

TEN VETERANS OF CHAMPION ELEVEN COMING NEXT FALL

Abundance of New Material to Help Shy Build New Title-Winners

At least ten members of Oregon's 1919 championship football team will be on hand next September to help Shy Huntington put the varsity again in the running for the Pacific Coast Conference honors, according to Bill Steers, captain-elect and all-coast quarter in 1919. In addition to the freshman team of last year, which can be looked to almost to a man to be fighting for places on the varsity, six or eight members of last season's second string will again be on hand to bid for recognition.

Of the 1919 backfield Hollis Huntington alone will not return. The place of the great line plunging fullback will be a hard one for Shy to fill. Hollis was a tireless worker and a strong man in the varsity interference. Frank Hill, George King, Duckie Holmes and Pete Meade of the freshman backfield may all have a chance to fight for this vacancy. Three veteran halves are still on the roster. Everett Brandenburg, Vince Jacobberger and Nish Chapman will all be back next year, and Captain Bill Steers can be counted on to round out two, full sets of halfbacks in case of need. Quarter will be equally well cared for. Last year Shy had two men of all star calibre in Bill Steers and Skeet Manerud, while Francis Jacobberger also showed to advantage in that position and as a punter. In field generals at least Shy will have little to worry about. The real question will be how any of them can be kept out of the game. Billy Reinhart is also a promising backfield prospect.

Vacancies on Line.

Among the line men at least three and possibly five vacancies will occur, according to the present outlook. Baz Williams, Ken Bartlett and Stan Anderson, all players on the line which withstood the mighty Harvard backs for an entire game without a change are lost to Oregon by graduation. Keith Leslie, another veteran of the Harvard game, and Al Harding, may not be back, although there is still hope that both will, as they do not graduate. This leaves Earl Leslie, Carl Mautz, Martin Howard and Prink Callison a formidable aggregation in themselves, to build a line upon. There will be one end position and a guard and a tackle berth vacant as well as room for several subs with a good chance to play. From last year's second squad Si Starr, Scotty Strachan, Ed Ward and Stuffer Dresser are all due back, and Art Berg may also be expected to bid high for a position. In addition Shy will have the pick of the freshman line, which included the Shields brothers, Mat Duffy, Rud Brown, McEntee, Bowman, Burns, Van Boskirk, Vonder Ahe and Fuller.

Lots of Material Available.

The whole lineup will combine weight, speed and fight with plenty of good men waiting to jump in if any one fails to hold down his place.

Fall practice will start about September 15, or as soon thereafter as possible for all the football men who can return to Eugene by that time, according to Captain Steers. The fall term opens on September 27, with the first conference game less than a month away, so as much early work as possible is desirable to get the team in condition.

TRACK DOPE LEAVES GOOD PROSPECTS FOR 1921

to him for some good results. If Roscoe Hemenway turns out, and is able to get into physical shape he ought to do the 100 in around 10 seconds.

Much of the success of this season has been due to the faithful and consistent work of Captain "Hank" Foster, who by many is considered the best track man Oregon has ever had. Leith Abbott, Ken Bartlett and "Skinny" Hargreaves have also been devoted and loyal to the track team. "Hank" Foster has been high point man in three out of four meets this year, and has made 52 1/2 points in contests this season for Oregon. For three years "Hank" has been training for Bill Hayward's teams, and in this time has made for himself a widespread fame. An ordinary athlete would have had the life sapped out of him, but because of his faithful training, Foster has delivered the goods.

Too Many Loafers in School.

The reason the 1920 season has not been even more successful is because there were men in school who had track ability that did not come out.

This fact was voiced by sport followers who are on the "inside track." A remarkable example of the disastrous results that may be caused by disobedient athletes, is found in the Northwest Conference meet at Walla Walla in 1914. Bill had Oregon figured out as the winner, because they had the best team. But because one man refused to obey Hayward's instructions in the 440, and then lost first in the next two races, Oregon lost the championship.

"Skeet" Manerud and "Hank" Foster are both quoted as being striking examples of the ability to receive coaching instructions.

It has been announced by Hayward that there will be no pigging on the track team next year during the season. The men will be obliged to follow strict training rules, and they must "shoot square" with the coach. If Bill can get the men out, he will develop good athletes out of them. The first western man to make the all-American team, "Dick" Smith, came out of the harvest fields to Oregon, and was developed by Bill Hayward. So with rosy prospects for the coming year, Bill Hayward only asks for the sincere support of the school to turn out a great Oregon team.

FIVE OREGON STARS TO TRY FOR OLYMPIC

FOSTER, COLLINS, RUNQUIST, BARTLETT AND TUCK TO COMPETE

Five track men from the University of Oregon are planning to enter the Pacific Coast Olympic tryouts which will be held at Pasadena about June 26. Hank Foster, captain and high-point man on the varsity this year, will compete as a sprinter and broad jumper. Ken Bartlett, who holds the coast conference record in the discus, will enter in that event, and Al Runquist, another member of this year's varsity, will try out in the weight events.

From the freshman team both Art Tuck and Collins are planning to make the trip. Tuck is expected to make a strong bid for the American team in the javelin and he also has shown great form in the discus and shot. If his knee is in shape he may be able to enter the sprints also. Collins is looked upon as one of the most promising quarter-milers of recent years and has shown great form in every race this year. This will be his main event at Pasadena.

The men will probably leave for the south about the 20th of June and will be accompanied by Bill Hayward.

TWO FOOTBALL GAMES AT EUGENE NEXT YEAR

says. The Stanford, O. A. C. and Southern California contracts call for a 50-50 split of gate receipts, while the two games scheduled for Eugene are completing old contracts which call for an expense guarantee. In arranging the conference schedules it was impossible to find an open date for a game with Washington State College, the manager stated. He considers this very unfortunate as our athletic relations with Pullman have always been very satisfactory.

The 1920 schedule as given out by Manager McClain follows:
October 23, Idaho at Eugene.
October 30 Stanford at Palo Alto.
November 13 University of Washington at Eugene.
November 20 O. A. C. at Corvallis.
November 25, University of Southern California at Los Angeles

Pre-Medics Asked to File Names

Every pre-Medic in the University who plans to enter the medical school at Portland next fall should file their names with Dr. John Bovard before the end of next week, he said, in order to get the list of entrants from here in early. Restricted registration at the medical school for next year makes it necessary to send this list in.
