CONCERT WILL MARK CRISIS, STATES DEAN

Oregon Lags in Musical Appreciation Is Charge.

The Theo Karle concert scheduled for Friday, October 29, marks the crisis in the music world of the University of Oregon, according to Dean John Stark Evans. "Heretofore concerts have been passed off as a mere social affair, to the usual lack of interest," he said. "If they have any value, it is in the efforts of the student body to give music lovers a better time." Every year the student body has more and more musical commitments than Oregon can handle. He admitted feeling disappointed when the manager of a concert which had been received enthusiastically in another college town, called Eugene a "road show town."

The success or failure of the concert Friday will determine whether or not the title still holds true. Dean Landsbury expressed for all in the music department the hope that this will not be the case.

Through John Stark Evans, who played his accompaniments at Camp Lewis during the war, Theo Karle has a personal interest in the University, and has arranged his program accordingly. Mr. Evans even has had Karle in Eugene in his encores and that the concert may include many more numbers than the program announces, provided they are wanted.

- Karle himself an artist and will give several solos. The program is as follows:
1. Recit. Deeper and Deeper Still .... Aria, Waft Her, Angels, to the Skies .....Handel

OREGON WARRIORS OFF FOR SOUTHLAND

Coach Powell, who has charge of the Stanford aggregation this season, came to the California school after a successful season with the Montana Aggies. His team lost to the University of Southern California two weeks ago, but this cannot be taken as a sign that the Cardinals are weak this year. Many an early season game has been lost by a little miscalculation or lack of proper condition and the Stanford eleven has had two weeks in which to wear off the rough edges which they displayed in the U. S. C. contest.
Betting odds are reported at 10 to 7 favoring Stanford in the South. Stanford is rated by critics to win the game.

Who will appear in concert in Eugene as the first number of the University School of Music Concert Series. Mr. Karle is without doubt one of the foremost concert tenors in the world today. Possessing a magnificent voice and faultless diction, he has no superiors and few equals in the concert field. Due to a very special arrangement the price of admission has been reduced from two dollars to one dollar, tax-free, which makes an exceptional opportunity for the Eugene public. A good patronage of this concert will insure low prices for subsequent numbers of the series.

BUDGET FOR A. S. U. O. FINANCES

At Student Council meeting last night a proposal that the A. S. U. O. adopt a budget system and arrange for a new plan of controlling student finances was introduced. A committee will be appointed soon to investigate the possibility of amending the constitution making a budget system for A. S. U. O. finances a necessity, and changing the vested power to spend the student body money from its present hand to a Board of Control which would oversee the expenditure of every cent of A. S. U. O. money.

In the days when the University of Oregon was a school with an enrollment of only a few hundred, when every one knew each other, the present financial control system in use by the student body worked very well, but it is the opinion of many that now the Associated Students have outgrown the old methods. At least, it can be said that the present system of having the executive council sign claims for money spent by the students through the graduate manager has proven ineffective. As a matter of fact the executive council, meeting but once a week, merely signs claims which pour into the office of the graduate manager daily, demanding quick action.

It is to be hoped that the committee appointed will evolve some plan whereby such financial affairs may be handled more expeditiously by the students.

That the student council delegated to the R. O. T. C. band the duty of providing music for games and rallies with good judgment, has been demonstrated by their performances. Aside from the music, it is fundamentally important that a band carries itself well. The R. O. T. C. band, drilled on the field and attired in the snappy cadet uniforms, has measured up to its job in a creditable manner.

BONFIRE PLANS FRAMED

Studios Frosh, 50 Strong, to Guard Pile from Visiting Delegations.

Freshmen will begin building the big bonfire on November 11, and will work Thursday night and through Friday in order to have the pyre ready for November 12, according to the decision of the class at its Tuesday meeting. The pile must be guarded from both O. A. C. and Washington as the game with the latter will be on November 13. A detail of 50 men with good grades will guard it.

A vigilance committee of 30 men was appointed to see that the 1924 students obey the University rules of wearing their green caps, keeping off the grass and so on.

Carlton Savage, the student body president, addressed the class, asking them to do their best by being present at all meetings, going to rallies and helping whenever asked.

DOCTORS FIGHT BILL AGAINST VACCINATION

Measure Is in Opposition to National Health Program, Says Dean Bovard.

Interest in the anti-vaccination bill to be brought before the voters at the coming election is being urged by Dr. John F. Bovard, dean of the new school of physical education, and Dr. E. H. Sawyer, of the University infirmary, who are cooperating with the Mercy hospital, of Eugene, in their organized campaign against the bill. This bill has to do with anti-vaccination anti-vivisection, and other means of preventing companies from compelling their employees to submit to physical examination. The bill is aimed particularly at smallpox.

States having no vaccination laws have the heaviest smallpox mortality, according to Dr. Bovard, while states which have made the practice compulsory have practically eliminated the disease. This particular bill, according to Dr. Sawyer, is in direct opposition to the great health program being carried on by the nation. The war has strengthened the value placed on vaccination as a preventive of disease, according to Dr. Sawyer, the strict policy of universal vaccination in the army practically eliminating the disease. Evidence of further faith of the allied governments in vaccination is being demonstrated by the fact that the greatest campaign ever conducted among civil population is at present being carried on in the Balkan states.
