NOT DURING CLASS HOURS.

The student council, in a special meeting held yesterday afternoon, realizing that the only way to avert drastic action on the part of the faculty to curb any rally celebrations, suggested a possible remedy for the situation at present. They suggested to the faculty that a rally celebration be held from four to six Monday afternoon in event of an Oregon victory over O. A. C. This suggestion was approved by the faculty in spite of the adverse sentiment on the part of some members.

The real issue of the rally celebrations such as was held last Monday is that it interferes seriously with University work. The student council, representing supposedly the entire student body, and its voice in affairs of such nature, frowned on such celebrations as held the first of this week. Classwork was seriously impaired, Oregon spirit was hurt, and Eugene citizens and people throughout the state who heard of the affair were given a wrong impression of the activities of the University.

Such a severe penalty as made by the faculty precludes any thought of a rally during class hours in the future. In a story in another column, the reasons for the action of the faculty are outlined. But no objection was made by the faculty for any rally or celebration held on the campus during hours when classes are not held.

Since the Oregon varsity leaves for Pasadena Sunday, there is no reason for a rally which would impress the team with our appreciation of their work at Corvallis on Monday. Those students who desire to express to the team their loyalty and support, whether Oregon wins or loses today, may do so Sunday, when the varsity leaves for Pasadena to play the University of Southern California. If the students wish to show that team that a united and spirited student body is behind them, they will be at the depot when the team leaves. And by being there they will prove to the student council, the faculty and themselves that it is the Oregon football team which is to be honored.

The Emerald believes that Oregon spirit is impaired when a rally occurs during class hours. It believes that the University suffers a blow when such an outbreak is heard of in the state. It believes that the morale of the varsity football team is hurt when a dance is held by students celebrating the deeds of men who at the time the dance is being held are out plowing through a muddy practice field. It believes that the saner, deep-thinking element on the campus disapproves of such outbreaks, and that this element is composed of the larger part of the student body. And the Emerald will continue to stand for no rally, celebration or dance during class hours.

We have prepared a delicious special to commemorate our new opening—

The "CO-ED"

This box of Chocolates, coated with nuts, assorted, is the most delightful treat of the season. When you have tried them you will agree with me that they are the latest in confection.

Announcements

Debaters. — The material which will be used by the University debaters has been put on reserve down stairs in the library with the economics books and may be obtained at the reserve book window. Room four in the library is now available for the use of the debaters.

CLASSES TO MEET AFTERNOONS.

Due to the fact that none of the new buildings containing class rooms will be ready for use at the beginning of the winter term, any new classes which are scheduled will have to be placed in the afternoon, according to an announcement in the Faculty Bulletin. In the present schedule the morning hours are completely occupied.
