

UNDERCLASS WOMEN SHOW IMPROVEMENT IN PHYSICAL TESTS

Juniors And Seniors Reported In Poorer Condition Than At First Of Year

Reports from the physical education department state that the spring physical tests for women are practically finished. Decided improvement has been noticed in the freshmen women, said Miss Mabel Cummings, head of the women's physical education department. It is a rule in the University that a complete physical examination be given all freshman and sophomore women upon their entrance to the University in the fall, and another such test to be given in the spring, so any change in the girl's condition can be noticed. Although the physical education department has as yet no definite data to prove the statement, it is thought that the recent tests show a decided improvement in the freshman girls, not quite such favorable results in the sophomores, and a decided poorer conditions among the junior and the senior girls. This is most probably due, said Miss Cummings, to the fact that freshman girls are more carefully guarded by rules, and that their hours are more regular, and their social functions and activities somewhat limited.

Physical tests are now conducted in all schools, universities and colleges that are at all prominent. It is the tendency in the country to cut down these tests to the simplest, and do away practically with the tape-measure tests and resort to the functional. The physical examinations given at the University of Oregon are among the most thorough and complete of any given in the country, said Miss Cummings. These tests at Oregon are conducted for three principal reasons, all designed as a benefit to the women students, and their present and future health. The first reason, Miss Cummings said, is to get a general physical inventory of a person, to find whether she is physically strong enough to take college work, and to determine if she is safe

New Rules Framed To Govern Campus Living Organizations

At a recent meeting of the Student Living committee, which is composed of faculty members who look after the interests of the different student organizations, the following new rules in regard to campus organizations were incorporated:

1. All fraternities and clubs must incorporate under the laws of the State of Oregon.
 2. The treasurer of each of the local groups must be under bonds sufficient to cover indebtedness.
- Note.—This shall also apply to those national organizations that do not have national supervision.
3. All new groups must carry insurance on their personal belongings and household equipment.
- Note.—This applies also to those national organizations that do not have national supervision.
4. New groups expecting to organize shall first obtain the consent to have around her fellow students, in not possessing any contagious diseases. The second reason is to determine the individual's weak points, so it will enable the department to develop and strengthen them, and third, to enable the department to place the girl in the sort of work that is suitable to her. The fourth reason is to gather data, by comparing the spring tests with those given in the fall, if any improvement has been made in the condition of the girls during the school year.

MISS SPALL TO BE DIRECTOR OF CAMP

Goes Soon to Y.W.C.A. Recreation Resort in Washington; Will Instruct in Athletics

Eleanor Spall, a sophomore in the University, will spend the summer at Camp Klahowya, on Lake Newman, Washington, as recreational director for the camp. The resort, which is held under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A., entertains 40 girls at a time, from the age of 16 up. The girls come for periods of two weeks.

Miss Spall will instruct in swimming, canoeing, hiking, tennis, baseball and other outdoor sports, and will have the general discipline under her management. There is to be a camp mother and a cook. Situated 28 miles from Spokane, Washington, Camp Klahowya provides a recreational place for girls from Spokane and nearby places. It is well established and has been going for several years.

Miss Spall has taken physical education in the University, and has been active in Y. W. C. A. work on the campus. She recently passed the Red Cross life-saving test, and is now a member of the Women's Life Saving Corps of the American Red Cross. She plans to leave the campus on June 12. The camp will be open from June 15 to September 1.

Osgood Visits Campus

Edwin Osgood, a student in the University of Oregon medical school in Portland, and assistant in organic chemistry, spent part of the week visiting friends on the campus. Osgood took two years of pre-medical work at McMinnville college, entering the medical school in the fall of 1918. His record in both institutions has been a commendable one and he has held a position near the top in all his classes.
