

O.A.C. CHALLENGES OREGON MERMAIDS FOR SPRING MEET

Acceptance Hinges On Interest Among Girls, Says Instructor

A challenge has been received by Leota Rogers, manager of swimming for girls, from the department of physical education at the Oregon Agricultural College, for a swimming meet between the women of the University of Oregon and O. A. C., to be held here early in the spring term. "Whether this challenge will be accepted or not will depend on the number of girls that turn out for swimming from now on," said Miss Rogers.

The four people making the highest number of points in each class will be eligible for the final inter-class swimming meet. The captain of each class team will be the person making the greatest number of points in her class.

The events of the meets will be: plunge for distance, side, back, front and crawl strokes for form; four dives, one length for speed, and two lengths for speed in the races.

In order to encourage enthusiasm, Miss Rogers has appointed a representative in each house to stir up interest in swimming. Those appointed are: Gamma Phi Beta, Helen Nelson; Delta Gamma, Vivian Chandler; Delta Delta Delta, Florence Riddle; Alpha Delta, Leota Rogers; Sigma Delta Phi, Beatrice Hensley; Chi Omega, Margaret Smith; Kappa Alpha Theta, Valiere Coffey; Alpha Phi, Dorothy Reed; Kappa Kappa Gamma, Jeannette Moss; Pi Beta Phi, Helen Clark; Thacher annex, Maude Largent; Chambers annex, Mildred Van Nuys; Hendricks hall, unit one, Elizabeth Peterson; units two, Ollie Stollenberg; unit three, Frances Moore; Oregon Club, Nancy Fields.

COLLEGE SWIMMERS TO BE LIFE SAVERS

TEN MEN AND SIX GIRLS QUALIFY FOR MEMBERSHIP IN CAMPUS CORPS

A branch of the American Red Cross life saving corps has been organized at the University with ten men and six girls qualifying for membership. The men are Joe Hedges, Stuart Barager and Allan Carson, who bear the title of examiners, and Sard W. Weiss, James H. King, Glen R. Hyde, Austin Hazard, Frederick Howard, Albert Capp and Newton Langerman.

The six women named are Jeanette Moss, Dorothy Reed, Helen Nelson, Valiere Coffey, Marion Nicolai, and Emily Veazie. They will be known as the women's life saving corps of the University of Oregon, a separate organization from the men's.

In case of a mill race accident these people will be called on either for rescuing purposes, or to resuscitate the victim. Often times, Mr. Longfellow pointed out, a person having been under water for some time, dies after being brought to the surface merely because no one understands the proper method of reviving him.

Mr. Longfellow, in his lecture in Villard hall, explained his mission and told several reasons why the American Red Cross thought it necessary to organize life saving stations or chapters in all towns of any size.

"There are 25,000 deaths in the United States every year due to suffocation, 5,000 of these are cases of drowning," said Mr. Longfellow, "so you can realize the importance of a systematic study of life saving and resuscitation. Since the Red Cross has taken up the work the drownings have decreased on the average of 600 a year. Thirty-four lives were saved on the Florida beach last year by this work."

NEWSPAPER MEN TO OPEN CONFERENCE FEB. 20

Banquet Open to All

Friday afternoon a banquet will be held at the chamber of commerce, to which all students and faculty members of the University are invited. President P. L. Campbell will preside. B. F. Irvine, editor of the Oregon Journal and Edgar B. Piper of the Portland Oregonian are to be among the speakers. The program, however, has not yet been completely arranged. Robert Case will speak for the students in the University journalism school.

Saturday morning a conference will be held on the subject of good editing. Editorial and news policies and the relationship between the public and the paper will be discussed. The speakers list includes Elbert Bede, Cottage Grove Sentinel; Joe D. Thomison, Hood River Glacier; Colonel Clark Wood, editor of the West-on Leader and Athena Press; and George P. Cheney, of the Enterprise Record-Chieftain.

Saturday noon a banquet will be served at Hendricks hall for those attending the convention and members of the faculty and student body.

RENEWAL OF Threaded Rubber Insulation never needs to be given a thought. But that of ordinary insulation does, at least once before the battery is worn out. Threaded Rubber gives far better protection to plates and is the only kind that can be depended on to last as long as the battery. It can be had only in the Still Better Willard.
