AN A. S. U. O. RULING.

When the students of the University elect a representative Student Council to arrange for such student activities as open house last Saturday night, it is up to the students to abide by the rulings made in regard to such affairs. Arrangements were made by the Student Council to have each men's organization on the campus divide themselves into two separate groups, each group to visit one-half of the women's residences holding open house that evening. This arrangement was made because it was felt that it would be impossible for the full number of men from each organization to visit all women's residences in one evening. Full announcement of the plan was made in the Emerald, and the division of women's houses announced twice.

In violation of this ruling, several men's organizations visited the women's residences in one body. The larger groups failed to visit all of the women's residences, and as a consequence some women's organizations were slighted. Such action on the part of the men is not conducive to good student government, and unless students can learn to abide by rulings set down by the officers whom they have elected, the Associated Students must confess their failure to accomplish anything in the University.

It is necessary to Oregon democracy that open house be held, in order that members of the student body may meet each other. If the Student Council had thought it advisable for each complete men's organization to visit all women's residences in one evening, they would have made such an arrangement, but it was found impossible to carry such a plan through.

Hereafter, when the Student Council makes a ruling in regard to an all-University affair, it is up to the students to obey that ruling, or a chaos resulting from a government with no authority will grow out of the present Associated Students of the University of Oregon.

THE UNIVERSITY BAND.

The University band is the biggest pep-box that the old Oregon fight ever had. There is nothing that can make a thrill of enthusiasm run through a crowd quicker than the striking up "Mighty Oregon." It is the soul of the grandstand.

For the past two years the band has been pretty much of a phantom affair. It seemed that there was no band, yet when the time for a rally or game came around a splendid organization was on hand, as if it were a spontaneous creation of the Oregon Spirit. And then it would disappear, leaving only the R. O. T. C. band as a reminder of the Student band that once was.

Tomorrow's rally suddenly brings the matter to the foreground. Today there is no band on the campus, tomorrow one must be in the bleachers. It is therefore necessary that every student on the campus who can play a wind instrument be out to the emergency call rehearsal tonight. There will be a place for everyone, they need the band as much as the band needs them. It is an early opportunity to start the year right by participating in student activities, by showing the old Oregon Spirit.

Some way or other there seems to be incorporated in the student a passionate desire to wreck as many of the seats in Villard hall as possible. If every gathering would leave as many skeletons by the road side as did the Y, mix the janitor would soon be hanging out the S. R. O. sign.

1920 GRADUATE IS HERE

Chandos B. Castle, Ex-service Man, Has Classes in Freshman English Composition.

Chandos B. Castle, graduate of the University with the class of 1920, is one of the new instructors in the department of English. In addition to teaching two sections of freshman English Mr. Castle is taking graduate work in the rhetoric department.

During the war Mr. Castle was in the naval aviation service on the Atlantic coast. He spent eight months at the naval air station at Pensacola, as radio operator and in the wireless telephone maintenance department. At Pensacola he held the rank of electrician, second class.

Last summer he worked as reporter and desk man on newspapers in Bakersfield and Merced, California. His parents reside in Merced.

Mr. Castle is a member of the University of California chapter of Kappa Alpha national fraternity. He is one of the founders and charter members of the Tabard Inn, local chapter of Sigma Upsilon, national literary fraternity.

GEOLOGISTS WILL MEET

Condon Club To Have New Interest for Scientists This Year.

This is to be an interesting year for the Condon Club on the campus, according to Claire Holdrege, president of the organization. Plans are being made to do original geological research work throughout the year. In their meetings they will review articles in the leading scientific magazines. They hope to make their work of interest to other scientists, as well as to geologists, and they will hold social meetings aside from the regular ones. The first meeting for this term will be held in the Administration building some time this week.

INFIRMARY TO EXPAND

Additions to be Made to Staff and Equipment.

The University health committee has planned for an enlargement of the infirmary staff and an increase in the instruments and facilities of the University infirmary in order that the health of the students may be better cared for during the ensuing year. Doctors Boward and Sawyer left for Portland yesterday and as part of their business there will see to the purchase of additional equipment including an X-ray machine and an operating table.

With the increased facilities in the infirmary nearly all athletics injuries may be cared for successfully, the X-ray being a great aid in the care of fractures. The removal of tonsils and other minor operations will become a part of the infirmary's work as soon as the new equipment can be installed. Formerly it has been necessary to send all such cases to the city doctors because of the lack of facilities at the infirmary.

The staff at the infirmary which is at present composed of Dr. Sawyer and two nurses, Miss May Sibbald and Mrs. M. Sinclair, is soon to be augmented by a follow-up nurse, who has not yet been chosen. The duties of the follow-up nurse will be the care of the cases that are reported to the infirmary for which no person appears, care of Eugene students who are confined to their homes after having reported to the infirmary and relief of the other two nurses. Such cases have prior to this year been taken care of by Dr. Sawyer and the addition of the new nurse to the staff will allow him more time at the infirmary. Part of this additional time will be taken up by increasing the clinic hours one hour per day. Formerly they were 10:00 a. m. to 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. They are to be increased a half hour both in the morning and in the afternoon and the new hours will be from 9:30 a. m. to 11:00 a. m. and from 1:30 p. m. to 4:00 p. m.

The physical examinations of the incoming class have been started and, according to Dr. Sawyer, will be completed in the next two weeks.

FRESHMAN WRITES FOR NATIONAL PERIODICALS

Nancy Wilson, Journalism Major, Successful Author; Stories Published in Delineator.

Nancy Wilson, freshman in Journalism from Olympia, Wash., is already a successful writer, her stories having been published in magazines of national circulation for the past two years. She takes her place unassumingly in Elementary News class twice a week.

Miss Wilson has written for such periodicals as the Delineator. Her strong forte is children's stories, which she contributes largely to the St. Nicholas Magazine. Besides her story writing she composes Christmas verses and other occasional greetings for post card publishers.

For the past summer she has been engaged in junior chautauqua work with the Ellison-White Chautauqua Company.

CORNELL-SYRACUSE RESUME

Athletic relations have been resumed between Syracuse and Cornell and it is certain that baseball games will be scheduled for next spring.

Are Your Eyes Weak?

Are you troubled with imperfect sight, letters blurred, or running into each other, skipping of words or letters in reading, seeing objects double, floating specks, aversion to light, confusion of objects which is relieved by the closing of the eyes, tired feeling in and behind the eyes, and the object looked at, holding the book or work further away than formerly in order to see distant objects as well as your friends see them?

If so, it is time your eyes need attention.
