and more particularly to the freshman class just what was expected of each individual. The main thing, he said, was to get started right away after reaching home. He expressed his confidence that the freshman class would prove itself the best as well as the largest ever in the school.

Mrs. Gerlinger Praised.

Dean Fox told of the enthusiasm of Mrs. Gerlinger for the cause, and the appreciation she had expressed at the move the student body was making. She also told of Mrs. Bishop's work in behalf of the building fund.

Announcements were made of mass meetings of all Portland students in Villard hall at 8 p. m. today, and of a similar meeting of all eastern Oregon students in the Y. M. hut at 8:30 to arrange plans for the campaign.

President Campbell announced that registration for the winter term would begin on Saturday morning.

"Coffin Nail" Contest Conducted. Students of the University of Pennsylvania are taking a straw vote on the favorite brands of cigarettes.

GAMMA PHI GIVES BOOKS

Sorority Adds Four Volumes to Homer Collection

A new contribution to the Homer collection of the library was made by the Gamma Phi Beta sorority Wednesday, in the selection of four books to be added to the fast growing collection. These books are:

"Oxford Book of English Verse," full morocco, thin paper edition, "Don Quixote," in two volumes, three-fourths, morocco silk sides, "Life and Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," an illustrated edition in two volumes, and "Palgrave's Golden Treasury of Songs and Lyrics," illustrated by Maxfield Parrish.

MORE NEWSPAPERS DESIRED AT LIBRARY

University Asks for Publications—Copies Wanted From All Over State

The university library hopes in the near future to increase the number of newspapers it now receives for the convenience of the increasing number of students desiring newspaper reading facilities. At present the library receives from 90 to 100 newspapers from different parts of Oregon, and the librarian has sent requests to most of the other newspapers of the state, asking them to put the university library on their complimentary lists. "American Gardens," a book received this week, edited by Guy Lowell, deals with gardens of America, particularly with those of Grecian design.

An introduction by the author explain the purpose of the book, that of giving a history of the art of gardening, with illustrations of the best examples of the garden art in America.

- Faculty Party Postponed.
- The faculty party scheduled for Friday evening will be given on Saturday evening instead, on account of the play on Friday.
- All other arrangements will remain the same and all the faculty are urged to attend.
