

PLANT SPECIMENS SOON TO BE SHOWN

Kirk Whited Collection Given As Result of Dare.

QUARTERS ARE FILLED

Better Accomodations Need of Department.

The Kirk Whites collection of plant specimens, which arrived at the University some time ago, is now being unpacked by the botany department. In a short time these specimens will be shelved and may be examined by students. They are largely dry land or desert specimens, and are duplicated so that exchanges may be made with other universities and colleges.

This gift from Kirk White is the result of a sort of "dare." He was working on a mathematical problem, and announced that he would give the collection to any school or college that would prove him in error. Prof. R. M. Winger then of the Oregon mathematics department, proved the error, and won the collection for the University.

The botany department is much crowded and in need of more space to display specimens. Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey formerly of Cornell, who visited the Oregon herbarium last year, said that he was greatly surprised that Oregon kept her specimens in wooden cases. He said collections of this value deserved the protection of steel cases. C. V. Piper of the National Herbarium, Washington D. C., also visited the herbarium recently and expressed the same surprise at the absence of steel cases.

Collections Are Valuable.

Among the collections in the herbarium is the Howell collection which is considered one of the most valuable. This contains four thousand specimens, two hundred of which are the originals. Mr. Howell was one of the earliest collectors in the Oregon country.

Another group which is especially well mounted and preserved is the Cusick collection, largely eastern Oregon plants. Mr. Cusick, who made the collection, is now in the soldier's home in Roseburg.

The collection known as the school collection is made up of a number of smaller collections, those made by Prof. A. R. Sweetser and his staff, and others presented by friends of the University. It contains the general collection made by Leiburg and Henderson who were employed by the U. S. government to do this sort of work in the northwest. Mrs. A. M. Spangler, wife of the pastor of the Congregational church in Eugene, recently presented the University with her collection, largely plants from the New England states. The school collection also contains the Sheldon collection of five thousand specimens. This collector was made in Minnesota and Oregon, and was presented to the University by the Mazama club.

Specimens May Be Exchanged.

Besides these individual collections, the herbarium contains exchanges from other universities, among which is the exchange from Stanford of one thousand specimens from the Dudley collection. The University will probably exchange six or eight hundred more specimens with Stanford in the near future, said Miss Ethel I. Sanborn, who assists in this department.

Prof. Sweetser and his assistants welcome visitors to the herbarium on the top floor of Deady hall.

GRADE FRAUD AT CORNELL

One hundred six Cornell students have been found guilty of fraud in connection with their June examination, according to dispatches. Out of the 116 "tried" by a students' affair committee, nine were exonerated, and the degree of one man withheld until after September of this year.

This is the first time in the history of the institution that fraud had to be dealt with on such a large scale. According to charges it is stated that a certain number of students imparted the contents of the examinations to a large number of men students, mostly first year men, before the examinations were held.

Y. W. CABINET MEETS

Secretary of Association, Members of Eugene Board Present.

The first regular cabinet meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held last night at the home of Mrs. O. R. Gullion, 973 Hilyard street, at five o'clock, followed by a dinner. Besides Miss Tirza Dinsdale, secretary of the association and the Eugene members of the board were the following girls:

Marjorie Holaday, president; Vivian Chandler, vice president; Frances Habersham, secretary; Ruth Flegal, treasurer; Isla Gilbert, Eleanor Spall, Ruth Lane, Elsie Marsh, Beatrice Wetherbee, Ollie Stoltenberg, Leta Kiddle, Glyde Schuebel, Margaret Smith, Alice Thurston, Nancy Fields and Jannie Maguire. The cabinet will meet every Tuesday at five.

MRS. GERLINGER VISITS

Seeking to Provide Furnishings for New Women's Building.

Mrs. G. T. Gerlinger of Dallas, member of the state board of regents, was a visitor on the campus Saturday for the purpose of noting the progress of construction of the new University buildings. Mrs. Gerlinger gave special attention to the new Women's building. She commented approvingly on the fact of its near completion and stated that now her efforts would be to provide suitable interior furnishings that will insure an artistic and home-like atmosphere in keeping with the building.

FORMER STUDENT VISITS.

Mrs. Lowell Paget, formerly Beatrice Thurston, is visiting this week with friends in Eugene and at the University. Mrs. Paget was a member of the class of 1920 but left school in 1918. She is now traveling with her husband who is director of five of the circuits operated by Ellison-White Chautauqua company.

WATCHMAN FOR MINE WANTED.

F. J. Hard, who lives at the Osborn is looking for a man to act as watchman at his mines, 55 miles southeast of Eugene. According to Hard the work can be arranged so that the man can keep up with his studies and yet make some money. Oregon men have been employed in this capacity before at these mines and this should be an opportunity for some student.

Multnomah Coming for Game Saturday

St. Marie, who worked at tackle last season.

Coach Huntington will no doubt select a line-up from the following men and there will be a chance for nearly all of them to get into the game for a whirl; Durno, Rinchart and Jacobberger for quarter; Brandenburg, Blake, Latham, Dunsmore, Hill, Meade, King and Chapman for the remainder of the backfield, and Howard, Brown, Clerin, Strachan Ward, Holmes, "Spike" Leslie, "Briek" Leslie, Loughlin, Starr, Voder Ahe, Mautz, Robinson and Morfitt for the line positions.

A record crowd should be on hand to show the team that the students are behind them to a man this year. Although this is not a conference game the team can get some idea of the support they will get this year by the turnout to the Saturday's game.
