

Sigma Nus and Owls Qualify as Firemen and Dish Jugglers

While the story of the fire at the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. L. York carried in Tuesday morning's paper was correct in most details, there were some the reporter failed to get. Members of Sigma Nu and the Owl club answered the call, Sprague Carter assuming command.

The fire originated in the attic of the house and an attempt was made to drown the fire by fighting it from the outside instead of from the inside, which caused a great amount of water to soak through the walls.

Every article of furniture was carried out by the University students and townfolk, the firemen being conspicuous by their absence. Carl Newbury bids for the leather medal by staying upstairs and passing out furniture. Jimmy Ross, diminutive member of the Owl club, claims the pearl-handled mop, as he rescued the family strong box. Art Tuck is said to have handled more dishes during the fire than a hasher, and according to late reports, none were broken.

Fortunately, several of the men picked up a heating stove, in which there was a healthy fire, and carried it to safety. During the fire enough hose was unrolled to stretch to Skinner's Butte, which mattered not, considering someone forgot to turn on the water.

BASEBALL GAME OFFICIALLY OPENS JUNIOR WEEK-END

The spirit of a good Junior Week-end was doubly strengthened today upon the appearance of the Oregon, a better, more appropriate edition never having been issued before. The book has a dark green, rich looking cover, carrying an appropriate design and including cuts which are remarkable for their clearness. According to Jack Benefiel, publicity manager for Junior Week-end, this is the best Oregon ever published, with the best cuts and material, and the editor, Helen Manning, has built a perpetual memorial to herself and her alma mater within its covers.

The feature section of the year book is sparkling with pep and full with keen wit and clever articles. The books are being distributed from the administration building and everyone is urged to go and get his Oregon as soon as possible. Three dollars is due on the book before they can be obtained and only a few extra copies besides those ordered have been printed so that any wishing extra copies should get them early. The editor states that no more will be published.

Football Trophies Here

Another surprise that will add to the enthusiasm of the week-end is the arrival of the gold football watch charms for the men who played in the Harvard-Oregon game and these will be given out along with the other trophies after the sixth dance at the Junior Prom. Through the efforts of the Women's league it was possible to get these watch charms for the football heroes with the money taken in at the Women's league leap year dance. All of the football men are back on the campus and will be present to accept his trophy with the exception of Hollis Huntington, and an endeavor is being made to get him here by that time a swell.

As complete a program as has ever been published has been gotten out for Junior week-end under the management of Ernest Crockatt and is being sold in the various houses on the campus. This program, according to the way Jack Benefiel put it, carries everything from the word go to the finish of the week-end. It is complete in every sense of the word, good looking and contains every entry in every event which is to take place during the entire week-end.

The first dress rehearsal for the senior play took place last night, proving to the satisfaction of all that the cast had been well chosen and would put on a finished production. The costumes and property arrived for the show Tuesday and everything is in readiness for a crowded house. Every member of the cast is well picked and doing his work efficiently and the play is bound to be a huge success, says Benefiel.

PROBATIONS ON DECREASE

Number Drops From 68 in Winter to 59 in Spring Term

Probations for failing to make the required nine hours of credit the preceding term have decreased from 68 during the winter term to 59 for the spring term, according to Registrar C. E. Spencer, while probations for excessive absences, which were just begun this term, is raising the number. These resulting from too many cuts already amount to 12 for this term.

Freshmen are the worst offenders in the matter of probations, according to figures on that subject, with sophomores a close second. For probation No. 1, or failure to make nine hours a term, 27 freshmen and 26 sophomores were on the list for the winter term, while only 10 juniors, 2 seniors, and 3 specials were included.

The student usually fulfills the requirements of probation, as only six have been dropped from the University for failure to do so by the committee for this purpose. The report of this committee also shows that 138 have been posted for excessive absences so far this term, and 13 posted for poor scholarship.

During the winter term 19 were put on probation for excessive absences.

Inquiring Student Gets Real Authentic Data on Candidate

"This editor of the Emerald job appears to be attracting a lot of attention."

It was Wednesday morning, just after elections had started. The student who made the above remark was sojourning at the Nicotine Club with "Bas" Williams and a long, skinny junior. "Who is this fellow Harry Smith that's after the job?" It was the inquiring student again. "I haven't voted yet, and I don't know whether Smith is the right man or not."

"Pretty good fellow," replied the long, skinny junior. "You'd better vote for him."

"Good man all right," said Bas, with an unseen wink at the long boy.

A few minute's argument between the inquiring student and the long, skinny junior convinced the former that Smith was the man for the job.

"But say, just what does this Smith guy look like? Who is he, anyway?"

It was the long, skinny junior who replied. "I happen to be Harry Smith," he said.

FOUR DELEGATES CHOSEN

OREGON WILL HAVE WOMEN AT SEATTLE CONFERENCE

Jeannette Moss, Ollie Stoltenberg, Margaret Russell and Catherine Winslow to Go

Plans for representatives to the Northwest Athletic conference, in Seattle, May 28-29, were discussed at a meeting of the Women's Athletic Association, Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Catharine Winslow will represent the faculty of the University. Jeannette Moss, senior; Ollie Stoltenberg, junior; and Margaret Russell, sophomore, were chosen to represent the students. At the conference, the membership basis and awarding of letters will be discussed.

Preparation for Field Day, to be held May 29, was made. Letters to the players in championship games in all the sports will be given on that day. Winners of the interclass basketball contests will be presented with a cup.

The swimming cup offered by Miss Mabel Cummings will be presented to the freshman class. Frances Moore, high point winner, will get a swimming suit.

The events which will take place and the prizes to be offered to the winners are:

- Canoe races between classes—a pair of paddles.
- Archery contest between classes—a bow.
- Tennis between classes—a racquet.

LOST—Beta Theta pin, on campus. Call 550.

DECORATOR IS COMING

MRS. GRACE R. WILMOT FROM NEW YORK TO SPEAK

Art in Home Will Be Discussed Before Women of Club and College

Mrs. Grace R. Wilmot, a consulting decorator of New York, will speak on Home Decoration Monday at 4 o'clock in Villard hall. Mrs. Wilmot is now engaged in lecture work on home decoration for the federal government, and comes at the expense of the States Relation service. She is speaking especially for the college women, club women and parent-teacher folk, and all Eugene women are invited to attend the meeting, said Miss Lillian Tingle, head of the household arts department, who has charge of the affair.

Mrs. Wilmot explains the application of art in the home in her talk. The keynote of interior decoration should consist of making a room a complete art entity, with not a discordant note, says Mrs. Wilmot, with all decorations in keeping with the central art idea. She is considered an authority on interior decoration, owns a shop at 111 Broadway, New York, and invented and perfected oatmeal paper, one of the popular wall coverings.
