HAYWARD DESCRIBES BAD CONDITIONS MET BY U. S. OLYMPIANS

No Chance to Train on Boat; Quarters Cramped; Practice on Ship Impossible.

BELGIAN AUTHORITIES ALSO NEGLECT GUESTS

'Bill' Gives Facts on Oregon Performers, 'Ken' Bartlett and 'Art' Tuck.

The triumph of the American team in the Olympic games at Antwerp this summer was miraculous in the opinion of 'Bill' Hayward, veteran University of Oregon trainer, who was a member of the coaching staff of the Olympic team. Thirteen days were spent on the army transport Princess Matoika by the members of the team in making the trip from New York to Antwerp, but there were no training facilities on the boat and quarters were so cramped that it was almost impossible to do any training work. The games commenced a week after the American team landed and in that short time it was impossible to condition the men.

300 Make Trip.

Over 300 men and coaches made the trip to Belgium on the transport and the only equipment for training was a tank about 10 feet square and 5 feet deep which the members of the swimming team used. They were anchored in the tank and allowed to condition their muscle in the work. Wrestling, boxing and sprint men, as well as the jumpers were also able to get in some work. The distance men were the ones who met the obstacles, in attempting to get their workouts. Daily practice schedules were carried out on ship board as best as possible throughout the trip, but conditions were far from favorable for the practice according to Hayward. 'Bill' was also a member of the coaching staff to the game in Stockholm in 1912 and draws a line when it comes to comparing the conditions under which the 1912 team and this year's team were forced to work.

Breakfast on Sardines.

The trip over was only a part of the unfavorable conditions which the team was forced to work under. Upon arriving in Antwerp, the athletes were anxious to leave the boat at once but were forced to spend the first night in Antwerp harbor, on board ship, on account of the lack of housing facilities for the team. They were landed the next morning and were given a breakfast of sardines, cheese, hardback and coffee and were housed in a barracks which was formerly occupied by German officers during the occupation of Antwerp by the German forces during the war. The men were forced to sleep with some 30 or more in the rooms, which were of course quite large, but this was far from favorable for training reasons.

In their daily workouts after landing, the athletes were forced to use whatever ground was available, as no arrangements had been made by the Belgians to take

CONFERENCE HOURS SET BY PRESIDENT

Monday, 2 to 4, Set Apart for Students Who Have Not Reserved Other Hours.

For the convenience of students who desire personal interviews with President Campbell, two hours on Monday afternoon of each week from 2 to 4 o'clock, have been reserved. Appointments may be made for interviews with the President at any other time, but Monday afternoon is set aside for those who have not made such arrangements.

There are a great many students on the campus now whom President Campbell is especially anxious to meet and some who wish to get in personal touch with him, according to Karl Onthank, executive secretary. A large number of parents, some of whom were students under President Campbell when he was President of the Oregon Normal School and others who have a very high regard for him have written asking that he allow their sons and daughters a chance for personal conferences.

Basson Bunglers Invited to Grand Burst of Harmony

The first steps toward the organization of the University band this year have been taken with the result that the tryouts will be held in Villard hall at five o'clock this afternoon. Everyone who can play an instrument is wanted, but one of the band boys puts it this way:

"Hey there, all you ham-boners and slip-stickers, you peck horners and go-boonists, you mellaphonies and jazzers or the jingle jaws-harp, there will be a jazz jerk-out in Villard hall today at 5:00 p. m. All you who can toot a foot on a tooter, track out your tooter tonight and toot. We want a band.

"Buckets of jazz will be spilled on the football field tomorrow, so the gang must be ready. There will be a berth for every bungler of the bassoon, for every hand boy on the brass, so be on today, and remember, she starts on time."

TEN TRACK MEN OUT FOR FALL PRACTICE

Walkely, 'Speed' Peltier, Guy Keopp, Back,

Fall track practice for the University started yesterday. About ten candidates were out for the first session. It is planned this year to have all track contenders turn out during the entire winter at least three times a week. Oregon has always been handicapped in track by leaving her men in poor condition at the time of the spring season. During the good weather the men will all work out of doors, and when the rains begin they will change to the inside track. The weight men will work out all winter using the sheds.

A number of cross country men turned out to begin work for the meet to be held with O. A. C. at the time of the varsity football game. Among them were Glenn Walkley, winner of the meet with O. A. C. last year, Gaylor 'Speed' Peltier, and Guy Keopp. Both of these last two boys were members of the freshman squad of last year and showed up well in the distance and middle distance events. There are a number of other men who have signified their intention of coming out in a short time.

Henry 'Hank' Foster will assist Bill Hayward in handling the men this fall. 'Hank' was a member of the Oregon varsity track team for three years and was captain of the team twice.

WOMEN MINGLE AT TEA

First Get-Together Is Attended By Large Number.

Miss Elizabeth Fox, dean of women, entertained at afternoon tea at Hendricks hall, Saturday, from three to five, honoring the new students of the University. Those receiving with Miss Fox were Miss Gertrude Talbot, Mrs. P. L. Campbell, Dr. Bertha Stuart Dymont, Mrs. G. T. Gerlinger, Miss Vivian Chandler, and Miss Ollie Stoltenberg. Assisting about the reception room were Hendrick hall girls and one girl from each of the women's fraternities.

Miss Lilian Tingle and Miss Mary Watson presided over the tea and coffee service. Hendricks hall girls served.

Those calling during the afternoon were women of the faculty, wives of the faculty, men and women students of the University. Practically every woman student spent a few minutes at the delightful affair.

MORE STUDENTS ENROLL

Registration Now 100 Ahead of Same Time Last Year.

With practically 40 more students being added to the rolls of the University each day, the present registration figures are now 100 ahead of where they were at the same time last year, according to Mrs. George Fitch, of the registrar's office. The first week ended with a total of approximately 1550 students registering.

Those who are coming in at the present time, according to Mrs. Fitch, are the older students who were unable to return during the first few days of the term. She expects added registrants for the next few weeks.

VARSIITY ELEVEN MAY STAGE OPENING GAME HERE NEXT SATURDAY

Multnomah Wants Contest at Portland; Oregon Holds Out for Eugene.

HARD WORKOUTS FOR MEN ALL THIS WEEK

Mautz and Hoisington Battle For Position on First String Team.

One more letter man of the last season's eleven returned to school yesterday and turned out in a suit last night for the first time. This was Carl Mautz, who played a guard position on Huntington's aggregation last year. Mautz has been unable to get away sooner but has decided to stick the year out now that he has returned to school. Mautz was a bulwark in defense last year and is expected to be a strong addition to the line, although it is the line that is giving Coach Huntington the least amount of worry.

Another man who played a promising game in his freshman year on the campus, was Ernest Hoisington. He was a backfield man on the frosh eleven and was also captain of the team in 1915. He has returned to finish his college career and will be a contender for a backfield berth on the varsity this season. Both Mautz and Hoisington are going to make a hard race for a varsity position and competition for the first string eleven gets a little more keen each day.

Tentative Arrangements Made.

Tentative arrangements are on with the Multnomah club for a game to be played Saturday, but there appears to be a disagreement somewhere, and the dates have not been closed. Multnomah wants the game played in Portland while the Oregon athletic directors want the game played in Eugene as a preliminary to the opening of the season. It is possible that an agreement may be reached before the end of the week and a game played here yet. The game for October 16 has not been definitely arranged as yet, although the winged M team is out of the question for that date as they have a scheduled game with the Aggies in Corvallis on that day.

The Multnomah aggregation has a number of former Oregon men on the squad according to reports from Portland this fall. Among them are Stan Anderson, and 'Bob' Cosgriff who worked under Huntington last year. Fred Maddock who played on the Oregon varsity in 1917, is also out for a place.

Coach Not Talking Yet.

Coach Huntington is not giving out the information as to the line-up in the Saturday's game in case it can be arranged. He stated today that he would be able to give out some pretty definite dope on the squad this week. Heavy scrimmages were the order of events for Saturday afternoon and the team worked at full speed for a solid hour. Huntington and Spellman are both working the squad overtime in order to get a first string eleven into shape and hard workouts are scheduled for every day this week.

Trainer 'Bill' Hayward and his force of rubbers are beginning to have their hands full since scrimmaging began the middle of last week and a goodly number of 'charlie horses' and early season bruises are beginning to appear. No serious injuries have resulted yet however and it is hoped that the team will not go into the Idaho game on October 23 with a crippled line-up.

HALL MEETS PRINTERS.

Professor Robert C. Hall, of the University Press went to Portland yesterday to attend a meeting of the employing printers' association at the Chamber of Commerce. Dean E. C. Robbins, of the school of commerce, who is in Portland on other business, also planned to attend.

ALPHA DELTA PI MOVES.

Among the sororities and fraternities which have moved to new locations since the close of school last fall is the Alpha Delta Pi. The sorority house is now located at 1261 Alder. Last year the house was located at 715 Sixteenth avenue east.

THREE LIVES SAVED AS RESULT OF WORK BY OREGON STUDENT

Joe Hedges Gave Instruction in Rescue from Drowning in Thirty Towns

TRICKSTER UNABLE TO DECEIVE; FAKE FAILS

Man 'Going Down For Third Time' Had Lung Full of Air, Held Breath.

Field work in water first aid under the auspices of the northwestern division of the American Red Cross constituted the summer work of Joe Hedges, a senior in the law school of the University. Hedges traveled over the major portion of the states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and gave instruction in life saving and qualification tests for life savers in some 30 towns and cities.

The purpose of the work was to visit those points which had swimming facilities and to give instruction in life saving. Local life saving corps were established from those who were able to pass the tests. A local board of examiners was usually established so that the tests might be continued and thereby keep the local corps of life savers built up with new members.

Puget Sound First Visited.

The Puget Sound district was the first to be visited by Hedges. From there he went into eastern Washington, then northern Idaho, from there down to Lewiston, Pasco, Walla Walla, Pendleton, La Grande, and points in eastern Oregon and southern Idaho.

Several lives are known to have been saved as a result of the work. Shortly after Hedges gave the life saving tests at Lewiston, a drowning woman was rescued from the Snake river and resuscitated by one of those who had passed the test. Another rescue was made by a life saver who had passed the test two weeks before. He pulled two boys out of the Columbia up in eastern Washington. Hedges himself assisted in resuscitating a woman at American Falls.

Fake Fails to Lure.

At Walla Walla a fake drowning was staged for his benefit, said Hedges. The man in charge of the tank there asked him to watch the tank for a short time while he was absent. Soon after the man left Hedges was attracted by a splash and saw a man fully clothed, struggling in the middle of the tank. He pulled off his sweater and started for the tank but stopped in suspicion when he saw that the 'drowning' man took good care to draw a long breath and avoid swallowing any water before he went down 'for the third time.' Finding that he was not to be rescued the victim swam to the edge of the tank and crawled out in disgust.

Towns in the Willamette valley and beach resorts were on the original itinerary of the Red Cross but the cold weather in September made further work inadvisable.

OPEN HOUSE SUCCEEDS

Men and Women Meet At Campus Organizations Saturday.

Open house, the introductory social function of the college year past, University life will now start in earnest. Every year is started by this hand-shaking fest and through it congeniality and Oregon's hospitable democracy are in their best running form for the ensuing year.

Open house is held to give the men and women of the campus a chance to meet. This is accomplished by the organized men's groups to visit en masse the women's houses of the campus. Directly following rush week and pledging, open house serves also as a reception for pledges and their first appearance in the respective houses. 'Hello' forgotten or ignored on Hello Lane after this occasion is an unforgivable offense.

The committee for this year's open house consisted of Johnny Houston, chairman; Vivian Chandler and Remy Cox. Upon conference with Dean Elizabeth Fox, it was decided to divide the houses so that a group from each men's house would visit every girl's house on the campus. Different arrangements may be made before the winter term.

Baby Gator Dies; Delta Taus' Food Too Much for Him

Bevo, the baby alligator of the Delta Tau house, is dead, the victim of Eugene's first hunger strike. Bevo, who was three months old, was brought from the wilds of New Orleans by Freshman Gastrock.

Don Portwood, house manager, indignantly denies that the quality of the chow at the Delta place had anything to do with the early demise of the youthful reptile, although it is pointed out that Bevo refused the Portwoodian diet with unbroken consistency. Gastrock at several times resorted to forcible feed, but Bevo managed to do without the necessary food and passed away this morning.

There are some alligator experts in the University who say it is too cold in Oregon for 'gators.'

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS TO PRESENT COMEDY

Cast Selected; Irene Stewart Has Title Role.

'The Cassilis Engagement,' a four-act comedy by St. John Hankin, and the first production to be presented this year by the University Play Producing company, is to be put on November 4 and 5 at Guild hall.

One class in the public speaking department will produce a number of one act plays during the term, the best of which will be selected for production, before the public. Members of the play-producing class will have charge of them, not only in the filling of the cast, but also in costuming, and in arrangement of settings.

According to Mr. Reddie, head of the department, Oregon is very well prepared to put on these plays because of the superior equipment that is in the possession of the department. Few other colleges have anything that will compare with Guild hall, according to Professor Reddie, and people from other places are amazed at the amount of material the department has to work with.

The cast for the 'Cassilis Engagement' follows:

Mrs. Cassilis Irene Stewart
Geoffrey Cassilis George Sterns
Countess of Remenham, Dorothy Wootton
Major Warrington Claire Keeney
Lady Mabel Venning Marian Taylor
Mrs. Borridge Martha Rice
Ethel Borridge Marion Gilstrap
The Rev. Hildebrand Herries
..... Vern Fudge
Mrs. Herries Loeta Rogers
Watson Ervine Ludeman
Dorset Helen Madden

ARCHITECTURE CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Margaret Goodin Chosen New Secretary—Aims of Club Outlined By President.

Margaret Goodin was elected secretary of the Architecture club at its first regular meeting of the year Thursday afternoon at 3:30 in Architecture hall.

Lyle Bartholomew, who was elected president last June gave a short talk stating the aims and purposes of the club. He explained that the club was organized to work in co-operation with Dean Lawrence for the furtherance of interest and understanding of the architectural students in the various branches of architecture.

The school of architecture has established itself in the public eye as one of the leading schools in the country in its line and the students expect to keep up its reputation.

Guild meetings are to be held at regular intervals. These meetings are attended by the students of the school of architecture and the men who are working on the buildings now under construction on the campus. Various problems that come up from time to time as the work goes on are discussed.

'Jury Day' is to be a feature of the school again this year. Several architects from out of town, usually from Portland, visit the school of architecture and judge the work of the students. The visitors are entertained and the students get a fair and unprejudiced rating of their work.
