

PHYSICAL EDUCATION MAJORS TO OBSERVE TYPES OF CITY WORK

Miss Cummings and 11 Girls to Spend Week-End at O.A.C.,
Portland and Salem

The juniors and seniors in the women's physical training department at the University of Oregon accompanied by Miss Mabel Louise Cummings, director of the department, will spend the week-end in Corvallis, Salem, and Portland for the purpose of studying the various types of classes in physical training found in these cities, according to Miss Cummings.

A full schedule has been arranged by Miss Cummings and all the time will be taken up in observing the different phases of gymnasium work. "This is purely a business trip," said Miss Cummings.

The greater part of Thursday was spent in Corvallis inspecting the physical training class at the Oregon Agricultural college. "If time permits," said Miss Cummings, "we will stop in Salem to look over the public schools there."

Robert Krohn, director of physical education in the public schools of Portland, has offered to conduct the girls on Friday to the various school gymnasiums where they will be enabled to see the methods of physical training used in the schools of a city. In the evening Y. W. C. A. gymnasium classes will be observed.

The Multnomah Athletic club will be visited Saturday morning and in the afternoon Miss Jewell Tozier, a graduate in the department of physical education with the class of '16, who is now in charge of the community work at Peninsula Park, will demonstrate methods used in a public play ground.

Those who are making the trip are Jeanette Moss, Mary McCornack, Era Godfrey, Ruth Susman, Helene Reed, Ruth Wolff, Ollie Stoltenberg, Naomi Robbins, Maud Largent Vivian Chandler, and Eva Hansen.
