Nine colleges and universities on the Pacific coast were represented at this meeting, which was presided over by A. Wendell Brackett, of the University of Washington Daily.

Honoring the visiting representatives attending the conference the Oregon Daily Emerald was host at a banquet given last night at the Osburn Hotel.

Informal discussion of college newspaper problems and traits individual to the institutions represented were indulged in those attending. "The Field of College Journalism" was the topic chosen by Dean Colin V. Dymont, of the University, who told of the journalism prevalent in colleges and universities a decade or so ago, and of the improvement that is now noticeable.

Editors Speak at Dinner.

Other speakers included H. R. Blochman, editor of the "Daily Californian," who was introduced by Dean Eric W. Allen, toastmaster, as "From the Largest University in Berkeley;" Paul N. ## CAMPUS RELIGIOUS INTERESTS DISCUSSED

Church Co-operation Committee Holds Informal Meeting At Y. W. C. A.

Religious interest as expressed on the campus and the attitude of the people of Eugene and those in the rest of the state, was discussed at an informal meeting of the Church Co-operation committee at the Y. W. C. A. Bungalow last Thursday.

The committee is composed of two student representatives, a man and a woman, from each church in Eugene. Wayne Akers from the Y. M. C. A. and Jean MacKenzie from the Y. W. C. A. head the committee the object of which is to co-operate more closely with the downtown churches and to help arouse interest in the Bible study courses.

As an example of what some people think of the religious life of the University an incident was related where an Eastern Oregon minister in the course of his sermon declared that there was no religious life whatsoever at the University. This is the work of this committee to change these ideas.

After careful observation of the students, the committee say that there is this year on the campus a lively interest in religious matters and that a greater number of students are attending church services in Eugene than in the past.

She says that Ruth Flegal, chairman of the luncheon committee has everything well arranged and expects that the luncheon will be a great success. The present calculation is that more than two thousand will attend the luncheon.

UNIVERSITY JOINS TOWN IN OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY

Dean Dymont Makes Address at Armory; Major Baird Presents Medals.

R. O. T. C. BATTALION IS PROMINENT IN PARADE

Students and Faculty in Line of March; Spirit of Memorial Rules.

Standing in silence with bowed heads for one minute in honor of the men who have died in the service of their country, the citizens of Eugene and students of the University of Oregon at the Armistice Day program in the Armory yesterday morning expressed their feeling that the day of gratitude and jubilation should be intermingled with respect for the fallen warriors. Dean Colin V. Dymont, the principal speaker on the program, emphasized the significance of the minute of memorial in the opening of his address by saying: "How fitting it is that in the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, now and throughout the centuries, the men and women of America should pause to consider the events of 1918."

Dean Dymont pronounced Armistice Day, 1918, the greatest day in American history since 1776. He said that the day was yet too new in the national life to have taken on its final significance. "It is celebrated with fervor, but its meaning is still unfixed," said Dean Dymont. "What is its spirit to be? Is it to be merely another holiday? Is it to be a triumphal day? A day of gratitude for our deliverance? A day of memorial? Or a day of self consecration to the service of the republic?"

Not a Day for Gloating.

In later remarks in his speech to the large audience which crowded the chilly Armory, Dean Dymont said Armistice Day was too portentous and too sacred to be devoted to gloating over a fallen foe, but must for some time yet remain a day of gratitude for deliverance and especially a day of gratitude to those who made sacrifice, whether at home or abroad.

Ben Dorris, commander of the Lane County post of the American Legion, paid a tribute to Dean Dymont, who was searcher with the 91st Division in France, and Belgium, by saying that out of the 1500 men who were killed in the division, details were known in the cases of all but 13 or 14. Mr. Dorris said it was through Dean Dymont's untiring efforts that this remarkable record was made. The material was obtained on the field and in the company billets.

Grateful for Deliverance.

Concluding his address, Dean Dymont spoke on the ultimate significance of Armistice Day. We have lost the feeling of triumph, if ever we had it. We are grateful for our deliverance, but the memory of the shadow will some day grow dim. We revere our dead, as we shall ever do; but as years go on, the names of the dead will pass and they will become one collective memory as of those who died in the Civil war.

"But Armistice Day will go on — perhaps for ever. I pray it may not degenerate into merely another holiday. I call upon all men and all women as the years go on to consecrate themselves anew each Armistice Day, and increasingly, to the service of the republic."

Victory Medals Presented.

Following Dean Dymont's address, Major Raymond C. Baird presented eleven men with victory medals, and two veterans, Norval W. Orr and Estell B. Berryman, were presented with fourraguerres, the French military citation.

In the parade which preceded the program, the University R. O. T. C. battalion won great commendation by the splendid appearance made, and demonstrated to the people of Eugene the progress made by the military department of the University. This was the first time that the corps took part in anything down town.

The battalion marched from the barracks to the Armory, and there took their place at the head of the parade, going up Willamette street, from the depot to Thirteenth street, and then back down Oak street to the Armory.

Rooks Trimmed 13 to 0 Sun Dodgers Are Here

Oregon Smothers O. A. C. Babes in Peppy Battle on Slippery Field.

ROOKS UNABLE TO STOP FROSH ATTACK

Punting Game Started in 2nd Quarter; Garrity Makes 40-Yard Run.

With a score of 13 to 0 the Oregon freshmen walked away with the game between them and the O. A. C. Rooks held on Hayward field yesterday afternoon. During the entire game the frosh showed their superiority to the Aggie delegation and at no time during the battle was there any doubt as to the outcome. The O. A. C. Babes put up a good fight, however, and did not give in until the last whistle blew.

The field was very slippery, due to the rain which began to fall about noon. This fact slowed up the game. The struggle was marked by fumbles on both sides, but the rain seemed to injure the work of the O. A. C. men more than that of the Oregon frosh. O. A. C. tried numerous passes but due to the slippery condition of the ball only one was completed, and that for no gain.

Burton Bucks Over.

Captain "Kenny" Burton of the frosh opened the game by kicking off to O. A. C. Lute Gill of the O. A. C. team took the ball back for twenty yards through a broken field and was downed by Burton. On the first down O. A. C. fumbled and Oregon recovered the ball. From that time on the Oregon backfield showed the stuff they were made of. Repeated plunges by Parsons, Burton, Chapman and Johnson put the ball on O. A. C.'s 8 yard line. There the rooks held for three downs. Parsons tried to pass across the line but the play was incomplete. The rooks punted out of danger. As soon as Oregon recovered the ball the team begin to move toward the O. A. C. goal again. Parsons showed himself a good prospect for future varsity teams in his plunging through the O. A. C. line. The rooks couldn't seem to stop him. Burton carried the ball over for the first Oregon score. Parsons kicked goal. Burton kicked off again. The rooks were held for three downs, and the quarter ended as Oregon received a fifteen yard penalty for hold.

21 Sundodgers Headed By Stub Alison Coming for Big Battle.

BOTH TEAMS SEEM IN BEST OF CONDITION

Huntington Expects Hard Fight But Will Make No Predictions.

Twenty-one University of Washington football players accompanied by their coaching staff, headed by Head Coach "Stub" Allison and Assistant Coach "Wee" Coyle, will arrive in Eugene this morning, primed for the big annual Oregon-Washington battle which will take place on Hayward field tomorrow afternoon. The team will go through a light signal practice this afternoon on the Oregon gridiron after which they will rest up from their trip, and get into the best possible shape for the fray.

The Oregon eleven went through a two hours signal workout on the practice gridiron yesterday morning getting the final touches for the big contest. The last scrimmage practice was held Wednesday evening and for tonight only a short signal workout will be held. Coach Huntington appears to be well satisfied with the outlook and although he is not making any predictions on the outcome, the Washington eleven will have some battle on their hands to vanquish Oregon fight tomorrow afternoon.

Mead and Chapman Worked.

Coach Huntington worked Steers at quarter, King at full and Mead and Chapman at halves to start signal practice yesterday. During the morning he also used Hill and Jacobberger at halves and Reinhart at quarter. The line-up in the back field will in all probability be first mentioned quarter.

In a tentative line-up given out from the Washington training quarters, the Sundodgers have a line averaging in weight 179 pounds; this is the same average weight that Coach Huntington's line will tip the scales at. According to the dope from the North, Allison will use a backfield weighing 156 pounds. Huntington's backs will aggregate an average of 166 pounds which should mean something in the drive.

Abel May Lead Foe.

Abel, who piloted the Sundodgers against the lemon-yellow eleven last year may play the quarterback position Saturday, the rest of the backfield will be made up of Eckmann, Harper and Butler. Of this quartet three are letter men. Abel, Eckmann and Butler are all playing their third year with the Washington varsity. In the Oregon backfield will be two letter men, Captain "Bill" Steers, who is playing his third year with the varsity and Chapman who made his letter last year.

In the Washington line will be Dailey, Clark, Smith and Pope and possibly Faulk, who are letter men. The Oregon line will be Howard, "Spike" Leslie, Mautz and possibly "Brick" Leslie who are letter men. The rest of Huntington's line is made up of green material.

Sundodgers Who Are Coming.

The following men are making the trip from Seattle with the Sundodgers' squad: Dailey, Clark, Bryan, Smith, Pope, Ingram, Rogge, Abel, Eckmann, Butler, Harper, Captain Faulk, Fursman, Haynes, Hyndman, Glenn Greene, Turner, Wilson, Porep and Peterson. The condition of "Brick" Leslie who was taken to the infirmary Wednesday with a case of tonsillitis is reported much better and it is yet possible that "Brick" will be in the line-up at the pivot position against the Northerners.

The team appears to be in the best of shape for the battle, and Washington is not suffering from injuries. With a continued rain, the field may not be as fast as the coaches desire, but the turf is still pretty solid and Oregon's speedy backs will not be hampered from this source.

TWO '20 GRADS TO BE HERE.

Miss Grace Knopp and Miss Geraldine Ruch, members of the graduating class of 1920, who are now teaching in Ashland high school are among the students back for Homecoming. Miss Knopp was a major in Spanish while in school here. Miss Ruch was a major in biology.

SOPHOMORE FORGETS AND IT COSTS HIM $13.50

Student Carries Registration Card in Pocket from October 5 Until November 8.

The largest registration fee ever turned in at the registrar's office was parted with Tuesday when a sophomore pre-medie student paid $24.25 to enter the University for a term. He carried his registration card around in his pocket from October 5 until November 8, and was not charged for Saturdays or Sundays. His total fine was $13.50.

This late filing fine-system went into effect last spring and provides that a fine of $1.00 be paid for the first day and a fine of fifty cents for every day afterwards.

A fine of $8.50 was paid by a man last spring, but no one until this man yesterday has paid $13.50 late registration fee.

Mme. McGrew's Mother Wanted Her To Be Red-Haired Opera Singer

INTRODUCING MADAME ROSE MCGREW.

Madame McGrew was a great comfort to her mother. Her mother wanted her to be an opera singer and red-haired. "So," says Madame McGrew, "I came into the world with a loud squawk, fiery hair and a fiery temper, and I still have all three."

The infant "squawk," however, developed into a soprano voice that has sung to thousands and has eighty operas in its repertoire. She is now head of the voice department of the school of music at Oregon.

As a little high school girl with a pig-tail down her back, she went three thousand miles across to Germany, without any of her family, to study music. She belongs originally in Ohio, but her parents moved to Denver when she was quite small. After she had gone to high school there a year and a half she went abroad with a friend who was interested in her voice, to study.

Arrived in Germany she did not know the language, did not know any people, and it was almost too far to come home for week-ends. So she learned the language, made friends, and did the one thing she wanted to do—studied music. All of her singing has been done in Germany, excepting only short appearances in Denver and Eugene. She is intensely American, and finds it amusing that even yet her musical terms come to her in German and she has to pause to think what the English is.

"Please don't forget to say that I kept an American flag draped over my piano all the time I was there," she smiled.
