LEMON PUNCH STAFF SELECTION IS MADE

Work in Earnest Is Begun On Humor Publication.

Partial staff appointments for the Lemon Punch, University humorous publication, were made today at a short meeting held in the Journalism annex and work has begun in earnest in securing material for the first issue of the publication. Those appointed were: Art Editor, Frank Short; Assistant Art Editor, Wilbur Hulin; Art Starr, K. Digerness, Kenneth Cooper; Editorial Staff, Allan Carneross, Erwin Ludeman, John Dierdorff. Warren Kays was previously appointed Assistant Business Manager and Doc Braddock, Managing Editor.

"The staff is only partially made up" Stan Eisman said. "Those chosen have had previous experience on humorous publications or have manifested ability along this line in the past but there is still plenty of room for others upon the staff and more appointments will be made as ability is shown or talent is discovered on the campus." He urged all students who were interested along this line to hand in samples of their work as soon as possible.

Two humorous publications from other universities, the "Froth" and "Lyre" have been put on reserve in the library and those interested can obtain them at any time by calling at the desk. By reviewing these magazines those who contemplate writing articles for the Lemon Punch can get an idea of the type of humor desired.

Special boxes to be used for receiving contributions for the Lemon Punch are being made and will be stationed soon, one on the campus and the other in the Journalism annex.

Students are urged to contribute any humorous articles, poems, or jokes that may occur to them from time to time as it is necessary that there be a large amount of material on hand with which to work if the publication is to be made a success.

HOMECOMING DANCE CLIMAX OF OREGON'S GREETING TO ALUMNI

Everything to be Informal, In Get-Together Atmosphere, Says Chairman Carl.

TEN KINGS OF JAZZ WILL SUPPLY MUSIC

Visitors First, Selves Next, Idea Committee Wishes To Get Across.

This year's Homecoming dance which will be held at the Armory Saturday evening, November 13, is expected to prove the climax to one of the best displays of welcome and fellowship to the alumni ever held on the campus, according to "Bib" Carl, chairman of the affair. Practically all arrangements have now been made, he continues, and with the remaining days of the week in which to apply the finishing touches, everything should be in proverbial "apple-pie" order next Saturday night.

"Our Homecoming dance is not a merely student body dance," Carl says. "It is a part of the Homecoming program and constitutes the grand climax of Oregon's spirit of welcome and fellowship to our alumni. In order to carry out this spirit, we must exchange dances with the old timers and absolutely refuse to trade them among ourselves until we arrive at the Armory. The thing we are trying to 'put over' is our appreciation of the visitors' presence, not mere selfish enjoyment, and it must be them we think of first."

All Expected to Help.

"Everything is to be as informal as possible," he continued. "We expect to have a regular 'get acquainted' sort of a party, and those who do not dance are expected to do their bit in helping carry the spirit of the week-end out by social intercourse with the old grads who are sitting in the balcony. There are many among them who have passed the dancing age, and they, too, must be shown the same spirit of welcome and good fellowship."

For the comfort of those attending, Carl says, arrangements are being made to eliminate the crowded conditions in the cloak rooms that have marred former affairs held at the Armory.

Tickets for the affair, which starts promptly at 8 o'clock P. M., may be secured from the Y. M. C. A. hut and the Co-op store. The charge will be one dollar per couple, with no war tax. Alumni tickets, he says, may be obtained free from Don Davis or at the Co-op store.

Jazz Kings Will Reign.

"Ten of the best jazz kings in the University will sit in the orchestra pit Saturday night," he continued. "And will pour from their instruments, during the entire 12 dances, as classy a brand of music as we have ever listened to. It sure will be worth listening to!"

Those aiding and assisting in the handling of the dance are as follows:

Programs and features—Beatrice Crewdson, chairman; Marjorie Holiday, Dorothy Eakin; Music, cloak rooms, patrons corner, etc.—Carl Newbury, chairman; Art Kunhausen, Aubrey Furry, Bob Sheppard, H. Beeman; Patrons and patronesses—Helen Nelson, Helen Carson, Dorothy Manville; Decorations—Claire Holdridge, chairman. The decoration committee has been split into three divisions for ease of handling, the first of which is: Those securing decorations; Bill Purdy, chairman; Bob Kelly, Remy Cox, Don McPhearson, Frank Carter; those putting up decorations; Rollin Woodruff, chairman; Wayne Laird, Wanda Nelson, Cecil Smith, Mildred Apperson and Bill Coleman, and floor committee; Marc Latham, chairman; Nelson English, and Richard Sundeleaf.

CLOTHES STANDARDIZATION.

The household arts department at the University of California is planning a suggested wardrobe for college women entering the university.

NEW HEAD GEAR AT CALIFORNIA.

California has adopted a new flash head gear and an order for 5,900 has been placed with the manufacturers.

OREGON TEAM WILL BE ON FIGHTING EDGE FOR SUNDODGERS

Elevens Are Evenly Matched According to Available Dope and Records.

INJURED MEN RECOVER IN TWO WEEKS' REST

Scrimmage Practice First of Week Followed by Light Signal Workouts.

A. S. U. O. Tickets must be exchanged for student passes for the Oregon-Washington game. Make exchange at Co-op any time before noon, Wednesday, Nov. 10.

Oregon's fighting football team should be in the best of physical shape and ready for the fray Saturday unless the unforeseen should happen this week. First string men who have been injured previously during the season took advantage of the fact that Oregon did not play Saturday and there will be no injuries to complain of in the line-up which will face the Sundodgers.

The University of Washington played practically a tie game against Stanford eleven, and barring "Dink" Templeton, the Cardinals could not have scored.

The Sundodgers also held O.A.C. in a like manner and in the last two games that the Northerners have lost all the scoring has been done by the aerial route.

Teams Evenly Matched.

According to all the available dope, which is pretty badly upset since Saturday, the game here this week will be between two very evenly matched teams. Washington has been defeated but not by scores that would show the Northerners to be weaker than the other coast teams, to any great extent. Oregon has only had one real test in which Stanford emerged victorious by a 10 to 0 score. The score in this game hardly told the story of the actual playing done, and if the dope holds Oregon is about on the same par with Washington.

The Sundodgers are coming to Eugene full of fight and pep, determined to defeat the lemon-yellow eleven. Oregon is going to trot onto Hayward field Saturday in the best trim that the team has been in this season. The coaching staff has been busy the last week in working out the best combinations for the game with the Northerners, there is not expected to be very many new faces in the Saturday line-up, although there may be some. Coach "Shy" Huntington is not as yet giving out any information on this subject. It is known that he has been developing the drive into his field and making a smooth working machine out of them and whatever combination faces the Washington veterans Saturday, fight will always be there.

Washington More Experienced.

Washington has the advantage in experienced men, but this is not expected to gain them anything. All told, Coach Huntington has one letter man in his backfield this season and four in his line positions; this means that there has been a world of difficulties to face in selecting the green men for the positions.

Scrimmage practice will probably be continued this week until about Wednesday evening when the rest of the week will be devoted to light signal workouts and final conditioning for the big struggle. The entire squad has been put through a pretty stiff program of scrimmage the past week including scrub scrimmage and mixes with the Frosh eleven. The Frosh cannot be expected to furnish the opposition this week on account of their big annual game with the O. A. C. rooks which will take place Thursday afternoon.

CLUBS FIGHT COMBINATION.

Controversy rages at the University of Washington over the amalgamation of the two oldest honorary societies on the campus. The Oval Club, the oldest honorary society on the campus, refused to combine with the Quad Club, following a stormy session.

FREEZING FROSH KEEP WATCH OVER BONFIRE

Guardians of Homecoming Pyre Pass Long Cold Night Playing and Talking.

Armed with overcoats, blankets, "hot dogs," cookies, and plenty of Oregon Spirit, eleven freshmen reported for bonfire guard duty on Kincaid field Saturday night.

The first part of the evening was spent in cards (Methodist five hundred) and story telling. Along toward midnight a series of impromptu debates began on such important subjects as capital punishment and the racial question. "Texas" Higgenbotham taking an aggressive part in each discussion.

Here the writer of this article fell asleep, and when he awoke the discussion had turned to edibles of the mollusk family, such as oysters, clams, and snails. Higgenbotham was describing a denizen of Texas which he calls the "goey-duck." This, he claimed, is considered a great delicacy by the natives of the Lone Star State.

At the close of this lively discussion some of the boys endeavored to snatch "forty winks," but the temperature of the atmosphere was not conducive to slumber, and the remainder of the night was spent trying to keep warm.

At 6 o'clock a lottery system determined who should have the privilege of retiring to downy beds, the two unlucky ones remaining on guard until 8 o'clock, when they were relieved by the day shift.

Shifts of two men each were on duty all day Sunday, and about ten frosh took the field Sunday night.

VELMA ROSS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Student Falls From Truck and Is Run Over.

Velma Ross, of Marshfield, suffered a sprained knee and ankle and severe cuts and bruises when she was run over by a trailer drawn by a truck at the corner of Fifteenth and Hilyard Saturday afternoon. She was taken to the hospital, but later removed to the James Pearson home on Mill street, when it had been determined that her injuries were not serious.

Miss Ross was a member of a picnic party which left the Pi Beta Phi house at 4:30 Saturday afternoon. At Fifteenth and Hilyard the end-gate of the truck broke, and Miss Ross who was leaning against it, fell to the street. The trailer, in which about 20 persons were riding, passed over her right leg and just missed passing completely over her body.

Miss Ross is a pledge of Pi Beta Phi.

ALL SECURITIES SOLD FOR MUSIC BUILDING

The entire $75,000 worth of securities to build the new music building have been sold in the first week's campaign, according to Dean H. Walker, chairman of the committee for selling the bonds.

Mr. Walker, who was on the campus Monday and made his report to the president's office, says that about $65,000 of the securities were taken by business men in Eugene, and about $10,000 by students and members of the University faculty. The fact that the banks took a large part of the business men's share make it possible for friends of the institution, who have not already subscribed, to do so as the banks are willing to recall the bonds at any time.

DEADY PORTRAIT HUNG

Gift to University Replaces Old Faded Picture of Noted Regent.

A new portrait of Judge Matthew P. Deady has been hung in Villard hall. It is a duplicate of the photograph that had hung there for so many years that it was much faded. The new distinct one is the gift of W. J. Morrison of Portland, son-in-law of the late Judge C. B. Bellinger, who was a friend of Judge Deady and his successor in the office of U. S. district judge.

Judge Deady was first president of the board of regents of the University of Oregon, elected in 1873, and served with great ability until his death in 1893.

ORDER OF THE 'O' MEN PARADE WILL BE BIG EVENT FRIDAY NIGHT

Many Alumni Promise to Return and Help Celebrate Week-end Festivities.

ROOTERS' CAPS TO BE IN STYLE ON CAMPUS

Students to Escort Visitors on Tour of Inspection of New Buildings.

Beginning today the members of the freshman class will be permitted to wear rooter's caps until Saturday evening, according to an order issued by the president of the Associated Students, Carlton Savage, and Johnny Houston, chairman of the Homecoming committee. The various organizations on the campus are urged to co-operate with Savage and Houston to see that the order is carried out. The step was taken as a pre-rally move for the Homecoming game at which a rooter's cap will be part of the admission for the men.

Every student in the University must have a ticket to the game, according to Graduate Manager McClain. The student body ticket will not admit a student to the field, but they are urged to take their student body tickets to the Co-op as soon as possible and get their tickets. This includes also tickets for the rooter's section and Johnny Houston asks that every Oregon man get in the rooter's section for the game, to which a rooter's cap and a ticket will be the admission.

"O" Men Called Back.

One of the main attractions of the Homecoming features will be the parade of the order of the "O" men. Letters have been sent to former students and graduates who have won letters on the athletic field at Oregon, urging them to return for the event at Homecoming. Many of the houses have already received letters from former order of the "O" men and many of them have signified their intentions of coming back for the parade and the game. The "O" men are to meet in the gymnasium before the varsity men go on the field Saturday, and every "O" man is asked to be present.

Students will be expected to wear a little yellow tag during the Homecoming festivities to distinguish them from the alumni, former students and friends of the University who will be on the campus over the week-end. The tags for the students will be handed out in front of the library.

To Show Buildings Saturday.

Johnny Houston is making a special plea that as many of the students as possible be on the campus Saturday morning, which has been set aside for the visiting alumni to inspect the campus and the new buildings. The students are asked to do what they can to make the visitors feel at home while here and to do anything in their power to see that they are guided about the campus and shown what is going on in the way of new buildings and improvements.

The last Homecoming committee meeting will be held tonight at 9:00 o'clock in Professor Howe's room in Villard hall and Johnny Houston expects that every committee be present.

The people throughout the state have been notified concerning Homecoming through the advertising committee and through the publicity committee. 2000 old Oregons and 1700 Winnagens have been sent out through the alumni secretary to the alumni, former students and friends of the University, telling them about plans for the one big event of the year.

Slides Sent to Theaters.

Slides have been sent to every moving picture theater in the state and posters advertising the football game with Washington have been sent broadcast all over the state through the alumni secretary. Fraternities and societies have been writing to their alumni asking them back for Homecoming and according to conservative estimates over 2000 former grads and students are coming back for the week-end.

Gladys Platt Puzzles Over Game; Washington and Oregon Both Liked

INTRODUCING GLADYS PLATT, assistant in the cataloging department of the University library.

If there is one thing on earth that Gladys Platt dislikes more than any other, she says, it is writing on a typewriter. She explained that this is probably largely due to the fact that she uses the hunt-and-peck system.

Miss Platt graduated last year from the University of Washington, where she took a three year course in library work. She has lived most of her life in Idaho Falls, which is in the southeastern part of Idaho, and she went to Washington because a chum of her's was taking a course there and was eager to have Miss Platt with her.

The coming Washington-Oregon game presents a great problem to Miss Platt. She likes Oregon so well that she doesn't feel like cheering for Washington, and on the other hand, she can't cheer for Oregon. Therefore, the only thing for her to do seems to be to keep still, and she thinks this will be hard to do.

Miss Platt came to Eugene about the middle of last July, and with her she brought her younger sister, who is attending the Eugene high school. They are making their home in town, and like it very much.

The particular thing which Gladys Platt talks about most just now is her brother Dwight Platt, who is coming to see her almost any time. He has recently been married, and due to the excitement of this great event he completely forgot to mention what train he would arrive on in the telegram that told of his coming. And just because she didn't want to leave O. A. C. out, Miss Platt said that her brother is a graduate of that school.
