

OREGON FIVE LOSES TO CALIFORNIA WHEN 2 FALL FLU VICTIMS

Calling of 23 Fouls Handicaps Men; 2 Ruled Off Floor For Personals

11 FREE THROWS SCORED

Durno Misses But 3—Southerners Convert Only 13 of 23 Attempts

With two members of the team sick and in no condition to play and handicapped by the incessant calling of fouls by the referee, the Varsity quintet lost to the University of California at Berkeley Saturday night, by a score of 33 to 19. Twenty-three fouls were called on the Oregon five in the game, against a total of 14 which were called on the California quintet. During the game both Bellar and Jacobberger were ruled off the floor by the referee on account of having four personal fouls chalked up against them. Jacobberger was allowed to continue the game, however, on account of there being no substitutes.

Chapman and Durno Ill

Both Chapman and Durno were ill on the southern trip, neither one playing in the second Stanford game and Chapman being too ill to get into the second California game, although he played in the first game against them. Bellar filled Chapman's place at guard in the Saturday night game but was ruled out for fouling and his place was filled by Durno at guard, "Skeet" Manerud playing in Durno's forward position.

Durno converted 11 out of 14 free throws, while Symes of the California five, converted 13 out of his 23 attempts. Eggleston of the Southerners was the high point getter in field goals in Saturday night's game, hooping six of them from the floor. For the Varsity, Latham, Lind, Bellar and Durno each hooped one. Symes with 3 and Green with 1 completed the scoring of the Californians.

Arrived Home Yesterday

The team arrived home from their southern trip yesterday morning with both Durno and Chapman still under the weather from the effects of their brush with the "flu" while on the journey.

The score:

California (33)	(19) Oregon
Eggleston (12) F	(13) Durno
Symes (19) F	(2) Lind
Anderson C	(2) Latham
Majors G	(2) Bellar
Green (2) G	Jacobberger
S	Manerud

LONDON TEACHER INVITED

Dr. Arthur P. Newton, From English College, May Speak Here

Dr. Arthur P. Newton, of the University of London, has been invited to address the University assembly here some time in April, according to Karl Onthank, executive secretary of the University. Dr. Newton is at present in California, where he will speak before the students at the University of Southern California. No word has been received from him as yet.

Dr. Newton is highly recommended by President Thomas F. Kane, of the University of North Dakota, where he has spoken. Samuel C. Lancaster, construction engineer of the Columbia Highway, who was to have spoken at the assembly on Thursday, was notified today of the ban on all public gatherings and the cancellation of the assembly. He will probably speak to the students some time next term, according to Mr. Onthank.

riety of material Oregon hopes to have a strong pitching staff. Carl Knudsen, Art Berg and Dick Shim are among the south-paws listed, and Francis Jacobberger, Mark Latham, "Eddie" Durno and Jacob Jacobson are among the right handers. Herin Lind, this year's captain, and letterman on the varsity nine for two years, Roy Veatch, who played on the first sack for the Eugene high school in '16, and George Black are among the bidders for the first bag.

There will be some keen competition for the infield positions. The infield will probably be picked from Jay Fox, Skeet Manerud, Rodney Smith, Carl Liebe, Bill Collins, Johnny Houston, Dinty Moore, Lindsay Campbell, Lee Summerville and possibly others who are keeping themselves in the dark until the season starts in earnest.

Veterans in Outfield

Three veterans are out for the outfield positions. Bill Steers, who is one of the hard hitters, Bill Reinhart, and Johnny Gamble, with Jim Say as general utility man, will make strong bids for the outposts.

Baseball in California has started and training is well under way, says Shy Huntington, who returned yesterday morning. California is planning on sending her college team east this summer as soon as school is out. According to some of the aspirants at O. A. C., the Aggies are talking of sending a team to China during the summer.

CALIFORNIA FOSSILS HERE

RICHARD NELSON, '19, MAKES COLLECTION IN OIL FIELDS

Specimens Sent Are Very Valuable, Says Dr. Packard—Few From That Particular Region

A collection of fossils from rocks outcropping in the Coalinga oil fields in the San Joaquin valley, California, has just been received by the geology department from Richard Nelson, '19, who is doing oil work for the Standard Oil company. Mr. Nelson assisted Dr. E. L. Packard in this work last fall, and when Dr. Packard resigned his position to return to the University this quarter, he was retained by the company and granted a liberal salary.

"The specimens which Mr. Nelson is donating represent the most characteristic and typical forms of the different geological periods in that field," said Dr. Packard. "They have been carefully labeled and have been named by Mr. Nelson, and will be used in paleontology work to acquaint the students with species which they will actually use in case they are ever called on to do oil work."

Specimens of oysters, clams, snails, sand dollars and others of similar character are among those collected. As the University has but few from that particular region, the collection sent by Mr. Nelson is very valuable, said Dr. Packard.

Richard Nelson will remain with the Standard Oil company the rest of this year, but next fall he intends to do graduate work at the University of California, in Berkeley.

LIBRARIAN ASKS EXCHANGE

Member of Chicago Staff Would Trade Positions With Oregon Woman

A letter recently received from Miss Cora McGettys, of the University of Chicago library, asks that an exchange between a member of the University of Chicago library staff and that of the Oregon college's staff be effected for the duration of the summer months. Miss McGettys, is reference librarian in charge of the Harper Reading Room of the Chicago college, and is apparently anxious to have arrangements made whereby one of this University's librarians may go to Chicago at the end of the spring term.

Mrs. M. F. McClain, of the University of Oregon library, attempted to make the same arrangements last year, but met with no success. It is doubtful now, according to M. H. Douglass, librarian, whether such arrangements can be made this year.

"The proposition would work to advantage both ways," said Mr. Douglass, "someone from our staff could go and learn their methods and get some ideas about library work in general."
