

Home Again

"Tis an ill wind which blows no good." At least two Oregon graduates believe in this old adage. Grace Knopp, '20, and Geraldine Ruch, '20, who are teaching in Ashland, had given up the plan of returning to Eugene for Homecoming because of the long distance they would have to travel, and the short time they would have here. Just at this time the school furnace decided it had worked long enough, and determinedly refused to burn. So a week's vacation was announced in order to repair the furnace, and Grace and Geraldine are here for the great celebration, with a whole week to enjoy themselves.

Wallace Eakin, graduate of 1916, now city editor of the Albany Democrat, came back for Homecoming bringing with him Mrs. Eakin, who was Marian Tinker before their wedding last summer. Eakin is a former Emerald man, member of Sigma Delta Chi, men's honorary journalism fraternity, and of Kappa Sigma fraternity. Mrs. Eakin is also a graduate of the University and member of Pi Beta Phi.

Elwyn Craven, of Dallas, a freshman last year, is at the Owl Club for the week-end. Craven played in the University band and orchestra while here at school. He plans to return to the University at the end of this quarter.

Merritt Whitten, of the class of 1921, came down from Portland where he is attending medical school, last night. He is a member of the Owl Club.

Lester Parton, of Lebanon, a freshman at Oregon in 1918, arrived Thursday to spend Homecoming at the S-Maralda house.

Theodora Stoppenbach, a student on the campus last year, is spending Homecoming at the Theta house. Miss Stoppenbach is a member of Kwama, sophomore honorary society, and of Kappa Alpha Theta. Her home is in Portland.

Mrs. Charles Dundore of Seattle and Miss Vera Temple of Pendleton, who has recently returned from Chicago are guests at the Kappa Alpha Theta house.

The Kappa Alpha Theta is expecting the following guests for Homecoming week: Mrs. Maurine McAdam Temple, Erma Keithly, Genevieve Shaver, Louise Manning, Theodora Stoppenbach, Mrs. Leila Goddard Fenton, Mrs. McCurtin, Marjorie McGuire, Portland; May Ballock, Albany; Mrs. Cecil Wilcox, Marshfield; Mrs. Grace Bingham Bigbee, Salem; Mrs. Hugg, McMinnville and Mrs. Frances Moller of Hood River.

Gwladys Boyen, ex-'22, daughter of Colonel W. H. C. Bowen, professor of military science at the University during the war, is a Homecoming guest at the Alpha Phi house. Miss Bowen was very active and popular on the campus while she was here. She was a charter member of Pot and Quill, and is a member of Alpha Phi fraternity. She was winner of the Edison Marshall short-story prize two years ago. She is at present secretary to Dr. George Rebec of the extension division, in Portland.

Mrs. Arthur Clarke of Corvallis will be the guest of her sister, Miss Merle Hamilton.

James Sheehy, '19, former president of the student body was among the old "grads" who returned yesterday. Sheehy has been on the staff of the Portland Journal since his graduation from the University school of journalism. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta, Friars, and Sigma Delta Chi.

Miss Dorothy Danniway will arrive this morning from Portland to be a Homecoming guest. Miss Danniway was a member of the class of '20, she was associate editor of the Emerald last year and a member of the student council. She is doing reporting work on the Oregonian this year.

Gladys Paulsen, 1920, instructor in English and Latin in the Dallas high school, Lotta Hollopeter, also of the class of 1920 and who is now teaching history at Roseburg, are two alumni who will return to the campus Friday. Cornelia Hess, 1918, will return to the campus and will be a guest at Hendricks hall. Helen Whitaker who is now teaching at Myrtle Point will also be among the alumni to return. Lois Laughlin, 1919, instructor in English at Roseburg and Lily Miller, 1918, also an instructor in English but at the Marshfield high school are two more Hendricks hall girls who will return to the campus during Homecoming. Dorothy Miller who is teaching English and physical education in the Cottage Grove high school is also coming back for the week-end.

Here's the way we fit out a man --from head to toe

Hats — soft and derby — all the approved colors — backed by such makers as Schoble, Dunlap and Stetson, as well as by our own guarantee of satisfaction.

Shirts and Collars — the best from Earl & Wilson, Geo. P. Ide and other makers, in the latest patterns and weaves.

Gloves—so wide is our range we can say "Anything you wish."

Underwear, pajamas, hosiery, ties — yes, we have in our fall display, these, too.

You like the coat shown here? It's the Ludgate. Ask to see it. You'll like it even better, we are certain, than you think you will.

It's conservative, it's dressy, it's serviceable, and it's stylish.

It's a Society Brand fall model. So you may feel sure of its fabric, its tailoring, its lines.

You'll miss something in clothes if you don't come in and try on a Ludgate.

TO HOLD BREAKFAST ADOPT NEW POST PLAN

Forty Former Cabinet Members Accept Invitations to Annual Affair.

The Y. W. C. A. cabinet has already had letters from 35 or 40 former members accepting their invitation to breakfast at the Anchorage Saturday morning of Homecoming week-end. This breakfast is to be an annual affair from now on and according to Miss Tirza Dinsdale, Y. W. secretary, it promises to be a big success this year.

The girls in the art department are making attractive place cards for the breakfast. There will be short talks from guests representing the different classes in college, which will be in the form of reminiscences of past years.

Commerce School System to Modify Work of Probation Committee.

The school of commerce has adopted a new post system, which, according to Dean Robbins, will assist the posted student very much by keeping him in close touch with his major professor until the post is removed.

According to the new plan, whenever majors in the commerce department receive a post they will be required to obtain a grade report every two weeks from all their instructors and present it to their major professor. "This system will supplement the work of the regular probation committee to a great extent," explained Dean Robbins.
