Portland Social Work Head Rated Able Speaker

Dr. Philip A. Parsons, director of the Portland school of social work and professor in the School of Sociology, will give the address at Assembly, Thursday morning of this week.

He is a graduate of Union Seminary and Columbia university, receiving his doctor's degree in 1909 from Columbia. He was also a student and fellow in the New York School of Philanthropy and the Bureau of Social Research, and since 1909 he has been head of the sociology department at Syracuse University. During this period his department grew from 75 to over 600 students.

Dr. Parsons founded and directed the university settlement, run in connection with the department of sociology of the university. He is regarded as an able speaker on economic, political and social topics, and has traveled extensively in Europe and the Orient to study social conditions.

FRENCH CLUB MEETS TONIGHT IN BUNGALOW

Session to Be Held in Y. W. Bungalow; Music and Short Talks Will Be on Program

The French club is to hold its first meeting of the year tonight at 7:30 in the Y. W. bungalow. All students who have one year of French are eligible to membership and are invited to attend. There is to be a program of music and short talks and after the program everyone will visit. All conversation is to be in French.

The club affords an opportunity for students interested in French to get together and learn French songs, hear talks on different subjects relative to the French people and literature, as well as giving them a chance to practice their French with impunity. Last year the members gave a play which was very successful. Those who were in the club last year are enthusiastic in their plans for the coming winter, as they received much benefit from it as well as the social good times that they had.

Membership is not invitational at present, and the club is planning to take in a number of new members. Anyone wishing to join should see the president, Raymond Burns. Later in the year membership may be elective.

SMOKER WILL BE HELD

Architecture Club Plans to Entertain Workers on Campus Buildings

All men employed in construction work on the campus at present are to be the guests of the Architecture club at a smoker in the near future, according to Lyle Bartholomew, president of that organization. Members of the club have been busy on plans for the affair since the opening of the university, and as soon as they are completed the men will be invited. No definite date has yet been set, although it is expected to be held next week.

class in the form of Danny Woods and the freshman class, represented by Paul McCollough. In the fight Sophomore was floored, whereupon Oregon Spirit came to his rescue and instilled so much pep into him that he sent Frosh down for the count. "Swede" Larson played the part of Oregon Spirit. Rol Gray refereed the bout and Wilbur Phillips and Rolf Skulason acted as seconds. This was the Sophomore stunt. The Frosh stunt failed to materialize so the 15 points went to the upper class.

Frosh President Paraded.

While a cordon of Senior cops held back the waves of Freshmen who would have rescued him, Claire Wallace, the newly-elected Frosh president, made his appearance on the field. Attired in an undershirt and riding in a garbage car pushed by members of the committee who captured him, he would have made a pleasant picture on a warmer day. However it was not warm. After much parading he was turned loose and allowed to take his place in the tug of war team. This is the first time in four years that the freshman president has been captured.

Cane Rush Some Fight.

The cane rush was a battle royal. Each team was composed of 50 men. The teams lined up on lines some distance apart. Halfway between the two lines two senior cops held a pole about eight feet long by the ends. When the gun was fired each line started and the meeting at the pole was little short of terrific. For the space of ten minutes many parts of the contestants were seen but it was seldom that a whole boy could be made out in the whole melee. After the cops had unraveled the tangle of contestants it was found that there was one more Freshman hand on the pole than there were Sophomores. This raised the freshman score to 22 and one-half points.

The 35 sophomores who defended the flag were entirely successful in holding off the 50 attackers who would have torn the flag from the top of the pole, and thereby added 35 points to their score.

The Frosh managed after much fighting to drag one more sandbag over the line than their opponents, in the closing event of the day. They admitted, though that they had to fight hard for their advantage.

The ones who awarded the decisions in the square mix were Bill Hayward, Shy Huntington, Bart Spellman, and George Bohler.

As the contestants left the field many torn clothes were to be seen and a few bloody noses, but the faces were smiling.
