

LONE MAN STUDIES DESIGN SURROUNDED BY THROGS OF GIRLS

No Reason Why Men Shouldn't Plan Women's Gowns, Says Glenn McGonegal

Glenn S. McGonegal, a special student in the University, has the unique distinction of being the only man in both the costume design and the design classes. In each of these classes there are about 35 girls. "I like it. I like the attitude which the girls here hold toward me. The spirit here exceeds anything I have ever seen," he said. "I spent nearly all of one year at Harvard and the girls at Radcliffe, really they are fine, but they can't forget for one minute that they are descendants from the Mayflower. The girls here are not like that. They treat a fellow as if he were a human being and not a freak because he happens to like this sort of thing."

Two years ago he went to Paris and studied design and art there for a month, visiting the Louvre, the Ban Marche, and the Galerie de Lafayette, where he picked up many good ideas.

Last year he lived in New York, following another occupation but he spent most of his spare time in studying his trade. "I visited the art department of Columbia university often," McGonegal said. "Their textile department is wonderful. It is said to be one of the best in the country." While in New York, McGonegal was offered a position with the R. H. Hixon company, located on Fifth avenue and Fifty-third streets. This firm is one of the largest in the United States and employs nearly all men designers, he explained. As his parents lived in Woodburn, Oregon, however, he decided to come back, having been away from home for more than two years.

In the University, Mr. McGonegal is taking design, costume design, color theory, pen and pencil, unified mathematics and english. He is also studying music.

OREGON LOSES FAST GAME TO COUGARS

As usual Durno played a big role in the thrills.

When the whistle started the second half both teams came back with a lot of zipper. Neither side could score for some minutes. Washington was given two foul shots, but failed to convert either. Durno counted a foul called on McIvor. Score: Oregon 19, W. S. C. 13.

It was at this point of the game that Washington started the rally that won the game for them. Moss started the fireworks by shooting an excellent basket. Rocky repeated. Moss tallied again. W. S. C. worked fast, and their shooting improved. For the first time during the game the agriculturists had the long end of the score. Score 19-20.

Oregon fought hard for a basket, but could not find the hoop. Durno converted a foul, but a few seconds later the visitors again took the lead by converting a foul called on Durno.

Exerting every ounce of fight, Oregon battled to gain the lead. Durno converted a foul, and a few seconds later dropped the ball through the hoop, thus giving Oregon the lead. By clever passing Oregon took the ball down the floor and again Durno scored. Oregon, 25; W. S. C., 23.

From this time on the visitors had the ball most of the time, and Huntington's aggregation was straining every man to win. Durno's last shot from the middle of the floor nearly drove the crowd wild, but was of no avail for the final whistle sounded before the Eugene men could score again.

As in all the games in which he has played this year, Eddie Durno was the best man, and high pointer. Eddie garnered 19 of Oregon's 27 points. Moss and Rocky made an equal amount of the visitor's points. Moss looked like the Cougar's best bet. McIvor performed well at guard.
