PROGRESS IN DRAMATICS

With "The Cassilis Engagement" opening the sixth season for Guild theatre, the campus again has an opportunity to witness a high class performance worthy of their attention. Since it is so close at home, it is hard for the Oregon student to realize that Oregon is better prepared to produce such an entertainment than any other school in the country. The investigation that Prof. A. E. Reddie has recently concluded of the various schools and colleges over the country showed that outside of the professional schools, the matter of dramatics is undertaken more seriously at Oregon than anywhere else.

Guild Theatre is undoubtedly the best equipped little theatre in college circles in America. Even the Greek theatre at Berkley does not entirely fill the needs of the ordinary drama. A comparison of Guild theatre with the professional little-theatre is favorable to the former, which is far better equipped with scenery, lights, dressing rooms, costumes, and other properties, and has a greater stage frontage, than the majority.

To Professor Reddie and his able staff is due much of the success of the dramatic department. His wide experience has enabled him to gather into the department a number of campus stars whose ability approaches that of the professional actor.

Tonight it will be possible to see them in the initial production of the season. Followers on the campus of the stage and drama will do well not to miss the opening night of what promises to be the best year in the history of Guild theatre.

ROOTERS' CAPS

One of the most striking features of a big football game are the rooters' stands, the yells and wild cheering of the supporters of the opposing elevens, and the masses of colors displayed by the supporters of each team in their respective sections. The game itself would lose much of its appeal to outsiders were it not for the other features introduced by the opposing bodies.

Oregon has one football game yet to be played at home, the biggest game of the season by far, the annual Homecoming game, when the Oregon varsity meets the University of Washington eleven. Oregon will at that time be hosts to thousands of visitors, friends and alumni of the University, for whom it must make the best possible showing.

Oregon's "Thundering Thousand" must be a howling, cheering, well-organized unit—it must also be a mass of lemon-yellow and emerald-green color. Loyal Oregon women always do their part to make Oregon's section live with color, and it is up to the men to do theirs. All that is asked of each man is that he wear a green and yellow rooters' cap. It is true that very few men in the University own these caps now, but they must have them before the Washington game.

Football enthusiasts who have witnessed football games on other campuses this season know the effect of college colors in rooting sections. Oregon men must realize that the limited size of its rooting section makes it necessary for every individual to do his utmost to make the best showing possible. Let's make it a real game with a real "Thundering Thousand."

"WHY DOES SHE SMILE?" CLASS GAMES DELAYED

In yesterday's Emerald there appeared, under the heading, "The Campus Cynic," a sole-stirring story entitled, "Why does she smile at me?" The hearty throbs of the aspiring young author have been rudely shaken by the following epistle, penned late yesterday:

To the author of "Why Does She Smile at me?"

Take a tip from me, old men. Just because a pretty girl smiles at you, don't think you've made a hit. Maybe she thinks your face is funny.

H. E. B.

The class basketball games scheduled for yesterday will be played this afternoon at 4:15 in the main gymnasium. The postponement was made by Coach George M. Bohler so that every body could attend the rally on Kincaid field. Monday will see the start of the interfraternity schedule with four games to be played: Bachelorland vs. Kappa Sigma, Beta vs. Omicron, Sigma Nu vs. Phi Delta, and Sigma Chi vs. Delta Tau. The list of doughnut contests scheduled for that day.

HISTORIC NOVELS ADDED TO LIBRARY

Professor Dunn Gives Collection of 436 Volumes to University.

A collection of 436 volumes of historical novels made by Professor F. S. Dunn, professor of Latin, has been recently added to the library. This collection includes books dealing with pre-historic times up to the Norman conquest.

According to Professor Dunn one of the best books in the collection is "The Oak" by Elizabeth Miller. "I think that this book ranks above 'Ben Hur'," said Professor Dunn. "The Last Athenian" a book which tells of the struggle of paganism after the advance of Christianity and "Deborah" are two other of the best books in the collection.

Professor Dunn has always been interested in the collecting of historical novels and he began the work when he was a student and continued it later to help his own children to whom he read many of the novels. Many of the books are suitable for the juvenile department. "Historical novels have always fascinated me and I made the collection of them my hobby," said Professor Dunn. "A few of the books are inaccurate as to dates, spelling and translation and their only value lies in the fact that it is interesting work for the students to correct them," said Professor Dunn. He will use many of the books in his class work.

Professor Dunn has written several articles on the historic novels. "The historic novel in the class room" was printed in the Classical Journal in 1911 and he has another article "The continued tale of the historic novel," which he read before the National Education Association in Portland and which he expects to have ready for publication soon.

FLOWERS ARE ORDERED

Chrysanthemums for Homecoming May Be Secured Through Y. W. C. A.

At a meeting of the Boosters Club of the Y. W. C. A. in the bungalow Wednesday night, the buying and distribution of chrysanthemums for Homecoming was discussed.

Elsie Marsh, acting as chairman in the absence of Nancy Fields, urged that all orders for the flowers be in by Thursday night, November 4. These orders may be placed through the different organizations or at the Y. W. C. A. The price is 50 cents each.

It is planned this year to deliver flowers directly to the girls. This may be accomplished if the men sending them will leave the name and address of the girl, with his personal card, at the bungalow before Friday night, November 12.

Chrysanthemums for decorative purposes will also be delivered to the various houses before noon on Saturday, November 13.

FELLOWSHIP AWARDS PROVIDE MEMORIALS

Names of Field Service Dead to be Perpetuated

In order to provide an enduring memorial for the 127 field service men who gave their lives in the world war and in order to perpetuate among future generations of American and French youth a fraternal spirit, an organization has been established, known as the American Field Service Fellowships in French Universities, according to Karl Onthank, secretary to President Campbell.

According to the literature received by Secretary Onthank the organization proposes to award fellowships for advanced study in France to students selected from American institutions of learning, and occasional fellowships for French students in American Universities. The fellowships will be named after the men of the American Field Service who died in France. It is probable that one fellowship will be granted for every man of the 127 heroes.

The applicants for fellowships must be citizens of the United States, between 20 and 30 years of age. They must be graduates of a college requiring four years study for a degree or graduates of a professional school requiring three years of study for a degree. If the applicant is unable to fulfill either of these requirements he must have spent at least five years in an industrial plant in work requiring technical skill and must be 24 years of age. Good moral character, intellectual ability and the ability to use French books is also required.

Dr. I. L. Kandel, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York City is the secretary in charge of the work and University students who are interested may apply directly to him or obtain blanks from the President's office, according to Secretary Onthank.

Y. W. C. A. RECOGNITION SERVICE TO BE HELD

229 University Girls Will Be Formally Pledged to Membership at Bungalow Today.

The annual Y. W. C. A. recognition service will be held today when 229 University girls will be formally pledged to membership. Marjorie Holaday, president of the association, will have charge of the meeting and will read the pledge service to the new members.

This is the first opportunity this year for the girls to be taken formally into active membership. According to Tirza Dinsdale the campaign for new members is not yet completed and it is expected that many more will signify their desire to enter the organization. These girls will have a chance to be formally pledged later in the year.

The girls who join the Y. W. C. A. this year will continue to be members throughout their entire college course. Heretofore they have had to renew their pledges each year. This is the first recognition service since this new plan has gone into effect.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB MEETS FOR FIRST TIME

Majors in Household Arts Are Eligible. Frances Moore Is Elected President.

The Home Economics Club, which met for the first time on Tuesday afternoon, elected officers and planned its organization. The following officers were elected: Frances Moore, president; Edna Bushman, vice president; Gladys Anderson, treasurer; Chloe Thompson, secretary. Miss Lillian Tingle of the Home Economics department was chosen as honorary member and adviser.

The Home Economics Club aims to co-operate with other women's clubs on the campus and work for the advancement of all activities relating to the science of home economics. All majors in the department are eligible for membership, according to Chloe Thompson, secretary of the club. The next meeting will be held in Miss Tingle's office in Mary Spiller hall on Tuesday afternoon, November 1, at five o'clock. Dues are twenty-five cents a term.

Committees appointed at Tuesday's meeting were: Membership committee, Ruth Langstrom and Marion Tuttle; Publicity committee, Chloe Thompson, Edna Bushman, Gladys Anderson.

GROUPS TO STUDY BIBLE

Y. W. C. A. Committee Will Guide Six Weeks' Course Next Term.

Arrangements are being made by the Y. W. C. A. to start Bible discussion groups among the girls on the campus to begin after the first week of the winter term and to continue for six weeks.

Modern religious problems will be discussed under the guidance of trained leaders in religious matters. These meetings are open to all of the girls on the campus who will be divided into different groups through the various organizations.

The committee in charge are, Miss Mary Perkins, Miss Tirza Dinsdale and Eleanor Spall. This committee held a meeting last Tuesday with representatives from each house to discuss the plans. Choices were made by the different organizations for leaders of these groups which will be announced later.

According to Eleanor Spall, the girls expressed a great deal of enthusiasm over the prospective discussions.

SENIOR WOMEN WEAR BOWS.

The senior women at California will wear little green bows distinguishing supplements to the senior Stetsons for the men, this Friday and anyone of their class will be greeted with a "hello" anywhere on the campus.

BOOKS FOR LAW SCHOOL

Shelf Space Congested; Volumes in Dean Hale's Office.

Several new books have been added to the law library lately. On account of the congested shelf space, it has become necessary to put these books temporarily in Dean Hale's office.

According to law librarian Wells, the following are some of the text books which have been received by him: Law of Oil and Gas, by Thornton; Lindley on Mines; Delvin on Real Estate; Newell on Slander and Libel; Tiffany on Real Property, 3 volumes; Taylor on Due Process; Michie on Homicide; Modern Law of Partnership by Rowley; Winslow's Form on Pleading and Practice, three volumes; High on Injunctions; Tennessee Codes; Ohio Federal Code; Statutes of Kansas.
