

EXTRA CLASSROOM CREDIT ISSUE RAISED

Faculty Committee to Take Up Question

A committee of five faculty members is to put in considerable time during Oct. in the investigation of an item that is of exceeding interest to several dozen students; the item of credit for certain semi-scholastic activities.

The issue was thrown into yesterday afternoon's faculty meeting through a petition from the University orchestra, which asked one hour of credit per term for "faithful attendance at rehearsals." Instead of the short and easy faculty meeting that was held, a long and hard one was in prospect over the whole matter of "outside credits" when a motion was made to have a committee directed to report at the November faculty session.

Student activities affected are orchestra, intercollegiate debate, intercollegiate oratory, inter-fraternity debate, glee club, and perhaps one or two others.

The question of "term vs. semester," which has been a faculty problem since the war days of 1918, is to come up at the November faculty meeting for permanent settlement. It came up last spring, but was deferred for one year.

Dr. W. P. Boynton, head of the department of physics, asked that the issue be settled before the winter term since a number of departments contemplated readjustments of their work and desire to know what the standing policy was to be as to length of terms. Dr. Boynton also desired the problem to be worked out before publication of next year's catalogue.

MORTON GOES EAST

Former Dean of Commerce Now in New York

D. W. Morton, dean of the school of commerce at the University of Oregon for five years, resigned his position during the summer and has left for New York City to begin work in September in educational lines with the J. C. Penney chain of drygoods stores.

Shortly after the close of college in the spring, Dean Morton left for the east to secure new instructors for the school of commerce at Oregon. While there he attended a convention of Alpha Kappa Psi, national commerce fraternity, and at this meeting he came in touch with a number of prospective instructors. During the same time, he was again offered a position by Mr. Penney, who three years ago endeavored to secure his help in establishing activities among the employes of his chain of stores. Dean Morton accepted the offer, and returned to Eugene to make preparations for his move to the east.

While in New York City, Dr. Morton is living at the Dormedean club, which is conducted by the alumni of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. The club house, which is located on Forty-eight street, was formerly the New York home of Madam Lillian Nordica, noted prima donna.

Mrs. Morton and two children are still in Eugene, but expect to leave in the near future to join Dr. Morton.

FACULTY WOMEN TEA

Mrs. E. C. Robbins Hostess To New Arrivals At Afternoon Affair.

To introduce the wives of the new members of the School of Commerce faculty and Miss Madeline McManus, instructor in that department, Mrs. E. C. Robbins, wife of the new dean of that school, was hostess for a tea at the Anchorage Thursday afternoon from 3 until 5. Invitations were issued to about 150 women.

In the receiving line with Mrs. Robbins were Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Mrs. Alfred L. Lomax, Mrs. Carlton Hogan, Mrs. Verne R. McDougale, Mrs. Franklin F. Polts, and Miss Madeline McManus. Assisting Mrs. Robbins about the room were Mrs. P. C. Adams, Mrs. J. F. Boward, Mrs. H. A. Clark, Mrs. B. W. DeBusk, Mrs. W. H. Douglass, Mrs. J. H. Gilbert, Mrs. L. H. Johnson, Mrs. D. W. Morton, Mrs. Karl Outhank, Mrs. H. D. Sheldon and Mrs. R. H. Wheeler.

ERIE LANE GETS COMMISSION

Capt. Erie Lane, Oregon graduate in 1914, has just received a chaplain's commission in the army and will report at Vancouver Barracks October 11. He will do educational work in the army. Mr. Lane has both a B. A. and a Master's degree from the University, and during the war he served in France as a chaplain.

PROFESSOR'S WIFE TO STUDY.

Mrs. Carlton H. Hogan, wife of the new professor of Economics, is to be a graduate student in the Psychology department. Mrs. Hogan is also to be a laboratory assistant in this department.

GYM MAJORS HAPPY; RAISE $1000 PLEDGE

Money Will Go To Women's Building Fund

The gym majors are jubilant. Yesterday they completed their pledge of $1000 to the Women's building fund and announce a balance of $17.35 left in the treasury. With but $64 to raise, they netted from a sale of second hand gymnasium middies, bloomers, and shoes, a total of some $87.00, which, literally, came "as easily as falling off a log."

At the close of college last year, the bloomers, middies and shoes left in the gymnasium were gathered up and sent to the cleaners. Returning from the cleaners in salable condition, they were eagerly purchased by the new girls at reduced prices. The figures given above are the net result, after the expense of cleaning had been met.

Lost Wearables Held.

Long and unceasingly last year did the gymnasium instructors warn the students to be sure their clothes were permanently marked, and the clothes which were sold were only those which did not bear the owners' name. The "pound" at the women's gym is still full of gymnasium clothes and which bear the owners' name. The rightful owners may call, identify their goods, pay $1.00 for storage and cleaning and remove their clothes within the next few days.

If not called for, they, too, will be sold and the proceeds used to swell the fund for gymnasium equipment, say heads of the athletic department. Other articles such as combs, dress skirts, sweaters, blouses, umbrellas and music rolls will also be disposed of unless called for promptly.

Varied Methods Used.

The major fund of $1000 to the women's building fund was pledged two years ago and has been raised by various methods. The girls have done massaging and have given private lessons in corrective and remedial gymnastics. Last spring two major girls conducted dancing classes for children and during the winter gymnasium classes for women were held in the evening. The proceeds from the annual gymnasium exhibition were turned over to the fund as well as proceeds from a basketball game. The fund is now raised and the major girls are rejoicing and admit that the work of raising it has been well worth while.

R. O. T. C. SHOWS GAIN

With an enrollment of more than 300 and prospects for a much larger number, the R. O. T. C. cadet corps Wednesday held its first drill of the year. When registration has been completed Major Raymond C. Baird, commandant, expects between 400 and 500 students will have enrolled in the cadet corps.

Four companies of 100 men each are being organized and will form two full war strength platoons. A fifth company will be formed if a sufficient number enroll, Major Baird said.

A new instructor, Sergeant Albert Epperson, has been added to the staff for the coming year. During the war Sergeant Epperson was a lieutenant with the Eleventh Cavalry.

Caps are being issued to the cadets instead of the campaign hats, as heretofore. The company rooms have been remodeled and new rifle racks installed.

Plans are now being made for a large military and concert band. The organization is to be a combined University and military band and both members of the R. O. T. C. and upper classmen are urged to apply for places. A band leader is wanted, and anyone capable of filling such a position is asked to make himself known at once.

This year, Major Baird thinks the University Unit R. O. T. C. will be selected as one of the country's "distinguished colleges." Last year Oregon missed making this high rating by a very narrow margin, he said, but was selected as one of the 25 to be inspected.

LETTERS UNCALLED FOR.

Students not living in organized groups on the campus whose mail comes in care of the University may find same in the cabinet in the basement of Johnson hall, the University mailing clerk announces. A number of letters he says, have been left there uncalled for during the past week.

UTAH HAS HONOR SYSTEM.

Utah has installed an honor system whereby instructors will not be in examination rooms during examinations. The president of the student body, Fons Thorum, will appoint members from each class to serve as a student body court and will have full power to act in any case which might come up in the student body. Attorneys for defense and prosecution are also possible.

STUDENT USHER STABBED.

A student at the University of California, ushering in a theatre, was stabbed for refusing to seat a negro.
