

SELF-GOVERNMENT IS FAVORED; FACULTY AND STUDENTS AGREE

Representative Members Intervened Express Approval With Qualifications

DEAN STRAUB AN ADVOCATE

Karl Onthank Says Student Council is First Step in New Order; All Statements Endorse

Prominent members of the student body and faculty, interviewed today, all favor student self-government, with reservations.

The prevailing opinion among members of the student council is that if the students are back of the plan, student government is the only thing to have.

Following is what some of them have to say about the matter:

Stanford Anderson, president: "I am very much in favor of student government if the whole student body is back of it, but it will never be successful unless all of the students want it. I think it should be seriously thought over before we attempt to put it into practice."

Adelaide Lake: "I think student government is the only thing. It would be the solution for many problems of student control and I believe that student government and the honor system should go hand in hand. Before either is adopted it should have hearty student support."

Don Newbury: "A plan of student government which will have the students' effective cooperation is worthy of consideration by the students and this plan should be evolved by the proper student representatives, that is, of the student council and the executive committee."

President Said to Favor It

Dorothy Duniway: "The University is rapidly approaching the time when student government will be the most effective way of handling the large student body. The students will take up their new task with a full sense of their responsibility. President Campbell is in favor of some form of student government and with his help a satisfactory plan should be in operation soon."

Harold White: "I think that it's high time we were beginning to consider it. However, I don't think the sentiment of the students will back it now."

Louise Davis: "I think that we should have student government. Following out the principle of democracy which the University in its final analysis is trying to inculcate in the individual, the policy of student government is most desirable and should receive the undivided support of the faculty and students."

Faculty Members for Plan

Following are some of the statements:

Dean Walter Morton: "I have been connected with one or two schools which have had student government and it worked out well in each case. I'd be willing to try it here and would expect that in a few years it would work smoothly. Some difficulties during the first few years are to be expected until the students become accustomed to managing their own affairs in a machine-like way. There would be few cases of discipline as the students come to realize their responsibility. Oregon is ready for such a change and I, for one, would welcome it."

Prof. Robert W. Prescott: "By the time boys and girls get to the age of University students it is time they began to have experience in self-government. My experience in working with students is that when responsibility is placed upon them they throw themselves into the work to be done with enthusiasm, and with judgment and restraint. One of the greatest arguments for University training is preparation for citizenship as citizenship consist not only in following but in leading and in being able to lead. A greater measure of self-government would be salutary in teaching the student not only

SENIOR PLAY PROMISES HIT FOR WEEK-END, SAYS COACH

"The Man On The Box" Well Under Way; Preppers to Get Rare Treat

Rehearsals for the senior play, "The Man on the Box," are well under way and the production promises to be on a par with the other big features that are being planned for Junior Week-End. All the members of the cast are working faithfully for the success of the play and some of the difficult character parts are developing into real masterpieces of acting, according to Bob Earl, coach.

Si Simola, who is cast for the difficult role of a Russian diplomat, has had a great deal of experience in previous campus productions and has always scored a success wherever he has appeared.

Helen Case, another member of the cast who has had a prominent part in dramatics on the campus, is expected to make a decided "hit" in her characterization of Nancy Warburton.

FROSH TO MEET ROOKS

Saturday is Set for Second Clash of Baseball Teams

The freshman baseball squad is working hard each night with the desire in view that when they meet the O. A. C. rooks next Saturday morning, May 8, in Corvallis the outcome of the contest will not be such a one-sided score in favor of the rooks as was the outcome of the game the freshmen lost to them here last Friday.

Manager McClain has two more games scheduled for the freshmen on the home grounds. They will play Columbia University here Wednesday, May 12 and Salem high school will be brought here on the morning of May 15 as a part of the Junior Week-end program.

OREGON LOSES FIRST OF TWO-GAME SERIES TO STANFORD TOSSERS

Rally Comes Too Late To Save Varsity From 11-7 Defeat

SECOND CLASH IS ON TODAY

Berg, Lemon-Yellow Southpaw, Fans Out 12; Cardinals' Fielding is Superior

Oregon dropped the first of a two game series to the Stanford University nine on Kincaid field Monday afternoon in a listless game, void of thrills, by a score of 11 to 7. The varsity showed the result of their long trip through the north and were hardly in condition to meet the Cardinals, and only in the latter part of the game did they come up to their regular brand of playing. Stanford had become safely entrenched behind an avalanche of runs by this time, however, and the rally came too late. The second game was scheduled for this afternoon.

"Art" Berg, the husky southpaw, was on the mound for the varsity and twirled good ball in spite of the listless support which he received at times. Berg had 12 strikeouts to his credit while Newlins of the Cardinals nine fanned but 4. Berg handed out free passage to 6, however, while Newlins did not walk a man. The Cardinals touched Berg up for 12 hits, while Oregon banged Newlins' offering for 13 safe ones although the varsity was unable to bunch their hits when hits counted.

Stanford Pitcher Clever Newlins, the big rangy pitcher of the Stanford aggregation, has some good dope on the ball and managed to keep the Oregon stick artists at his mercy for the first few innings, but they soon found him, and both Berg and Leslie garnered three-baggers off him.

Stanford took the lead in the initial frame when, with two down, Bundy accepted one of Berg's offerings, slamming it through second for one base. He stole second, went third on a passed ball, and scored when Ratner singled into the left garden. The visitors maintained their lead, annexing two more markers in the second frame.

Their final score came in the 7th inning, when Ratner hit a deep one to center, scoring Crow, who had singled.

The varsity scored first in the fourth inning. Following the fourth, when Stanford annexed five runs, the varsity whipped up a bit and chalked up two runs. In the sixth Berg scored after connecting with a three bagger. In the seventh, Oregon added three runs, ending Oregon's scoring.

Reason Archimedes Shouted "Eureka" Will Be Explained

Just what the three Mask and Buskin neophytes will say that Archimedes found when he cried "Eureka", is a matter of conjecture. The question will be discussed from the library steps, Thursday at 10 o'clock, by Fred Dodson, Lyle Bartholomew and Nelson English. The subject is an ancient one, but it will probably be greeted with just as ancient applause, unless the library janitor objects.

Fred Dodson is inclined to believe the old Greek was in the bath and made the famous saying when he discovered the lost soap which had fallen on the floor. Lyle Bartholomew, although a temperate young man, is defending the idea that the scientist had found a new brand of hair tonic. Nelson English is puzzled over the problem, and intends to wait and hear what the others have to offer. English is reported to have been seen back of the Fiji house "orating" with his mouth full of pebbles, after the fashion of Demosthenes.

All aspects of Greek tragedy will be treated as they have never been treated before when the Mask and Buskin neophytes entertain on the library steps Thursday.

5 NEW CANDIDATES ASPIRE TO OFFICE IN STUDENT BODY

29 People Now In Ring For Political Power; Some May Drop Out

NOMINATIONS THURSDAY

Gamble, Jacobberger, Huggins, Frater, and Watters to Run; Dark Horses Expected Thursday

(By the Deady Bug) Only five new candidates have been announced today as nominees for the student body offices, and with formal nominations to be held in student body meeting Thursday, it is expected that several dark horses will probably appear. The war horses also predict that several of the candidates who have consented to run, will drop out in the next few days because of the unusually large number of students out for some of the offices.

The new candidates announced today are John Gamble for senior man on the student council, Francis Jacobberger for athletic council, Charles ("Chuck") Huggins for junior man on the council, Tom Watters for sophomore man, and Wesley Frater for junior man on the executive committee.

Gamble is the fifth man in the race for senior man on the council. Three are to be elected. Gamble is treasurer of the junior class, a member of the Order of the "O", To-Ko-Lo and the military tribunal, and is a captain in the R. O. T. C. He has served on the Y. M. C. A. cabinet for two years and is retiring president of the association. He was one of the delegates to the DesMoines conference. He is a varsity baseball man. His competitors for the office are Leith Abbott, Don Davis, "Hank" Fister and George Hopkins.

Three Up for Junior Man

Huggins is the third man out for junior man on the council, opposing Wayne Akers and Ned Twining. Two are to be elected. Huggins is a member of the glee club, the music council, Torch and Shield and treasurer of the sophomore class.

Jacobberger is the only man mentioned so far definitely for member of the athletic council. He was a member of the frosh football, basketball and baseball teams during his freshman year. He is now a two year letter man of the varsity football and basketball teams and is a letter man of the varsity baseball team this spring. He has made three letters this year. Jacobberger is a member of Torch and Shield, Order of the "G" and the Architecture club and is also chairman of the aquatic committee for Junior Week-end.

Tom Watters is the only man definitely in the race for sophomore man on the council. He is a member of the freshman track team and of

Taught in School of Music; Has Studied Long in Europe; Plays From Masters

Because Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Frazer, pioneers of Eugene, happen to be celebrating their 44th wedding anniversary here this week, music lovers of the University and of the city have an opportunity to enjoy an unexpected musical treat. This treat is afforded by the appearance of Arthur Frazer, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Frazer, in piano recital in Villard hall Wednesday evening. The event is to be given under the auspices of the University of Oregon school of music, of which Mr. Frazer, now one of America's noted concert pianists, is a graduate and in which he taught for five years, ending fifteen years ago.
