

STUDENT EXCHANGE BETWEEN COUNTRIES AROUSES INTEREST

Fellowships to Be Given For European Universities, Says Dean Fox

Much interest is being taken in the exchange of students between the European countries and America, according to Dean Elizabeth Fox, who has received a number of pamphlets on this subject from French, English and Scotch universities. The association of collegiate alumnae in America is much interested in this also, according to Dean Fox.

Last November seven men and one woman sailed for France to study in universities there. Each had been granted a fellowship by the "Society of American Fellowships in French Universities," which are worth $1000 each and are renewable for the second year. To obtain such a fellowship a person must be 20 years of age and a graduate of a four-year college course or a three-year professional school; or be 24 years of age and have spent five years in an industrial establishment. These awards are made in history, education, mathematics, medicine, archeology, philosophy, geology, chemistry, psychology and sociology.

This society was founded three years ago to give the graduates of American universities the advantages in France that the Rhodes scholarships give in England, and will tend to give the countries a closer and more sympathetic understanding between them.

In England it is suggested that a committee be appointed by the universities to represent them, and cooperate with the American organizations of this nature. This committee would print a journal or year book, it was suggested, containing information on the different schools and on the exchange of students between them. Giving the students of different countries a chance to be educated in other than their own country will tend to promote a mutual understanding, and lead to permanent peace, is the opinion of the British. They also want it possible for the women to have the same chance for these scholarships and in the universities as the men. At present this is not so in England.

Joy, Oh Joy! Girls to Stage Dance Men to See How Popular They Are

Launching forth on an unchartered sea, the members of Women's League plan what they say will be the most important social event of the year, the Leap Year dance to be given probably some time this month. The fair sex will have everything their way. They will issue the invitations and escort the man of their choice to the scene of the festivity, which will be the armory.

Though the dance is to be informal there are whispers of taxis and flowers, to be furnished by the girls of course, and possibly a visit to the Rainbow afterwards. "We will show the boys how to give a real dance," say those in charge of the affair, "there will be the best of music, and a feature."

There will be no masculine forms adorning the entrance to the armory or around the walls, say the girls, because no man will be admitted unless he comes under the escort of a fair co-ed. There he will find his program all made out for him, and no sordid details throughout the evening will disturb him or detract from the enjoyment of the dance.

The proceeds of the affair will go to buy gold footballs for the varsity football team, and if a special date cannot be obtained it will take the place of one of the regular student body dances. Committees will be appointed by Louise Davis, president of Women's League, within a day or two to have charge of decorations, feature, and the details of the dance.

SENIORS TO TEACH CHILDREN DANCING

Eva Hansen and Ruth Susman Will Give Earning From Class to Women's Building Fund

A class in dancing for children from 8 to 12 years of age has been organized by Eva Hansen and Ruth Susman, two seniors in the physical education department. "The children will be taught dances selected for their grace and beauty and especially for their suitability to children of that age," said Miss Mabel Cummings, director of physical education for women. "The dances will not be the social dances nor folk dances, but on the order of esthetic and interpretative dancing. The number in the class will be limited so that the best kind of instruction can be given. There has been a demand among faculty parents and others for such a class as this, and these girls have taken this way of earning money to donate toward the Women's Building fund."

The class will begin this week and will meet on Wednesdays at 4 and Saturdays at 11 o'clock. There will be 16 lessons in the course and the charge will be $5.00, the proceeds to go toward the Women's Building fund.

POSITION IS OFFERED TO YOUNG DEMOCRAT

Party Leaders Seek University Man to Work in Connection With National Campaign

The Democratic National Committee has just written to the University asking for the name of a young democrat who could be entrusted with important work in connection with the coming campaign. The nature of the work was not given in detail but the letter suggested that the committee wishes a man who can interest others in policies which affect him and the government. The letter has been referred to the professors of political science, sociology and economics.

The letter which came from W. D. Jamieson, director of finance, suggested that the man wanted is the "sort of student who is interested in clean politics, who wants a high standard of civic leadership and who has lofty ideals in connection with the administration of public affairs."

Mr. Jamieson believes a young man should go into politics seriously, and wants men who are to be trained for leaders of the party, who will appreciate the possibility of unselfish service.
