A SQUARE DEAL

With annual nominations for student body officers now but two weeks distant members of the student body should begin to think about the requirements of the different offices and to look about for the men and women on the campus who can best fill these positions.

The Emerald wishes to state now that it will play no part in the selecting of these officers other than the printing of the straight news about the officers and news of the campaign. The paper will play no favorites or no parties and the columns will be devoted towards a fair deal for everyone and equal justice for all.

The Emerald will, however, aim to keep a close watch that no injustices be committed. With its staff of writers who daily scour the campus for news it will keep a close watch to see that no political parties of combinations are formed for the purpose of boycotting certain candidates or for the monopolizing of offices. No mud-slinging or "dirty" politics will go unnoticed. Glaring publicity will be given to any such actions on the part of any person or persons and names will be printed without mercy. Needless to say, the Emerald feels that it is in a position to unearth any such moves if they are formed secretly.

In today's Emerald is a story giving the names of several men and women who may run for office. There are a number of other students on the campus who know now that they will enter the political race but they refused to let the Emerald print their name in connection with any office. They will announce their candidacy later.

The University of Birmingham, England, bestows degrees to those who graduate from the school of brewing. Some day American colleges may recognize the conscientious efforts of the soda-pop makers.

The sun-dial must have an unnecessary feeling this kind of weather.

Stanford Flunks 45 Students
Mortality records show that 45 students were dismissed from Stanford last term, 88 put on first failure, and 102 put on probation for poor scholarship.

Girls Go Without Breakfast
The department of physical education at the University of Kansas claims that almost all K. U. girls go to class without their breakfasts, and advocates a campaign against it for the health of the girls.

RANDOM INTERVIEWS

Emerald's Inquisitive Reporter Inquires to Know and is Told

The news editor sent out a reporter to ask a question of the first eight persons, students or faculty members, he met on the campus. The question for this issue was: "What do you think of the 'overall' movement as a means of reducing the high prices of clothes?"

And the answers:
GEORGE ROYER, '23.—I don't think it will do any good. They'll wear overalls, but they'll put silk shirts underneath them. This won't bother high prices.

EMMA STEPHENSON, '19.—It's a grand idea. I think the fad will last long enough to bring down the price of clothes. Anyway it will last long enough to bring up the price of overalls.

"SHORTY" PHILIPS, '20.—I'm for it! But I don't think it will spread to the campus, for we wear enough old clothes to beat the H. C. L. without resorting to denims.

BEATRICE McLEOD, '21.—A boycott may work in the case of potatoes or any perishable commodity, but with clothes, I have my doubts. One can't dress for dinner with overalls and stay human.

FRED PAYNE, '22.—It ought to go big. We'll soon be accustomed to it and everybody will be getting into line—I mean into overalls.

HELEN LOUGHARY, '21.—It seems the logical thing to do. I can't see any good reason why it shouldn't affect the price of clothes.

HERB SCHEIDT, '23.—It seems foolish to me. There are plenty of old clothes in the country, if they must be worn, without resorting to overalls.

KAY BAKER, '22.—Good idea. It ought to start something, at least.

WILLIAM TAPPENDEN, '23.—It's ridiculous. People are going to wear good clothes as long as good clothes are made. I think it's just a fad and won't last long enough to do any good.

CAUGHT ON THE CAMPUS

Bishop Sumner Hall Guest
Bishop Walter T. Sumner, of Portland, who spent last week on the campus, was a dinner guest at Hendricks hall on Saturday. After dinner the bishop entertained the girls with comical pianologues and by telling funny stories.

Law School Entertains Faculty
The faculty and students of the law school entertained the other faculty members of the University and invited guests at tea on Sunday afternoon. They received in the law library in Oregon hall.

Graduate Talks in Portland
A. P. Bowen, graduate assistant in the chemistry department, spoke in Portland last evening before the educational board of the Episcopal church there. Mr. Bowen was asked to represent the University students at the meeting, which dealt with the religious movement in the schools. He returned today.

Artisans Favor Bill
The Artisans lodge of Eugene at its meeting Monday night, went on record as favoring the Higher Education Tax Act.

BASEBALL TEAM TO TOUR NORTH

two big "Bills," will handle the outer garden position together with one of the utility pitchers or infielders who will work in the right field position. John Gamble has been working satisfactorily in this position but on account of the heavy expense of the trip it will be necessary to prune the squad down as small as possible.

"The team is in fair shape considering the lack of practice," Shy said today, "but it is only due to the fact that they are all experienced ball players. Otherwise we would be in poor shape for the opening of the season."

"Oregon Good," Says Nick
Nick Williams, manager of the Moose Jaw leaguers who played here last week, says he expects great things from Oregon in the conference this season. "Your infield is fast and you are certain of a good hitting club, which will mean a great deal this year, and you have a good staff of pitching material," he said.

Coach Allison of the University of Washington nine is cutting his squad down to get them into shape for the opening game against Oregon. Chamberlain, Leonard and Rode now make up the pitching staff of the * Sundoggers, while Maloney and Land will handle the receiving end of the battery. Chamberlain and Land are both letter men of last year and Maloney played a good game for the frosh team last season. In his infield Coach Allison is working Pigott, Williams, Torrance, Zamberlin, Nelson and Metlen. Williams and Metlen are both members of the last year freshman team for the Northerners and Metlen held a berth on the Varsity nine. For the outer garden, Prim, Foran and McCroskey are the men who will probably handle the positions. The latter is a letter man.

Pullman Squad Dark Horses
The Washington State squad has been keeping more or less in the dark this season and little is known of their strength. Coach Bohler has one of his last year's pitching staff in a suit this year, Byron Lewis, who played a good game for them last season and is expected to go even better this year. Rocky and Mueller, two fast infielders, are also back on the job this season, and with a good bunch of frosh from last year's nine, Coach Bohler is expected to put a pretty good nine on the diamond.

Idaho has not been heard from this season and little is known of their strength. For Whitman college, Coach Borleske is very optimistic, in spite of the rain which has hampered practice for the Missionaries. Garver and Knudsen are both showing up to the best advantage on the mound for Whitman. Knudsen is a brother of Carl Knudsen who is working on Huntington's staff for the Oregon nine. Groschupf and Luecht are working in the receiving job for Borleske. In the infield the Missionaries have but one letter man back; this is Wiley.

All Teams Improve
From all the conference training quarters come the reports of better teams this year and there is little doubt but that a faster and better class of baseball will be played in the conference this season than for several past seasons.

The lemon-yellow squad is working about 50 per cent better than last year and with a little more practice will put out a fast article of baseball for the fans.
