

CAMPUS HIGH TO BE MODERN STRUCTURE

Auditorium, Laboratory, Art Studio, Gyms, Included.

ROOMS ON ONE FLOOR

April 1 Should See Completion of New Building.

On the completion, about April 1, of the new high school building on Kincaid street and Fourteenth avenue east, the University will have one of the most up-to-date school houses in the northwest, according to Professor Carl L. Douglass, principal of the training school department.

The building is of the one-story type that is becoming so popular in this country, and is of frame body structure with brick veneer. This veneer, says Mr. Douglass, adds to the heating facilities, improves the looks, but does not increase the cost materially.

In addition to the six large class rooms with which the building has been provided, it has a library, laboratory, art studio, auditorium, rest rooms, and a large outdoor gymnasium. The laboratory is in two sections separated by a glass partition. Professor Douglass says this will permit one instructor to supervise two groups of pupils at once.

Picture Booth Fire Proof.
The auditorium will seat 220 persons. A great deal of use will be made of it for class work, according to Professor Douglass. A fireproof booth for a moving picture machine is a feature that will permit of much instruction by the visual method. Also, the auditorium will have stage and dressing rooms, completely equipped, he continues, which will make possible much use of dramatics as part of class work.

The art studio will have a kiln for use in baking pottery. Work will be given in pottery making, linoleum printing, and various kinds of commercial art besides the usual courses.

A rest and study room, with completely furnished kitchenette in connection, is a feature that Professor Douglass thinks will be greatly appreciated by the women teachers.

Locker Rooms Large.
There will be large locker and shower rooms, for both boys and girls to use in connection with the outdoor gymnasium. The gym will be fitted with windows so that it may be closed in and used in any kind of weather. A large covered play porch will extend along one side of the building, and provide additional recreation space for rainy days.

Dean E. F. Lawrence of the school of architecture is the senior member of the firm which designed the structure.
