One of the most crucial games in the Oregon football schedule will be played this afternoon at Palo Alto, where Coach Huntington's proteges will meet the Stanford University eleven. The Oregon squad of seventeen players left Wednesday evening for the South and arrived Friday morning at San Francisco, where they have been quartered at the Bellevue hotel. The team members were the guests of the Olympic Club in San Francisco last night and will leave for Palo Alto this morning. Yesterday afternoon Coach Huntington put the squad through a light signal practice on Ewing field, the Olympic Club gridiron in San Francisco.

Oregon is not in the pink of condition for the game today, but the same line-up which opened against Idaho last Saturday will in all probability be used by Huntington this afternoon to open the battle against the Cardinals.

No Player Disabled.

The extent of the injuries to the first string men from the Idaho game were such that it was thought that at least three of them would be unable to get into today's battle. "Bill" Hayward has been working overtime. However, in getting them back into first-class shape and the last thing he said before leaving Wednesday was that they were all in shape to be used if Coach Huntington wanted to use them.

The Oregon line-up, according to Coach "Shy" Huntington, will be: Ends, Howard and Brown; tackles, "Spike" Leslie and Shields; guards, Mautz and Ward; center, "Brick" Leslie; quarterback, Rine-

MOTION PICTURES ARE FOUND FASCINATING

Senior Decides to Be Scenario Writer After Summer's Experience in Hollywood.

Wilbur Hulin, of Eugene, a senior in the University, spent last summer in Hollywood, California, as a guest of Clyde Fillmore, an old Oregon graduate, who is now a Laskey star. Mr. Hulin played bits in several pictures, including a new Stroheim production, a Nazimova picture, a Cegile De Mille picture, and a film directed by William Desmond Taylor, the producer of "Huckleberry Finn." Mr. Hulin also played a minor part in the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," a Metro film which is expected to make the biggest hit of the year.

Mr. Hulin is interested in the picture game, particularly from the standpoint of scenario writing. He hopes to make this his profession after he is graduated from Oregon. His work last summer has given him something of an entree into the field, through his acquaintance with several scenario writers, including De Mille's and Clara Kimball Young's special scenario writers, and the scenario editor of the Laskey corporation.

MOOT COURT CORNICE HURTS BILL COLLECTOR

Imaginary Cement Causes Trouble; Verdict Will Be Given Next Week.

Are you liable to a bill collector for injuries sustained by him due to a piece of cornice falling on his head? This question will be argued before Chief Justice Johnson and Associate Justice Myers in the moot court on Tuesday, November 2.

Mr. Pritchard, a news vendor, went to the home of Mrs. Peto, defendant, to collect an account. While he was waiting on the steps a piece of projecting cornice fell upon his head.

The lower court decided in favor of the plaintiff and awarded damages accordingly. Its decision was based upon the grounds of "res ipsa loquitur."

Rosenberg, one of the counsel for Mrs. Peto, will contend that the doctrine of "res ipsa loquitur" does not apply in this case. On the other hand, Eben, attorney for Pritchard, says that the plaintiff is an invited guest so Mrs. Peto should have used due care under the circumstances.

FACULTY TO TAKE UP QUESTION OF RETURN TO SEMESTER PLAN

Committee Under Dr. Boynton Will Make a Complete Report Nov. 4.

12-WEEK PERIOD IS SHORT, SOME ASSERT

System Now in Use Conflicts With State High School Schedules.

Whether the University will continue its work on the term basis, or whether it will go back to the semester plan, is a matter which will be discussed and settled at a faculty meeting on Thursday, November 4, provided the committee, of which Dr. Boynton is chairman, is ready with its report on the situation.

According to Dr. Boynton, the fairly even balance of arguments for both systems makes it difficult to decide. The term plan, which was adopted in the fall of 1917, was recommended by the government as a war measure, and at this time seemed to be an experiment well worth trying. Each year the matter has been reconsidered, and at each time has been laid on the table for a subsequent meeting. At the faculty meeting on January 26, 1920, the final decision was postponed, and the committee was asked to have its report in shape by fall.

Expansion Era at Hand.

The urgency of reaching some conclusion in the matter has developed because of the rapid progress the University is making and the fact that a new era of expansion in some of the departments is at hand. Dr. Boynton, who is also chairman of the catalog committee, is anxious to have the catalog issued early this year, and in order to accomplish this, must know upon which basis the University work will continue.

One of the arguments for the term plan, Dr. Boynton says, is that it enables the students and teachers to finish up their work when the big interruptions in attendance occur. These interruptions are at the Christmas and Spring holidays.

The greatest disadvantage of this system is that the periods are so short, and necessitate so many examinations. In the 12-week terms the professors find it hard to take up the new work and then find time for reviews. There is also a noticeable conflict between the arrangement of high school and college courses, making it necessary for some students to enter the University in January, before graduating from high school, or else waiting until the spring term or even until fall.

California Swings Back.

Chicago and Stanford universities adopted the term system and because of their summer sessions, which are of substantially the same length as the other quarters, there is a large preponderance of arguments in favor of the quarterly plan, Dr. Boynton declares. The University of Washington decided to remain permanently on the term basis, while the University of California, after the war, went back to the semester basis.

Other members of the committee besides Dr. Boynton are: Dean Sheldon, Professor DeCon, Professor Gilbert, and Professor McAlister.

CREDIT FOR DEBATE ASKED BY STUDENTS

Bib Carl Appointed for Forensic Council to Confer With President Campbell and Dean Dymont.

In making plans for the doughnut debate league, Remy Cox called a meeting of the forensic council Thursday afternoon. It was decided that nothing definite be worked out until it is found whether credit will be given to students who engage in these debates. Bib Carl was appointed to confer with President Campbell and Dean Dymont, in the hope that such credit will be secured.

Considerable work is involved in preparing these debates and the council feels that contestants should be awarded for it. If it is not allowed, the matter of continuing the debates in the doughnut league will be referred to the student council.

FIREWORKS RALLY PLANNED TO GREET HOMECOMING GRADS

Bonfire, Noise and Stunts Will Enliven Evening Before Game With U. of W.

DANCE AT ARMORY TO END ANNUAL REUNION

Affair Will Not Be Formal; Students Requested Not to Make Programs.

If things go off as they are now planned the opening night of Homecoming week-end will make Eugene feel like Pompeii did during the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius. A rally such as we have never had before, spirited on with red fire, luminous fireworks and good old Oregon fight, is designed, according to Lyle Bartholomew, head of the rally committee, to keep early-to-bedders awake for hours, let alone the commotion the freshmen intend to stir up when they light their bonfire, which is to rival, both in height and grandeur, the largest one Oregon has ever witnessed. The well known fire of 1915 was fifty-five feet high.

The rally is all-important in getting the week-end started off right, stated John Houston last night at the meeting of the Homecoming committee, and if this event should be poor it will dampen the spirit of the entire week-end. According to Carlton Savage, president of the A. S. U. O., Dean Straub plans to buy $175 worth of fireworks for the occasion. The freshman class will give $50 towards this, as will also the student body, the rest of the money will come from the other classes. As yet it has not been definitely decided exactly where the bonfire is to be located, but it will probably be on Kincaid as before.

Snappy Program Promised.

Stunts by the various houses are being planned for the rally. The names will be handed in soon, and only the best is to be put on. The program is to be snappy, not to drag, and will be as original as is possible. Efforts to get Johnny Beckett, Don Orput and other well known "alums" back to talk at this time are being made.

Probably one of the best features of the program, which has never been pulled before, is the plan to get all of the Order of the "O" men back at this time to march around the football field before the game starts. Efforts are being made to get in touch with as many of these Oregonians as possible to get them to bring their football sweaters to wear at this event.

No War Tax on Dance.

The plans for the dance are almost completed, according to "Bib" Carl and arrangements have been made with the government so that there will be no war tax on the admission. The patrons and patronesses have been asked, and programs are being worked out. A nine-piece orchestra has been obtained for the occasion. "This dance is not to be a proposition where the students are showing the best of the University," said Carl, "but a good informal party, not rough neck, but a good time for the 'alums.' The students are urged not to make out their programs before going to the dance this year, as they did last, for many an alumnus could not get his program filled last year under these conditions. We must create a feeling of friendliness and see that the guests have their programs

VICTORY MEDALS AT UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE

Decorations Given to Ex-Service Men Who Present Copy of Discharge From Government

About fifty victory medals have been granted to Eugene men who were in the army, navy, or marine service during the war. Any man who turns in his discharge or a certified copy is given one of the medals at the University Book Store by H. R. Taylor, a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who commanded the 184th Air Squadron during his nine months service in France. The medals are given through the kindness of the veterans in a spirit of comradeship. They have charge of all such matters as allotments, back pay and difficulties in compensation and are closely associated with the American Legion.

One side of the medal bears the insignia of Justice, while the other bears the names of all the allied countries. The colors of the ribbon are the same as those on the medals of the allies. For each engagement or battle, a clasp is attached.

FIFTY-SIX R. O. T. C. OFFICERS NAMED

Examining Board Passes Upon Eighty Applicants.

Following a series of examinations extending over about a week 56 appointments of R. O. T. C. non-commissioned officers were made Thursday. About 80 applications were considered by the examining board. Only three juniors and two freshmen were appointed, the remainder being sophomores. The freshmen were granted the positions because of previous military experience.

The examining board consisted of cadet officers with the exception of First Sergeant Robert M. Martin, U. S. A., who acted as adviser. Cadet Major Arnold Koepke acted as president of the board. The members were Cadet Captains John Gamble, Jr., Byron O. Garrett, and William R. Allyn. The recorder for the board was Cadet Captain Emerald F. Sloane.

Need Is Felt.

The appointments are as follows: For Company "A"—First Sergeant, Wade H. Kerr, '23; Sergeants, Webster Ruble, Owen M. ## CHILDREN'S DEPT. ADDED

School of Music Adds Department Under Mrs. M. H. Douglass.

A special children's department under the supervision of Mrs. M. H. Douglass, has been added to the school of music.

Violin and violin training, as well as musical class work will be offered to the children of Eugene.

Miss Alberta Potter, student of Rex Underwood, and one of the most accomplished young violinists of the state, is giving instruction in violin, and will prepare students for work under Mr. Underwood.

Mrs. Douglas has charge of the piano work, and offers class work in the fundamentals of music for students of piano and violin. The course is strictly preparatory, fitting the students to take advanced work in the school of music when they enter the University.

FORUM IS ORGANIZED TO FOSTER INTEREST IN PUBLIC QUESTION

First Meeting in Villard Hall Monday Night to Take Up Election Measures.

STUDENTS, FACULTY, JOIN IN DISCUSSION

Wilbur Carl, Louise Davis, and Kenneth Armstrong Chosen Officers.

A University forum, to foster interest among the students in public and political questions has taken its place among the campus activities. At a meeting held last Thursday evening, attended by representative students and members of the faculty, definite plans were made for the formation of the forum as a permanent organization.

The first meeting will be held in Villard hall Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock when measures to be acted upon at the coming election will be discussed. Special speakers have been secured to present the various matters concerning the proposed legislation. Speakers are to be limited to ten minutes each, at the conclusion of which open discussion will be held during which time the speaker will answer questions of the students and faculty.

Goodrich to Speak.

B. F. Goodrich, of the First National Bank, will speak upon the single tax measure and the interest-fixing amendment. Dr. W. Kuykendall will present the case of the opposition to the anti-vaccination bill. The compulsory voting act and the acts to extend and divide the session of the legislature will be discussed by L. E. Bean, state senator of Lane county. John Bell will speak upon the Roosevelt Bird Refuge bill.

The forum officers, who were elected Thursday, are President, Wilbur Carl; Secretary, Louise Davis; Treasurer, Kenneth Armstrong.

The object of the organization of the forum, according to Louise Davis, was to fill the great need for some campus organization to sponsor a series of open meetings where members of the student body could ask and answer questions during discussions of various national and local issues in addition to problems of the student body.

The ten-minute limitation on speakers will be followed at all the forum gatherings, says the secretary, and the open discussion will follow thus giving every one an opportunity to express his views. Future meetings of the organization will limit the evening's discussion to one topic, but three questions are on the program for the meeting of Monday night owing to the near approach of the election and the great amount of interest manifested in the various state measures that appear on the ballot.

Discussion Non-Partisan.

The University forum will in no way become a political organization, according to those interested in the movement, but is planned to discuss freely all political questions regardless of party lines and endeavor to arouse campus interest in public question and lead the students to take more interest in present-day problems.

The faculty is acting with the students in the matter of organization and are lending their efforts to make the new forum a permanent institution on the campus, which they predict will prove of great interest and benefit to the entire student body.

ATTENTION, BAND MEN!

All members of the R. O. T. C. band are requested to report in front of the library Monday morning at 6:30 a. m., to participate in the rally to welcome the returning varsity football eleven. Major Raymond C. Baird has issued an order that all members of the band report at this time, in uniform and with instruments.

Kilpatrick, Old Emerald Man, Likes To Dig In the Ground

INTRODUCING EARL KILPATRICK, director of the University Extension Department.

"Truth is sometimes stranger than fiction," is the way Earl Kilpatrick looks at it, and that is the reason why he admitted that his greatest enthusiasm is gardening. He says he always hates to tell the truth about this because some day somebody might see his garden.

"I am a product of the Grande Ronde valley," says Mr. Kilpatrick. "I came to the University in 1906, and stayed here three years, doing a little studying during that time, and engaged in some student activities."

Mr. Kilpatrick was editor of the Emerald, which was then called the "Oregon Weekly." During the year that he was editor a great effort was made to put the paper out on a twice a week basis, and at the end of the year this was finally accomplished.

After his graduation Mr. Kilpatrick was principal of the first union high school in Oregon at Pleasant Hill. This school was the model for the several dozen country high schools which now flourish in the state. Following this he was successively principal of the schools in Oakland, Salem and Springfield. Finally he came to the University as assistant director in the extension division. The second year he was made director of the division, and then left the University on a leave of absence to do Red Cross work in Seattle. Here he was the division manager of the northwestern division of the Red Cross. In June, 1920, he returned to his work at the University.
